PUBLIC ATTENTION is requested to the advertisement, in this morning's paper, of Messrs. Lyon, Shorb & Co., of the Sligo Iron Works; warehouse No. 121 Water street. This old and popular establishment is still carrying on a very large business, as it has done for a number of years, and in to-day's advertisement their customers are provided with a list of prices. It is expected that the low figures at which iron is here offered, will direct increased attention to the facilities of this firm and promote the extension of their business.

THE WEATHER AND CROPS.—On Monday evening a very unexpected shower came up and gave the parched ground a most grateful sprinkling. Though merely a sprinkling, it did much good, rendering the soil mellow, so that the hard clods which had formed on the surface could be nicely pulverized by farm implements, and the working of hoed crops thus rendered much more effective and beneficial. These crops, and especially the principal ones, corn and potatoes, have a most encouraging appearance. In the river bottoms, where the soil is of a light character, well adapted to corn, some of the grain we observed in tassel. That which has not got so far forward is, nevertheless, doing well, exhibiting a strong, rapid and luxurious growth, the stalks being heavy at the collar and the leaves of that deep, emerald shade which farmers like to see. On the hills it is not quite so good, and never is, on account of the less favorable character of the soil, except in some instances of particularly good farming. But on the whole the crop will be a remunerative one to all engaged in raising it. Potatoes are looking well in every direction, and if the rot does not attack them before they are raised, there will be an abundance to meet the wants both of men and stock. So far the weather has been extremely favorable, and it remains as dry during the fall, people may look for nearly delicious tubers, such as will cause open and fall to pieces when steamed.

The wheat and rye is just being cut. Though the crop is not large, it will pay and the farmers generally express themselves satisfied. A large portion of the grain was frozen out during the winter, but what germinated in the spring produced large strong stalks, well headed with plump found grain. The wheat therefore will be particularly good and there will probably be little difficulty this Fall in getting excellent flour—a matter in which our housewives are all deeply interested. Oats will be cut next week. The crop, as is generally known, will be quite heavy. This grain adorns deep well in a cold, damp soil, even the most careless husbandmen can raise large crops in a favorable season, so that heavy stands of oats may be seen much more generally than of wheat or rye. Barley is not much raised in Allegheny county. What there is, is good. It has been harvested some time, as it ripens early.

Tomatoes and nearly every description of vegetables will be cheap. Fruit will also be reasonable. The curculio is leaving a portion of the plum crop this season, a thing that rarely happens. We know of no locality where peaches are not plenty. Every tree has a larger or smaller share, according to its more or less healthy condition. The fruit will be large, and most likely of fine flavor. The pears are also plenty, and likewise the apples. The trees are not laden down, nor are they as full as they might be, a large portion of the fruit having been stung and fallen off. But all the trees, especially the younger ones, have a few on, so that the yield will be more than an average. We visited an orchard having several thousand dwarf and standard trees, a few days ago. Strong, with about an equal number of pears and apples, and each tree had some handsome fruit. Some of the dwarfs, indeed, were quite laden down and exhibited a spectacle which an amateur might gloat upon. The orchard was seven years old. Of the same place we saw a peach orchard, the trees of which had to be propped up to sustain the large quantity of fruit that hung upon them.

