A Good Document.—Whatever may be the complete result of the Charleston Convention, we trust that its proceedings in full will be published in a pamphlet form and scattered throughout the country. A better document for the Republican party it would be hard to get up. The people would like to be refreshed with the bold remonstrances of Butler and Pugh against the further progress of slavery aggression, as involving the utter ruin of the Democratic party North. They would delight to peruse those gushing pro-slavery sentiments of Yancey, which were preceded by weeping on his part, and were attended with the heartiest applause of nearly the whole Southern delegation. They would be deeply interested in the seven days' effort of a great party to define its own principles, and which, when only succeeded at the expense of harmony in its ranks. The manifold offerings and substitutes for the platform would also be worthy of preservation, as well as the attempts to bring forward sundry Presidential candidates. But it is impossible now to indicate the various points of interest which such a document would have, as, at our time of writing, it is not possible to conjecture how much longer the Convention will last, or in what new freaks it will indulge. But we have not the least doubt that the publication of the whole would be an excellent thing for the Republicans, while we fear the Democrats will never undertake the enterprise.—[Boston Journal.]

Photography.—A very remarkable fact comes out in connection with the volume of Lord Brougham's "Mathematical and Physical Tracts," just published by Messrs. Griffin. One of the papers, on the subject of light and colors, was published in the Philosophical Transactions for 1796. The copy sent to the Royal Society contained remarks on the effect of exposing a plate of ivory stained with nitrate of silver to the rays of the spectrum, and also on the result of submitting the plate to the rays passing through a small aperture into a dark room. These suggestions were considered by Sir C. Blagden to relate more to art than to pure science, and were accordingly omitted from the published copy. Had they appeared, it is morally certain that they would have led to the immediate discovery of photography fifty years earlier than its actual introduction. In spite of its abstruse nature, a new edition of the volume was required in a week.—[English Paper.]

A young medical student recently died suddenly at Arcadia, New York, at the house of his expected bride, in the midst of marriage preparations. An only sister of the unfortunate man died, a month or two ago, under circumstances almost precisely similar.

The English scandal-mongers say that the young Prince of Wales is coming to Canada to escape the consequences of injudicious promises made to a Lady C——y——. She is about to commence a suit against him, it is said.

Somebody says the Mississippi raised one foot. When it raises the other it will probably run.

THE EAGLE SLATE COMPANY
BEING prepared to receive orders for their SUPERIOR GREEN AND PURPLE ROOFING SLATES, delivered after the opening of navigation, would call attention to the low cost of this FIRE-PROOF material, and to the great purity of rain-water collected from slate roofs, not being impregnated with taste of decayed shingles or the poisonous qualities of painted metals. They would also caution the public against parties falsely representing themselves as Agents, thereby furnishing an inferior article in our name, as we have no only agency established by the Company being in the City of New York. Parties in Canada and the North Western States wishing for the GENUINE EAGLE CLIFF SLATES will please address the Company, at Shrewsbury, Vt., where orders will receive prompt attention.
O. FORWAN, Vice President.

Notice to Farmers.
THE Subscribers are Agents for McCormick's Reapers and Mowers. Twenty of them now in store, ready to be sown. A sample is sent up for exhibition as Reaper and Mower. Arrangements made by the Patentee and Manufacturers to give us a constant supply, to be sold on best terms offered by them for all ordered from Eastern Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia. We are prepared to take orders at once and ship at any time desired to places designated in the States above named.
