THE FATE OF THE TARIFF.

The Morrill tariff bill has met the fate in the Senate which its enemies have all along prophesied for it, and which its friends feared was prophesied too truly. The resolution to extend the session to the 25th has been adopted, but Mr. Hunter's motion to postpone the tariff bill until next winter will prevail, by about the same majority as that given for the amendment to the appropriation bill, authorizing a loan of $20,000,000 to fund the outstanding Treasury notes. This was a part of the House tariff bill, but Mr. Hunter has managed to tack it on to the civil appropriation bill. The House, of course, will strike it out, in the hope of bringing the Senate to terms; but the Senate will insist, at the risk of losing the appropriation bill altogether.

There can be no doubt of the propriety of the course that will probably be followed by the House. If the administration is determined that we shall not have the tariff, it should be denied the power which it seeks of funding the treasury notes. These notes fall due on the 1st of July, and the government is without the means to redeem them. Its only recourse is a loan; and the power to make this loan should be peremptorily refused by the House unless the democratic majority in the Senate concede the tariff bill with it. If the administration will not voluntarily give what is due to the suffering industry of the country, it should be coerced into it. It was with this view that the House incorporated the provision for a loan for funding the Treasury notes in the Tariff bill, and we trust it will insist upon keeping it there. No matter if the appropriation bill does fail. Let the democratic Senate take the responsibility of its failure and the administration the burden of calling an extra session, and then let the House sit, if need be, until December, determined not to adjourn until the Tariff bill is passed.

Greensburg Literature.

It was a quaint conceit of some one that an "author" was like a stalk of asparagus—the head being the best part of him. This might be metaphorically and craniologically true of an admitted celebrity, but the simile does not hold good as to your mere dabbler in the business, or those fellows of the baser sort who do up a sensation novel or a campaign Biography to order, with equal ease and relish. Such an one might more appropriately be termed a mauvais sujet, or in common parlance a "bad egg," of which the outside is the better part. One of this class has recently attempted the life of the Democratic candidate for Governor of this State, and we have now before us, as the result of his labors, a pamphlet of some 50 pages, labeled a "Biographical Sketch of the Hon. Henry D. Foster, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania. Greensburg: printed by James Keenan & Co., publishers of Democrat." The typographical execution is, we must fairly presume, in the highest style of the art as it is yet known in that ancient borough. It would seem, however, judging from the quality and texture of the paper on which it is printed, that the art and mystery of the manufacture of that fabric is still in its infancy in "Old Westmoreland." Be these minor matters as they may, let us hasten to cull from this "Sketch," for the delectation of our readers, such choice extracts as will enable them to form some idea of the ability of the author, as well as a realizing sense of the claims thus put forth of H. D F. to Gubernatorial honors.