PICK POCKET ARRESTED.—A couple of men giving their names as Mathew Campbell and Thomas Dunkin came into the Mayor's office Saturday night, and wanted to have a conductor on one of the trains on the P. & C. Railroad arrested for robbing Campbell of a pocket-book, containing $68 88, while he was asleep on one of the cars bound to look the case up, and arrest the offender. The two individuals then proceeded to the Eagle Hotel, on Liberty street, closely followed by the officer, who was watching them. Campbell went to bed very soon afterward, but his companion, Dunkin, lingered about the bar room a considerable while, treating the company so often as to excite the suspicions of the officer as to where the money came from. Becoming satisfied, at length, that Dunkin was the thief, he arrested him. On being searched most of the missing money was found, which, together with the port-monnie was identified by the owner. The officer took Dunkin to the station-house, where he had a hearing before the Mayor next morning, which resulted in his being committed for trial. From Campbell's story it appears they were strangers to each other previous to the day before this affair, and became acquainted while riding in the cars from Wheeling to this city. They cemented their new born friendship at several stations, by copious imbibitation of bad whisky, until at length—not to put too fine a point on it—Campbell became drunk and sleepy, and his companion took the money from his pantaloons pocket. As the cars approached the city, Dunkin awakened him. Not having paid his fare, he put his hand in his pocket to get the money, when he discovered his loss. The other immediately laid the blame on the conductor, saying he had been slightly salcey, and had felt some one jar against them. This, taken in conjunction with the fact that the conductor had not called for the fare, convinced Campell that the conductor was the thief. Dunkin afterward confessed the reason of the conductor's non-appearance. He said that official came around shortly after he had taken the money, and fearing, should he awaken Campbell, that the latter would discover the loss and have a general search among the passengers, he paid the fare himself.

A HORSE JOCKEY OF A SPREE.—A horse dealer named Joseph Weber, from Westmoreland county, came to the city last week with four horses. After he had disposed of them, he commenced making a tour of the city, or rather of the drinking saloons, and drank pretty freely until Sunday last, when he met an old acquaintance named Edward McCloskey, a resident of the Fourth ward, who invited him to spend the day with him. He accepted the invitation and went with the other. After dinner a jug of whisky was brought in, and in the society of "congenial spirits" the time was passed very pleasantly until it was time for him to go to his hotel.—After leaving, he missed his pocket-book, wh ch he says contained $250. He was so grieved at his loss that he continued to drink very hard, and it was only yesterday that he was sufficiently sobered to make any attempts to obtain it. Yesterday morning he went before Ald. Donaldson and made information, charging McCloskey with the robbery. When the officers went to arrest the latter, he gave them the purse, but said that it only contained $100, and that he found it on the floor in his own house, after Weber had left and that he was keeping it until the other got sober. The sight of any of the money so delighted Weber that he wanted to drop the case instantly, but the Alderman refused, and held McCloskey in $500 to appear, and answer the charge.

THE OLD COACH FACTORY.—The older population of Pittsburgh know that there has been a coach factory on St. Clair street, near the bridge, since the primeval days of our city. Messrs. Carr & Duncan, the latter the son of Mr. Jackson Duncan, who is well known in this city, have re-opened or re-organized the old establishment, and are prepared to fill orders for every description of vehicles in their line. They manufacture coaches, carriages, omnibuses, barouches, buggies, sulkies and spring wagons, and they employ the best workmen, use the best material and select the latest and handsomest styles. They have new work always on hand which will furnish samples of what they are accustomed to get up. They will also pay particular attention to repairing, and as their establishment is convenient to a large district of the city, it will no doubt be the interest of a great many to leave their trouble-work there. Attention is directed to their advertisement in to-day's paper.

EXCELSIOR GLEE CLUB.—We are glad to hear that the laimitable Excelsior Glee Club, of Allegheny city, has reorganized. This club was very popular during the last Presidential campaign, and did good service. The members met on Monday evening, at the Astor House, Federal street, and after arranging some music, sung a few pieces to the delight of a party of friends present. They will be in active service in the course of a few days.

THE CENSUS.—The population of the Second ward, Allegheny, in 1850 was 3,565. In 1860 it was 5565—an increase of over 2000, or about 60 per cent. The deaths during the year ending June 1st were 64.

HEARING OF SOLOMON WICKLINE AND OTHERS.—Solomon Wickline, Patriek Noon, Henry Pickert and John Rust had a hearing yesterday afternoon. The last three were arrested yesterday morning. The prosecutor, Mr. Patton, was the only person sworn. He stated that he went out into the yard of the Ft. Pitt Glass Works, where he was employed, on Sunday morning about one o'clock. He had a light in his hand, and was accosted while in the yard by one of the prisoners, who asked for a drink. Mr. Patton held the light while he got a drink, after which it was knocked out of his hand and a blow inflicted on his head, near the temple. As he fell one of the boys cried out, with an oath, that he was killed. All of them ran as soon as he was struck. He received a pretty bad cut, and had it tied up yesterday while at the hearing.

