DR. R. A. WILSON'S
Tonic, Cathartic and Anti-Dyspeptic
PILLS.

WILSON'S PILLS have had a more local existance for the last over twenty years, unsupported by advertising of any kind, and hold double the price of what they are now sold at, yet with all these disadvantages, they never have been in an instance failed to render the utmost satisfaction in performing all the requirements of a valuable family medicine, and as such are recommended to the world as the most worthy and responsible article now sold. Hear for instance what Col. William Hopkins, of Washington, Pa., says:

From Col. Wm. Hopkins, late Consul Commissioner of the State of Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, January 1, 1855.

DR. R. A. WILSON, Pittsburgh, Pa.—I have been using your Anti-Dyspeptic Pills, upon occasion required, for many years, and can truthfully say that I have never used any medicine equal to them in relieving me from affections of the stomach and bowels; they have never failed to relieve me from headache, and have always left my system in better condition than they found it. I must confidently commend your Pills as a safe and highly valuable medicine.

Yours, respectfully, WM. HOPKINS.

Hear Dr. Keyser.

MESSRS R. L. VANSWEARE & Co.—I have had considerable experience in the use of the extraordinary Pill compounded by Dr. R. Adams Wilson, of which you are now the proprietors, and have often felt their benign influence in my own case, in the severe Headache, arising from a disordered condition of the stomach. I have likewise prescribed them for others, in cases of Amaurosis and other forms of headache depending on a deranged and irritable condition of the stomach and digestive organs, for which they seem peculiarly adapted, being entirely free from any griping tendency. I regard them as a very valuable Pill, and one that purges, without at all debilitating.

Yours, truly, GEO. H. KEYSER.

Prepared and sold by R. L. FAHNESTOCK & CO., Wholesale Druggists, and Proprietors of R. L. FAHNESTOCK'S VERMIFUGE, No. 60, corner of Wood and Fourth streets, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold at retail by Druggists everywhere. 6-23-3mos&ly

How the King of Naples Hated Sicily.

[From the London Times, May 21.]

From all that we can learn from the island, it is plain that the rule of King Francis is doomed, and that no reconciliation can take place between him and his subjects. The cause of this state of things has been often alluded to, but it involves details so revolting and so incredible that, though vouched for by Italians of the highest note, though the subject of indignant denunciation by Mr. Gladstone, though corroborated by the official dispatches of the English Minister at Naples, though made a reason, four years ago, for breaking off diplomatic relations with the Court of the Two Sicilies, yet we hardly know how to speak of them. Statements, have how ever, been published in Paris, which, if true, leave no doubt that the horrors enacted in Naples have been far surpassed by the crimes which have driven the Sicilians into rebellion. The capital and the adjoining territory are chastised with whips, but Sicily with scorpions. We may express our conviction that the facts we are about to narrate are essentially true. Certain details may be highly colored, and a melodramatic air given to deeds which are only simply horrible; but the evidence from so many quarters is concurrent, and the names and dates are too fully particularized and the charges have been too long uncontradicted for us to doubt their accuracy. The government of the King of Naples must be convicted of crimes compared with which the brutalities of Ferdinand VII. or the inanities of the Grand Duke Constantine, are insignificant.

On the first of February in the present year the Minister of Police at Naples, Ajossa, sent a circular to the Intendants, or Prefects, stating that the King, his master, had deigned to consult during the whole of the year the commissions instituted for applying the bastonnade to the disturbers of the public peace. This open announcement prepares us for anything that may follow. It is evident that when such directions are officially given from the centre of authority, the subalterns in a remote province will not be very scrupulous as to their proceedings. So has it been with Sicily. This island in fact was until the breaking out of the insurrection, under the power of a certain Maniscalco, Director of Police. The police is entirely independent of the regular judicial administration, so that it may be that a case is "the prisoner of the police, and not of justice"—a phrase not meant at all to be satirical, but of most serious import, as many unhappy wretches have found, since an imprisonment in this case cannot be interfered with by any constituted authority, except Manisalco and his myrmidons. Monreale, near Palermo, is the headquarters of this tyrant, and hunger, darkness and torture, chiefly by digging, are used to extract avowals of complicity in political plots. Recently an old man, and his daughter, for gone in pregnancy, perished under the lash.

In January of this year, a certain Giovanni Visona, of Messina, was arrested for carrying a letter in cypher. As he could not or would not state to whom it was addressed, he was placed in a boat belonging to the police, and conveyed to the desert shore of Cape Zafferana. There his hands and feet were tied, he was put into a sack, plunged into the sea, and held until he was dead no longer. He was then restored, and exhorted to confess, but, as he had nothing to tell, he was put again for a time in the water, and when taken back to Palermo was nearly a lifeless body. He is supposed since to have died. In 1845, it is said that the people, making themselves masters of the police buildings, found rooms which bore traces of the enormities there perpetrated. The use of a sort of thumbscrew, and of a tarsh-pot applied to the head, which makes the eyes start forth and almost drop, is attested by many witnesses. If the following atrocities are correct, and we have no reason to doubt, the diabolical instruments must be brought into rather frequent use. One Casimer Arismanno was accused of liberal principles. He took flight, and his wife, Anna and daughters were arrested as hostages, and subjected to the torture. Pontillo, a Lieutenant of Manisculco, had interred an armchair, in which the victim is seated on a sort of gridiron, under which is a pan of coals—Bruno, another officer of police, ties the head of the victim between his legs, and leaves him in that position until he states what is desired of him. Louis Manisculco, a nephew of the Director, has invented what is called, in the slang of the birri, the "angelic instrument," in which, by turning a screw, the limbs of the victims are crushed. On one occasion a man was suspended in the air, his arms being tied to one wall, and his legs to another, and in that position an officer of the police jumped upon his body and beat him. The suspected persons are turned out of their houses on the smallest pretexts; fines, confiscations and pillage ruin all who fall under the anger of the Director of Police. The wonder is, not that the Sicilians rebel, but that they have borne such horrors so long.

