DR. R. A. WILSON'S

Tonic, Cathartic and Anti-Dyspeptic

PILLS.

WILSON'S PILLS have had a mere local existence for over twenty years, unsupported by advertising of any kind, and held at double the price of what they are now sold at, yet with all these disadvantages, whatever else they have to no instance failed to render the utmost satisfaction in performing all the requirements of a valuable family medicine, and as such are recommended by a number of the most worthy and responsible citizens of the West. Hear for instance what Col. William Hopkins, of Washington, Pa., says:

From Col. Wm. Hopkins, late Canal Commissioner of the State

WASHINGTON, January 5, 1858.

DR. R. A. WILSON, Pittsburgh, Pa.—I have been using your Anti-Dyspeptic Pills, when occasion required, for many years, and can truthfully say that I have never found any medicine equal to them in relieving me from affection of the stomach and heart; they have never failed to relieve me from headache, and have always left my system in better condition than they found it. I most confidently commend your Pills as a safe and highly valuable medicine.

Yours, respectfully, WM. HOPKINS.

Hear Dr. Keyser.

MESSRS. B. L. FAHNESTOCK & Co.—I have had considerable experience in the use of the extraordinary Pill compounded by Dr. R. Adam Wilson, of which you are now the proprietors, and have often felt their benign influence in my own case for Nervous Headache, arising from a disordered condition of the stomach. I have likewise prescribed them for others in cases of neuralgia and other forms of headache depending on a deranged and irritable condition of the stomach and digestive organs, for which they seem peculiarly adapted, being entirely free from any griping tendency. I regard them as a very valuable Pill, and one that purges, without at all debilitating.

Yours, truly, GEO. H. KEYSER.

Prepared and sold by B. L. FAHNESTOCK & CO., Wholesale Druggists, and Proprietors of B. L. FAHNESTOCK'S VERMIFUGE, No 68, corner of Wood and Fourth streets, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold at retail by Druggists every where. 6d23wdaw1y

Cataract Washing Machine.

CLOTHING, TIDE AND LABOR SAVED.

Indispensable to Housekeepers.

THE MOST SIMPLE, ECONOMICAL and durable article ever offered to the public to alleviate the discomforts of washing.

Description.

It consists of a metal cylinder, with the ribs on the inside, and a reciprocating frame of wood with ribs. There is a space of from 6 to 8 inches between the two cylinders. One crank is sufficient, and is the same form as opposite ends, rapidly creating a suds, forcing the water through the clothes, and effectively removing the dirt. The action of the water and suds is very quickly dispersed, saving rubbing, and thus saves the wear of clothes.

LITTLE AGAINST BIG WORDS.—The purpose of the following lines, written by the late Prof. J. A. Alexander, and published in the Princeton Magazine, is to illustrate the force of simple language. Our readers will agree that it is well done:

MECHANICIANS

I.

Think not that strength lies in a big round word,
Or that the brief and plain must needs be weak.
To whom can this be true who once has heard,
The cry for help, the song of that all man speak,
When want of woe or fear is in the throat.
So that each word gasped out is like a shriek,
Pressed from the sore heart, or a strange wild note,
Sung by some fay or fiend? There is a strength
Which dies if stretched too far or torn too fine,
Which has more height than breadth, more depth than length.
Let but this force of thought and speech be mine,
And be that will may take the slack jet phrase,
Which glows and burns not, though it gleam and shine—
Light, but no heat—a flash, but not a blaze.

II.

Nor is it in mere strength the short word boasts:
It serves more than fight or storm to tell;
The roar of wave that clash on rock-bound coasts,
The crash of tall trees when the wild winds swell,
The roar of guns, the groans of men that die
On blood-stained fields. It has a voice as well
For them that far off on the hill side lie,
For them that weep, for them that mourn the dead,
For them that laugh and dance and clap the hand
To joy's quick step, as well as grief's slow tread;
The sweet plain words we learned at first keep time,
And though the theme be used, or grand, or sweet,
With such, will all, these may be made to chime,
In thought or speech or song, or prose or rhyme.

POLITICAL ITEMS.