Wickline, who is the one Patton swore struck him, said in his explanation that Noon had inflicted the blow, not he. They also stated they had got together about 8 o'clock in the evening and had spent most of the interval between that hour and the time they met Patton in Ft. Pitt yard, in a lager beer saloon. Noon said he only drank three or four glasses. He works at the soap factory of B. C. and J. H. Sawyer. Wickline works at the Ft. Pitt Glass House; Pickert at Crackenbaum's Britannia establishment, and Rost at the Berlin Foundry. They were all offered their release if they could procure bail, $500 being demanded of Noon and $300 of the others. Pickert and Wickline were bailed out.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT—One Man Killed and Another Badly Injured.—About 10½ o'clock on Tuesday morning, an accident occurred in the "American Iron Works" of Jones & Laath, in Brownstown, by which one man lost his life and another was badly injured. The iron bands which surround one of the stacks connected with a boiling furnace became loose, and required screwing up to straighten the stack, which had began to totter. This is an every day occurrence, but terminated in a sad disaster in the present instance. A mason at the works, named James Winferinger, undertook to do the job. By some means he did not get the jack screw and braces fixed right, so that when the pressure was applied the stack, which was probably 50 feet high, fell almost instantly, crushing a German named Wendell Bloomer (a young man engaged there as a laborer) so badly that he died in an hour afterward. Winferinger had a compound fracture of the bone of his left arm, two ribs broken, and was otherwise very much bruised.

Dr. Woods attended him, and succeeded in making him quite comfortable toward the latter part of the afternoon. Bloomer was a quiet, industrious young man, and had been in the employ of the firm for several years. He was unmarried. His father and mother live on McClurg street, East Birmingham, a short distance above the works.

BAREFACED SWINDLE.—Justice Hogan, of East Birmingham, yesterday committed a man named Conrad Schaff to jail, on complaint of John Shriver, who charged him with obtaining money under false pretences. The history of the case is briefly this: Several days since the defendant, whose character is not of the most spotless purity, came into the house of the defendant and offered him a $20 bill in exchange for a $5, saying that the bill would bring a premium of 2½ per cent in St. Louis, and he was going down there in a short time, and would redeem it before he went. That spring-like aphorism took and his money are soon passed into Schaff's hands. A short time in this case, for no sooner did Shriver hear that the bill would bring the aforesaid premium than he paid a good $5 note for what was it is needless to tellour readers, a spurious $20 note! He discovered his mistake a day or so afterward and called on Schaff to have it rectified. The latter saw him coming and when he knocked at the door, sent an empty mineral water bottle at his head and commenced cursing him. Finding this had no effect in driving Shriver away, he adopted a plan which was at once original and worthy of his ebon complexion. It was nothing less than threatening to have Mr. Shriver arrested for being too familiar with Mrs. Schaff. This drove Shriver off to the Aldermans, where he made the complaint, which resulted as above.

POLICE ITEMS.—The weather has been so warm the last few days, that the petty criminals no doubt have longed for the cool quarters in the jail, as so many are sent up as vagrants on their own confession. The commitments for several days past have averaged over 20 a day. Yesterday there were 27 commitments. Of these 11 were for drunkenness, 6 for disorderly conduct, 5 for vagrancy, 3 for assault and battery, and 2 for larceny.

Justice Scribs yesterday committed Michael Newland, in default of bail, for assault and battery, on oath of Anthony Hoffman.

Justice Hogan, of East Birmingham, yesterday held Aaron Beckenbaugh in $500 bail to answer the charge of assault and battery, preferred against him by Adam Henning. Both of the parties are Germans, and work in the blacksmith shop of John C. Schaffer, in Birmingham, where a difficulty grew up which terminated in the above defendant's knocking the complainant down.