With a nice regard to events in their chronological order, which cannot but elicit general admiration for its novelty, our Greensburg Biographer commences at the nativity of the Democratic candidate and apprises us that the Hon. Henry D. was "born in Mercer, Mercer county, Pa." This fact is, of course, thus stated to correct any impression that may have crept abroad that like Topsy in Uncle Tom he was not born, but only "growed." In Mercer, Mercer county, Pa., H. D. F. lived until prepared to "enter college" which he did, we are told, at a very tender age Of the achievements of this then young sprig of Democracy while at "college," or of the manner in which he acquitted himself in his collegiate course we are left in a sad state of ignorance by his Biographer. While yet young and callow, we learn, however, the juvenile Foster was remarked as "a boy of great assiduity, with a clear, strong and vigorous mind," a precocity which ill-natured persons might perhaps cite as another illustration of the adage that "bright boys usually make very dull men." In 1829 after three years of studious labor the subject of this sketch was admitted to the Bar, and from and after that date appears to have remained perdu until 1841, when one David R. Porter was nominated for Governor. At this crisis, heroically exclaims our enamored artist, Mr. Foster "went in" to the contest "with his coat off," and the result of his going in, thus partially denuded of his usual wearing apparel, was that old Westmorsland "rolled up" a Democratic majority! No record is made, although we have looked carefully, of Mr. F. having put his coat on again since that Quixotic exploit and we are apprehensive that he may at this moment be walking around the avenues of Greensburg electioneering in his shirt-sleeves, a method which we regard as at variance with all known rules of political warfare and decidedly unfair towards our standard bearer, Col. Curtin. In 1848-44 H. D. F. was, as it seems, elected to Congress and it is gravely asserted "made several excellent speeches," but being of a disposition that did not court what is known as buncombe, he never wrote them out for publication in the Congressional Globe!! As Congress always has employed a corps of short-hand reporters whose sole business and duty it is to take down and report as uttered, the remarks of the Honorable members, for publication in the Globe aforesaid, we confess to a suspicion that the "several excellent speeches" here referred to were never delivered at all. The only hypothesis which prevents utter skepticism with us on this point is that these reporters being themselves judges of buncombe may have not thought it worth while to transcribe and jot down the efforts in that line of the member from Westmoreland. But his Greensburg Biographer has happily found one speech on the tariff made, as is alleged, by the subject of his sketch, and which having been written out at the time, is now rescued from oblivion. This apocryphal Tariff speech is paraded with a great flourish of trumpets, and the author then proceeds with the old story that the Democratic party in general, and H. D. F. in particular, are intensely sound and reliable on this Pennsylvania issue. Now we are disposed to concede that the Hon. Henry D. Foster was a very good boy and decidedly precocious when young, that he displayed great skill and prowess in the manner in which he "went in" for David R Porter, having first removed his coat and neck tie; we might, for the fun of the thing, concede that he made "several excellent speeches" when in Congress, of which unfortunately, we have nothing left to us but tradition, but we can't submit to this Tariff dodge. Our Artist in this part of the sketch displays a degree of ignorance in every way commensurate with his assurance in thus attempting to hoodwink his readers. In speaking of the Tariff of 1857, he says:

"But in 1857, the Tariff was so remodeled as to entirely paralyze the interests of our State—It may be well to consider how and by whom this was done; and whether the party which passed the Tariff of 1857 should be permitted to deceive the honest-thinking, hard-working people of Pennsylvania, by telling them that they are in favor of protecting home industry."

The record of the vote upon the Tariff of 1857 is perhaps the most effective reply that can be made to an attempt so impudent as this to fasten upon the Republican party the responsibility of the passage of that Tariff, and places our Greensburgh writer in a rather awkward dilemma. Not to put too fine a point on it, our artist, biographer or author, appears to be quite as much of a knave as he evidently is a dunce. Here is the official vote:

In the House the vote stood yeas 124, nays 71. Of the 71 nays, 70 were Republicans and one Democrat. Of the Democrats in the House, all but that one voted for the bill. In the Senate, all the Democrats voted for the bill except Mr. Brodhead, of Pa., James, of R I., and Wright, of N. J. Even Mr. Bigler voted for it.

"In 1851, H. D Foster was a candidate for a seat in the United States Senate, and "would have been successful," our Biographer laconically writes it, "had it not been for one of his friends who was over zealous." This friend appears to have done the same part for H. D. F. which our artist has succeeded in so admirably.

But we tire of the matter, and must here pause for the present. There are many passages of striking originality of expression which merit especial notice. One must suffice:

"Dark indeed was the cloud which hung around the destinies of our country. In that dread hour, the eyes of the whole country were turned to Pennsylvania—her actions would determine for weal or woe her dreaded future. In many another trying hour, when the old ship of State has been dashed on the wave of public passion, she has poured her oil of conservatism upon the troubled waters, and restored the blissful calm; and why should she not at this time?"

"Her dreaded future" we call good; the "waves of public passion" throw Falconer's shipwreck in the shade; but the "oil of conservatism" completes the climax of tragic horror.

Buy the Greensburg Sketch, oil of conservatism included, for the astonishingly low price of 15 cents, and be enlightened.