The Power of the West.—We have heard that Mr. Douglas says that the next President is to come from Illinois. It will not be the fault of the Republicans if this prediction is not fulfilled. Whether designedly or not, the Chicago Convention has recognized the increasing political power of the west. It is very evident that the time is rapidly approaching when the people of the west will have the chief voice in saying who shall be our Presidents, even if they do not always take them from their own number. Unless we receive large accessions of republican territory, the upper half of the Mississippi valley will control the House of Representatives before the close of the present century. The ideas that are acceptable to that section of the country will shape the policy of our government. The east will doubtless continue to retain its ascendancy in skilled labor and intellectual culture, but the west will have the dominant power in making our laws. There may have been, probably was, no formal or intended recognition of this tendency of power to the west in the action of the Republican Convention. But we are not sorry that their choice lastly fell upon one who represents, and in some sense typifies in his career the vigor and growth of that section which is to be the home of the rulers of this land. We are glad to believe that his honesty, enterprise, love of freedom, patriotism, and steady force, which have won for him the enthusiastic affection of his own State, are the characteristics which are to mark the maturer life of the west, and are thus to appear as salient features of our national character. As we look upon the future power of the free States we can have but slight fears for the cause of freedom. Whatever is acceptable to them, and only that, can be embodied in our national law. Slavery will never pass North of its present boundary. It is continually retreating to the south. Its domain is becoming narrower every decade. We can afford to be patient. We need not be over-hasty. The mighty west is ours, and we are here, and both are dedicated to freedom. We will be just and generous to the south. We will remember that her sons are our brothers and friends. But we will make freedom the policy of the nation.—Free Jour.

The Spirit of the Republican Party.—"Occasional" writes from Washington to Forney's Press that:

"No one can read the proceedings of the Republican Convention, in session at Chicago without being impressed by the enthusiasm and composedness of that organization. The Republicans will make a vigorous and effective struggle for the control of the government. In a few days the orators will be found on the stump in every free State. They will also have champions in four or five of the Southern States. Their journals are unquestionably the ablest and most progressive in America, and their leaders, ambitious and daring men, are resolved to win the character of being able statesmen in the affairs of the Republic of ours. In this city, they have established head quarters, and number many partisans among the local or resident population. Mr. Gurley, Republican member of Cincinnati in the House, is a man of large fortune, and entertains with great and unsparing liberality at his mansion on E street. Mr. Blair, the old editor of the Globe under Jackson and Van Buren, being at 'Silver Spring,' a short distance outside of the town, attracts to his social board daily numbers of the controlling spirits of the same party. Mr. Stewart has his levees on F street. General Cameron and Thaddeus Stephens live in elegant quarters on Capitol Hill, and are ready to receive their friends in the most hospitable manner. Senator Chandler, of Michigan; Senator Trumbull, of Illinois; Mr. Spaulding, of the House; Mr. Sumner, of the Senate, and many others that I could name, are active in their attention to strangers. They are, therefore, initially better organized than the Democratic party. The late votes on the tariff and Territorial bills displayed a discipline and concert of action unusual in our day.

Meanwhile the Democracy are disheartened and demoralized.

LINCOLN DOBBS'T DESERT HIS PRINCIPLES.—James Buchanan, the venerable sage of Wheatland and the occupant of the Presidential Chair, has, since his election to the Chief Magistracy, made speeches warning students against drinking spirituous liquors, and gone home to write an indorsement of some "prime old rye." It will be seen by the following paragraph from the Baltimore Patriot that Old Abe is too honest to desert his principles for the sake of courtesy:

This morning we met with one of the Delegates to the late Chicago Convention, who informed us that the Committee who were appointed to convey to Mr. Lincoln the official notice of his nomination as their candidate for President, repaired to Springfield, Illinois, in the fulfillment of this duty. He stated that Mr. L resides in a comfortable mansion in the suburbs of the city, and as the Committee proceed to his residence, they attracted much attention. His neighbors knowing that Mr. Lincoln was a strictly temperance man, at once dispatched their servants with waiters covered with bottles of wine, brandy, whisky, &c., to enabled him to offer what they conceived was proper to these distinguished guests. Mr. Lincoln met these servants who had the charge of these refreshments; and requested them to say to his friends and neighbors that he duly appreciated their kindness, but he could not consent to violate a long established rule of conduct, and that he should treat his guests with plentiful draughts of delicious and pure ice water.

CASSIUS M. CLAY.—After Abraham Lincoln, no man whose name was mentioned in the great Wigwam at Chicago drew forth such hearty and spontaneous applause from the assembled ten thousand as that of Cassius M. Clay. We know it to have been personally painful to many delegates to withhold their votes from him, as a regard for local and other considerations compelled them to do. It cannot be denied, if the manifestations of the multitude are any test, that he has a stronger hold upon the popular heart than Mr. Seward. In spite of the strong considerations of expediency impelling in another direction, Mr. Clay received a vote which left him but a little way behind his successful competitor. Had all voted for him at the first ballot, the impulse was strongly in his favor, he would undoubtedly have been nominated. Duty, however, seemed to require not only an eastern selection for the second place on the ticket, but also a man of Democratic antecedents, had one particularly acceptable (as we believe Mr. Clay would have been, no less than Mr. Hamlin, but for his location) to the partisans of Mr. Seward.