THE PORT'S OWN.—The Irish crusaders who are flocking to the standard of St. Peter and the Blessed Virgin, to battle—as the Irish journalists put it—beneath the "Sun-Burst of Erin," in green and glorious uniforms, emboldered with the harp that once, through Tara's halls the soul of music poured, are beginning to discover that the priest, who promises, is one person, and the Pope, who performs, another. We are assured from Ireland that the friends and relations of these valiant volunteers look on their departure with a "calm resignation," which is more creditable to the good sense of the bereaved than flattering to the self-respect of the emigrants. Ireland is evidently quite able to bear up under the loss of the flower of "fighting Tipperary," bent on earning the Pope's benediction and St. Peter's pence in the shape of silver Roman pauls. But Italy—even that small knot of fanatics who compose what still remains of Papal Italy—does not seem to welcome the exiles of Erin half so warmly as they are dismissed by their friends. We published yesterday mourning the doleful story of some Irish recruits at Ancona, who died then bitten and famished from the barracks of his Holiness to beg the protection of the hated "Saxon" Consul, and were very properly sent back to lie in the beds which their priests had made for them.

The London Herald, the organ of the Conservatives, the friend of despotisms in general and of Austria in particular, with all its tenderheartedness towards the "Irish Brigade" in the House of Commons, is beginning to let in some sad side-lights upon the "Irish Brigade" in Italy. The Herald inexorably sets forth the following life like picture of Irish recruits at Ancona: There is a touch of nature in the "drunken imbecility" of the thirty five who accepted their fate, which vouches for the exactness of the whole sketch:

"We hear from Ancona that out of forty Irish recruits who had lately arrived at that city, fifteen refused to take service, alleging that they had been deceived both as regards the cause which they were engaged to defend, and the treatment which they were to receive. The remainder of the party were conveyed to their quarters in a state of drunken imbecility."

The ignorant and tolerant Irish clergy who drove these poor wretches to their doom, by playing on their bigotry and exciting their greed, deserve something sharper than the scorn of all Christian men. For the hapless peasants themselves, while no voice can be lifted to question the justice of the retribution which awaits them, it is impossible not to feel a certain compassion. The brutal Austrian drill, in which alone, of all the Papal soldiery, the Papal sub-officers are tolerably perfect, and the malaria of the Marches, will begin for them that moral discipline which the bayonets of the Italian army will develope and complete.—*N. THE NEW YORK Tribune has an exclusive item about the defeat of agreat diamond swindle. An individual staying at the New York Hotel, representing himself to be M. de Latour, of the French firm of diamond merchants, sent for Mr. Tiffany, the jeweler, and explaining himself, desired to procure $3000 worth of diamonds, to supply an order received in America since his arrival, five days since. Mr. Tiffany suspected him, and finally procured a shrewd diamond broker, who furnished the desired supply. The broker, Mr. Tiffany and Latour were together in a room. Latour put the diamonds in a little box, which he gave with a check on a banker for the money, told the broker to scan the document and then return the box. But the broker perceived a trick. The box had a false bottom, and the diamonds had slipped into another receptacle. Seizing the package the broker exclaimed, "Your's was a very good game, Sir; but it's played out." Thereupon Mr. De Latour, with the most unexceptionable coolness, was surprised at his mistake, rather offended at the broker's facetiousness, and very desirous that he and Mr. Tiffany should do up the package themselves, and be off to his bankers', where they would discover the truth. By a strange caprice, they did go to the bankers'; but it was no surprise to them that Messrs. Duncan, Sherman & Co. know of no such individual as G. Latour, nor of any one of the De Latour connections either in Calcutta, Paris, London, or New York. Proceeding back to the hotel, for the purpose, doubtless, of conferring with their customer regarding his mistake, they found the bird flown. But they found the box, an ordinary little affair of wood, only different from a thousand other boxes in the simple circumstance that some one of the De Latour family, who is doubtless a cunning artificer with cabinet maker's tools, had nicely cut out a considerable section of the bottom, in such a manner that a small package put in at the top would have "happy dispatch" right through. The escaped rogue is a gentleman in appearance, his exquisitely nice apparel, graceful form, dark hair and eyes, and rather pallid complexion, giving him quite a distingue presence.

A SPEAKING STYLE OF CHIVALRY.—A good specimen of fire-eating "chivalry" was furnished at Baltimore in the difficulty between Hindman and Hooper. Hooper struck Hindman a severe blow in the face, and then, in the now well-known fashion, instantly drew a pistol, which he held close to his opponent's head, and kept it there after he discovered that he was unarmed. The least movement to resent the insult on the part of the latter would, of course, have been the signal for his assassination; so, after trying to borrow a pistol, he was obliged to sit down in silence. This trick of beating and insulting a man, having previously provided the means of murdering him, in case he is maddened or surprised into resistance, which Brooks practised so successfully in Sumner's case, and which is now so common at the South that it has come to be considered a legitimate display of "Smartness," is one of the most degrading of the many barbarous fruits by which Southern life—and, above all, Southern political life—begins to be marked. We might forgive its ferocity, its recklessness about taking life, the fiendish intensity which seems to mark all private animosities; but this sneaking treachery which of late years has crept into their management of their "difficulties," is one of the signs of the times which all sober-minded Southerners must contemplate with dismay.