VIOLATION OF THE LICENSE LAW.—The City Treasurer submitted his books to Mayor Wilson yesterday in order that proceedings might be commenced against defaulting parties under the license law. Informations are being made against upwards of one hundred persons, the list embracing almost every class of business men. The infraction of the law of course proceeds to a great extent through carelessness, as the act is yet new and people have not become sufficiently well accustomed to its provisions to meet them promptly. There will be quite a show of business at the Mayor's office for a few days. Ten summons were issued yesterday for the first batch. The hearing will take place on Saturday.

ALIBI PROVED.—Andrew Connor, the individual arrested for attempting to set fire to the livery stable of Moreland & Mitchell, on Liberty street, in the Fifth ward, had a hearing yesterday, which resulted in his proving an alibi and being discharged from custody. The defendant brought witnesses who proved he was with some friends in the jail at the hour the fire took place, (11 o'clock, a. m.) The Alderman intends holding Wm. Boniface, the man who swore he saw with Connor when the latter set the stable on fire, for trial at the next term of the Criminal Court, as the likeeendiary.

CAPT. WILKINSON, of the Lafayette Blues, a military company recently organized in Allegheny city, received an invitation yesterday from Washington, Pa., to be present with his company at the encampment which comes off at that place, commencing on Tuesday, September 11th, and continuing four days. As quite a number of the members have not yet obtained their uniforms, they are at present unable to decide whether to accept the invitation.

LARCENY.—Adam Brown made information yesterday before Alderman Taylor against Wm. John Schwidon, charging him with the larceny of a black silk handkerchief worth $1, one breast pin worth 50 cents, and three sets of shirt studs worth 15 cents a set. The defendant was committed for trial in default of bail.

PIC-NIC.—Our friends of the Vigilant engine company give a grand pic-nic to-morrow in Lloyd's Park. They are a lively set, and will do every thing possible to make it a pleasant and agreeable affair. A large brass band will be in attendance.

POSTERS.—We have a large number of double medium blank posters, intended for calling Republican meetings, which we will be had on application at our counting room, on very moderate terms.

TRESPASSING.—A man named Martin Fredericks was fined $5, day before yesterday, for taking some pairs without leave from the orchard of Ralph Reed, Esq., out the Fourth street Road.

THE Wide Awake Club of Allegheny intend making application to the Councils at their next meeting for the privilege of erecting a wigwam in the District of that city.

"THE Republican Campaign Songster" and "The Life, Trial and Confession of Albert W. Hicks," have been received and are for sale by Hunt & Miner.

CHRISTIAN SHIVELY, Esq., received the appointment of tax collector for Penn Township yesterday, from the Commissioners.

Among desirable articles, we may name as foremost the want of a useful glue, easy of use, and of general and universal application to the repair of furniture, crockery, shell-work and other serviceable and ornamental purposes. The prime qualities of a good glue are immediate readiness for use at all times and reliability as a hold-fast. And this is the article which Mr. H. C. Spalding has been so fortunate as to introduce. In convenient bottles, with a handy brush; Spalding's Prepared Glue requires no day's preparatory soaking in water; no heating for use, and no tedious delays to secure its junction and combination—being held in solution chemically, and capable of being applied instantly, and to every variety of work and requirement. Spalding's Glue that proves itself to be a true Household Friend, and will be welcomed heartily in all parts of the country. We have given it a trial, and we have found it quick as bungar in taking hold, and firm as death in holding fast.—New-Yorker, July 30, 1859. ⊕

DRY GOODS.—We extract the following remarks from the U. S. Economist and Dry Goods Reporter:—

"The jobbing trade has not as yet fairly opened, and the commission merchants are more occupied in attending to re-stocks than in selling goods. Transactions during the past week have been limited, and we do not expect much activity in the jobbing trade before the last of the month. The prospects for a fair trade were no better than at present, and all now rely upon a favorable fall season from the country, convinced that a good and healthy trade is sure to follow. There are a large number of western and southern buyers in market but they are buying very cautiously, and some dealers attend to put up their stocks before making their purchases. The increased facilities for the speedy transport of goods makes the trade later each year, and parties who have been formerly compelled to purchase their stocks in June and July now wait until August in the latter month. It will have their goods in store as soon as needed, and the only drawback to that there will be a good demand for all descriptions of goods.