It is also well known that Clay was preferred, by very many of the people, for the first place on the ticket. He has a bright political future, and with the present, we have reason to know, he is entirely content, heartily supporting the Chicago nominee.—Cin. Com.

THE BELL AND EVERETT FIZZLE.—In addition to the repudiation of Bell and Everett by the old line Americans of New York, the resignation of the Secretary of the Constitutional Union Executive Committee because he could not support the ticket, and other manifestations of disapproval on the part of the country, we have now to record the abandonment of the nominees by the American party of Baltimore—the chief American city in the Union. The Baltimore Patriot says that at the last regular session of the "American Superior Council" resolutions were adopted that the American of Baltimore has determined to maintain its political organization in the municipal election next fall, and to leave its members free, as individuals, to vote as they please in the Presidential election.

A LARGE portion of the Democratic party say that Mr. Douglas cannot possibly be elected to the Presidency. Another large portion say that no other Democrat can be elected to the Presidency. Both, for a wonder, tell the truth.—Lou. Jour.

Song of the Campaign.

AIR.—Uncle Ned.

There was an old sucker, and they called him honest Abe,
And he lived out West, out West;
Work was his pleasure ever since he was a babe,
But now he's gone to have a little rest.

CHORUS.

Then put away the wedges and the maul,
Then get things ready for the fall;
For we're bound to put him through
Just to show what we can do,
And bring about a change—that's all

His fingers alot so long as the one's in office now,
And he has two good eyes in his head;
A full set of brains, and an honest, manly brow,
Which things of many others cant be said.

Chorus—Then put away, &c.

He is the man for the West, and the man for the East,
And the man for the middle portion too;
He'll have every white man's diary increased,
And make plenty of work for him to do.

Chorus—Then put away, &c.

How "Abe" Pulled Fodder.—We have heard, says the Evansville (Ind) Journal, the following anecdote related of the People's candidate for the Presidency, which shows the love of knowledge, the industry, the conscientiousness and the integrity of the subject of this sketch:

It is well known that he lived in Spencer county, above here in Indiana, in his young days. He was a hard working lad, and very eager in his thirst for knowledge. A man named Crawford owned a copy of "Weems' Life of Washington"—the only one in the whole neighborhood. Young Lincoln borrowed that interesting book, (not having money to spare to buy one,) and while reading it, by a slight negligence left it in a window, when a rain storm came up and wet the book so as to ruin it. Young Lincoln felt very badly, but like an honest boy he went to Mr. Crawford with the ruined book, acknowledged his accountability for its destruction, and his willingness to make due compensation. He said he had no money, but would work out the value of the book.

The owner of the book said to him. "Well, Abe, be as it's you, I won't be hard on you. If you will come over and pull fodder for two days I'll let you off."

Abe went over accordingly, and pulled fodder the requisite time; and so tall and handy a lad became the choice of a great many for the light fodder off the tallest stalks, while he took the shortest ones himself.

This story is told with much gusto by one of our prominent citizens who used to know Abe Lincoln in his younger days in Spencer county, and who now—since the once humble lad has become the choice of a great party for the highest office in the world—regards him with strong affection, and supports him with enthusiasm.

MR. DOUGLAS THE CATHOLIC CANDIDATE.—The presence of Archbishop Hughes at the late New York Douglas demonstration at the Cooper Institute is here considered a very significant circumstance. Southern politicians ask, "what does this mean?" They do not understand the stronghold of Mr. Douglas upon the Roman Catholic division of our people. He is emphatically their candidate, and not altogether from his well known free and full recognition and defence, on all occasions, of the equal civil and religious rights of our fellow citizens who are alienated by birth and Catholics in religion. Douglas, one of the most beautiful and interesting, one of the most amiable and fascinating, one of the most intelligent and benevolent of our most distinguished women of the present day, is a sincere, faithful and devoted member of the Roman Catholic church. What could be more? Do we not here recognize an influence appealing to the chivalry, the faith and admiration of the devout Catholic which he cannot resist? Is it likely that Archbishop Hughes does not understand all this? And do we not here discover the substantial underlying popular element which will go a great way to account for the bold unyielding front which Mr. Douglas maintains against his Democratic Presidential rivals and enemies.—N. Y. Herald

WHY TWO DEMOCRATS SHOULD RUN.—In an editorial on the advantages of the Democratic split, the Charleston Mercury says: "When the election comes to centre in the House of Representatives, by the failure to obtain for any candidate a majority of all the votes cast in the Electoral Colleges, the States vote as States, each casting one vote. South Carolina will then be equal to New York, Alabama to Pennsylvania, Mississippi to Ohio, and it is remembered that the Southern States must always be of less smaller States, when compared with the Northern States, is it not clearly the policy of the South to force