"The World"—This new daily paper made its appearance in New York on Thursday, and large numbers were offered for sale here yesterday. It aims to take the highest rank, both as a secular newspaper and a religious journal. Its prospectus says: "Neither assuming or seeking to be a preacher of religious doctrine, it yet will recognize, in all its judgments upon the practical affairs of life, the authority and efficacy of Christian principles. Its capital has been supplied by members of various religious denominations, and it will do its work, without bias, on the common ground of the great primal Christian truths." It is a very handsome paper about the size of the Tribune, ably edited and fully up to the standard of newspaper enterprise. Alexander Cummings, of the Philadelphia Bulletin, is the publisher, and his energy will undoubtedly make it go.

Another Fiendish Outrage.—On Wednesday afternoon of last week, a Mrs. Mills, wife of Mr. James Mills, who resides about four miles from Ebensburg, while returning home on horseback from a visit to her mother, was overtaken on a by-road by a man named Samuel Welsh, dragged from her horse and brutally outraged. Welsh is a peddler of earthenware, glass, &c., from Allegheny City, and had gone to Ebensburg to procure a license permitting him to prosecute his business within the limits of this county. Information of the outrage was speedily made before a Justice in Ebensburg, a warrant issued and placed in the hands of officer Gageby of this Borough, who, in company with Mr. John P. Jones of Ebensburg, came to Johnstown that night and arrested the fellow early next morning in his boat. He was returned to Ebensburg and lodged in jail. An indictment was immediately laid before the Grand Jury, who found a true bill against him upon the charge of rape. His trial has been deferred until next term.—Cambria Trib.

The Arctic Voyager.—Peterson, the Arctic voyager who accompanied Dr. Kane and Captain McClintock's Arctic expeditions and whose services are handsomely alluded to by Dr. Hayes in his "Arctic Boat Journey," is now living in a small village near Copenhagen. His wife is a half-breed Esquimaux, and is totally blind. Peterson has been cordially received by the King of Denmark since his return, and has given, by request, conversational lectures before geographical and other societies.

A Just Rebuke.—The House of Representatives did a commendable thing yesterday in passing the resolutions censuring the President and Secretary of the Navy for abusing their discretionary power in the expenditures of the Navy Department. These officers had perhaps done nothing uncommon in using the patronage of the government to reward political friends, but the fact that similar abuses have the sanction of custom, and have been growing upon us for some years, is a very insufficient palliation of this corrupt exercise of executive discretion. We trust that this exposure and rebuke may have a salutary effect on the executive department of the government. The House has done its duty firmly, but deliberately. These resolutions were referred to the Committee on Naval Expenditures in February, and the investigation has been conducted without haste, and, we believe, without unfairness, though doubtless prompted by party spirit. We do not concern ourselves with the party aspect of the matter, but, in common with all good citizens, we have regretted the party uses to which the government patronage has been perverted at Washington, and hope that the moral sense of the people will support their representatives in the signal rebuke they have now had the nerve to administer.

The sixty-five votes in favor of laying the resolutions of censure on the table were all given by Democrats; all the South Americans, together with Adrian, Clark, and Hastin of this state, Davis of Indiana, and Harris of Illinois, voted in the negative. The state of the vote would seem to indicate that fidelity to a party object, more than a sense of justice, controlled the negative votes.—The World

The report reached us from Brewen that crowds of industrious German vine-growers and farmers are leaving that port, all headed for Missouri. Some three hundred have already reached St. Louis. They are regarded as the very best immigrants that could enter a State, and the branch of agriculture which they pursue is a deeply important one for the country. It is interesting to know, too, that they will greatly increase the Free-Labor force of Missouri, and hasten on the day of emancipation. This immigration is the fruit of many preserving efforts on the part of the "Farmers' and Vine Growers' Society" of this City, who last year despatched an agent to Germany, and printed books and phamlets upon Missouri.—N. Y. Trib

Shocking Tragedy in Texas.—The Hopkins Monitor has a lengthy account of the doings of the negroes in Grayson co., Texas. Near Denton tuckytown a man named Kincade whipped his negro boy. That same night the negro, while all else were asleep, killed the entire family with an axe; first his master, then his mistress, then the orphan boy and a little babe. The negro confessed his guilt, was tried and hung. Several white men were implicated, but nothing definite known. A few days after three more negroes were hung as implicated in the murder. The bodies of the negroes were not suffered to be removed from the trees, but will be allowed to hang there as warnings to others.

