This was so diearly lilegal that it had to be abandoned. They had no power to increase the rate of State Taxation and the people, very properly, refused to submit to it. Their true remedy was to have raised the valuation to the point fixed by the State Board of Revision; but this they had at first neglected and afterwards refused to do; and the consequence is that the deficiency must come out of the County Treasury.

At the time the outery was raised about the action of the Commissioners, as they should have been, nor was any action taken to prevent the inevitable result. The State will have her due, whether levied or not; and if the Commissioners do not levy it in full, the deficiency will have to come out of the county treasury. Why not, then, levy it in full at once?

The Crors.—We have just returned home after a two weeks absence in the west, and have made diligent inquiry as to the crops during our absence. In Central and Northern Ohio the whest does not look as well as it should, and the yield can in no event be a full one; in Central