Salt of the Connecticut Mine.—We understand that the copper mine, loosed near Eagle Harbor, Lake Superior, has been purchased by Philadelphians, and will be worked under the name of the Amygdaloid Company. They own about one mile of the "Northwest Amygdaloid belt," a deposit which is yielding so well on the North west's location.—Detroit Adv.

Dyspepsia! Dyspepsia!! Dyspepsia!!!

What is it? How Cured?

DYSPEPSIA is our National Disease—weak stomach, feeble digestion, distress after eating, costive habit, bilious condition. How many of us have the attendant symptoms—low spirits, bad taste, coated tongue, obstinate bad and sick attacks of headache! Yet how few know how to cure it! Generally, because the bowels are constipated, resort is had to cathartics, or laxatives. But such a condition was never cured by cathartics, whose only office is to weaken the bowels and impair the integrity of the entire assimilative system.

But HUMPHREY'S HOMEOPATHIC DYSPEPSIA PILLS—a simple medicated sugar pill—have cured hundreds of the worst and most obstinate cases. This is done simply by improving the tone and restoring the integrity of the digestive organs, from which result good appetite, regular habits, a clear head and buoyant spirits. Such a medicine is a gem, and only requires to be known to be appreciated.

Price, 25 cents per box, with directions. Six boxes, $1

N. B—A full assort of Humphrey's Homeopathic Specifics, with Book of Directions, and twenty different Remedies, in large vials, morocco case, $5, in plain case, $4. Family case of fifteen boxes and book, $4.

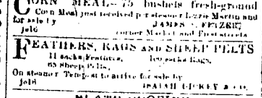
BLOOMFIELD'S REAPER AND MOWER.



20,000 Sold in the Last Five Years!

Being a Larger Number than is Manufactured by any other single Establishment in the World.

THE MACHINE for 1860 will be found so greatly improved as fully to meet the wants of farmers. Both as a Reaper and as a Mower—one is added to its construction, as now to be—for both purposes. While cutting a swath several inches wider than the Two Horse Machine of last season, it is the whole, narrower, lighter and stronger, and will run much easier—with no material side draught. We present, therefore, for the coming season, a machine one inch wider than those of most makers, with a light draught for two horses, in Reaping or Mowing—LIGHTER THAN IS REQUIRED BY MUCH NARROWER MACHINES. By the perfection and lightening of this machine, in connection with a patented self-jointed Knife Bar, (with the wheel flange,) the cutting apparatus when mowing, is now easily thrown over obstructions while in motion, simply by the weight of the driver in his place, thus dispensing with all levers and complicated arrangements to effect the same object.

The machine of 1860 will be found superior as a MOWER, presenting some peculiar features and attainable by other MAKERS. The Two Horse Machine, in sub cutting, will fit fire and one half inches, or full and not a fraction brought, as compelishing a greater amount of work with a less expenditure of power than any machine made.

Save Your Carpets!

THE great enquiry has been made for a number of years by housekeepers, What shall we put under our carpets to protect them from wear and moth?—This grand and valuable discovery was effected and patented April 1st, 1856, by J. R. HARRINGTON, and is called Harrington's Patent Carpet Lining.

This article having proved its utility has now come into general use, so much so that scarcely a carpet will be put down with out it, and its cheapness puts it within the reach of every family. It is warranted to add fifty per cent. to the durability of Carpets, Oil Cloths and Mattings. The details of its merits are too numerous to mention. It can be obtained at any of the principal Carpet Stores throughout the United States, and is manufactured only by the NEW YORK CARPET LINING COMPANY.

Also, extensive manufacturers of MAMMOTH COTTON BATTING AND COMFORTABLES, the best and cheapest that have ever been introduced in the market.

Office 11 Dey St., Salesroom 440 Pearl Street.
NEW YORK.

☞All orders or informs ion requested will be attended to with promptness and dispatch.

Under the supervision of the patentee.
