THE CENSUS.—The Cincinnati Commercial, with great good sense, warns the people of western cities not to expect too much from the census. For years past the vanity of every western town and city has been flattered with estimates of population, based upon the returns of 1850, and showing, in every instance, a tremendous increase. These estimates have been repeated so often, and are so pleasant to local pride, that they are now regarded as reliable; and the census, in nearly every case, is likely to act as an unwelcome dispeller of illusions. The correctness of the census will be questioned and all sorts of reproaches heaped upon the heads of the officials by whom it was taken, for men do not willingly give up the convictions which please them; but we feel assured that the fault will be found much more in the exaggerated estimates of partial statisticians than in the failure of the census-takers to do their duty.

Cincinnati, for instance, has been flattered into the belief that she has a population of 250,000, one CHARLES CIST having adroitly figured it up to that amount; but the census is likely to show it to be under, if not considerably under, 200,000. St. Louis, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Columbus, Louisville, Madison, and many other western cities, will be equally disappointed.

Cities do not grow in any regular ratio. The increase of one year does not indicate what it will be or may be the next; nor does the increase of a period of ten years furnish a basis for calculating the increase of the next ten years. They have fits and starts—sometimes prospering greatly and increasing rapidly, at other times declining or at a stand still. In times of depression, such as have existed from 1857 to 1860, the growth of western cities has been slow, and there have doubtless been instances of growth backwards.

Still, with all the cold water the census can throw upon the expectations of our ambitious municipalities, the growth of the west will be shown, by the figures, to have been surprising. The census may not equal our wishes; but it will demonstrate a growth never attained by any other people. There will be abundance, in its totals, to feed our national vanity for years to come; and it may be as well for us, in the long run, that we have not grown more rapidly.

We do not know how it may be with Pittsburgh and its environs. Our people and our papers are not given to the folly of blowing the horn for the city in the ears of the nation. There has consequently been no bragging, no estimates to swell our importance in the public eye, no puffs to show how much greater we are than our neighbors. There is no inflated bubble of local pride, therefore, to be pricked by the census, and there will be but little disappointment with the figures, compared with that felt elsewhere. Still, it may be possible the figures will not come up to the general expectation. We have not seen any returns, yet, upon which any decisive conclusion can be founded, beyond this—that there has been a steady, healthy, solid increase to the population of the city and its adjacent corporations, as well as in capital, industry, and prosperity. Allegheny county will have no reason to be sorry for the figure she will cut in these respects.

As to Pennsylvania, we feel confident she will maintain her rank in the confederacy. Long the second State, in point of numbers, she has been steadily gaining upon the only State in advance of her, and the census of 1860 will show her far less behind New York than she was in 1850. The central and southern counties, being purely agricultural, will not show so large an increase; but the north-eastern counties, embracing the anthracite coal region, will show a surprising development, and the northern and north-western counties, which have been rapidly filling up for years, will almost keep pace with them. Philadelphia, too, shows a large increase, as do all the counties immediately around her; and the estimate that the State will present a total of 3,100,000—equal to the population of New York in 1850—is not so wild as at first sight might seem.

As an estimate of the growth of the counties around Philadelphia, we subjoin the census of the borough and township of Chester, Delaware county:

	1850.	1860.	Inc.
Chester borough	1765	4649	2884
" township	1250	2043	793
Total	3015	6692	3677

Here is an increase of over 100 per cent., in a quiet country town, making no fuss or parade, and scarcely heard of away from home. There are few western towns which can present such an increase as this; certainly none which would have kept so quiet about it.

"DON'T CARE."—The Douglas men are beginning to deny that their champion ever said he didn't care whether slavery was voted down or voted up. A reference to the Congressional Globe for 1857-8, volume 1, page 18, will refresh their memories on this point. They will there read, in Mr. Douglas' speech in the Senate, on the 19th of December, 1857, as follows:

"But I am told on all sides: 'Oh, just wait; the pro-slavery cause will be voted down.' That does not obviate any of my objections; it does not diminish any of them. You have no more right to force a free State Constitution on Kansas than a slave State Constitution. If Kansas wants a slave State Constitution she has a right to it; if she wants a free State Constitution she has a right to it. It is none of my business which way the slavery cause is decided. I care not whether it is voted down or up.

CHANGES FOR BRECKINRIDGE.—The Northampton Correspondent, a German organ of the Democracy, published at Easton, after having had the name of Stephen A. Douglas at the head of its column for two weeks, has declared for Breckinridge and Lane. Other papers in the "Tenth Legion," that were either doubtful or for Douglas, at first, are now for Breckinridge, and in that famous stronghold, which gave Buchanan 6000 majority over Fremont and Fillmore, there are now 6 Breckinridge to 4 Douglas papers. We put down the "Tenth Legion," the other day, as being for Douglas; we begin to think NOW, WE WERE MISTAKEN.

DEATH OF THE HON. JOSEPH GALES.—The eminent editorial firm of Gales & Seaton, which through the time honored National Intelligencer, has for nearly half a century been associated with the public men and public measures of the nation, has at length dissolved by the death of one of its members. Joseph Gales died at his country seat, near Washington, on Saturday night last, "full of years and full of honors," surrounded by his friends and soothed by every consolation that a good and pure man could draw around him at such a solemn hour.

Mr. Gales was born in Eckington, near Sheffield, England, on the 10th of April, 1786, and emigrated to this country with his father in 1792.

He engaged as reporter for The Intelligencer in 1809, but purchased the establishment of William Harrison Smith the next year.

Mr. Seaton joined him in 1812, and both these gentlemen acted as reporters of Congressional debates up to 1820, when Mr. Stansbury took charge of this branch of the business of the establishment. But, on account of the scarcity of short-hand reporters at this period, Messrs. Gales and Seaton occasionally reported debates in Congress for some years after.

Mr. Joseph Gales was educated at the University of North Carolina. His pre-eminent editorial abilities are known to the country. In Washington; his qualities of head and heart endeared him to the citizens above any and all other men.

Mr. Gales has written nothing for his paper for the last six years. The labor of composition, or dictation to an amanuensis, inevitably brought on an acute pain in his side, which finally ended in partial paralysis. His surviving partner, who, although past his seventy-sixth year, is a hale and vigorous old man, thus announces in the Intelligencer the event which has deprived him of a life long friend:

"Though this melancholy event was not entirely unexpected; in consequence of Mr. Gales' infirm health for some months past, it is none the less true that the blow so long suspended has at last fallen with a weight as sudden as it is afflictive. It is some consolation, however, to know that his end was calm and painless, as his life had been serene and virtuous. Full of years and full of honors, rich in the tributes of veneration and regard awarded by good and great men throughout the land, and beloved, as falls to the lot of few, by all who shared his nearer companionship in the home and the walks of private life, he has been gathered by the great reaper, Death, a sheaf fully ripe for the harvest, into a garner made fragrant and precious by the fruits of a life ever noble in its aspirations and ever laborious in good works.

It is not for us, least of all at a moment like this, to write his epitaph, nor are words of formal commemoration needed to indite for our readers that eulogy which they, equally with us, are competent to celebrate in memory of his intellectual greatness. It were better that we should keep silent while as yet the startled ear seems caught by the sound of a voice crying with such thrilling emphasis from the tomb of his former activities, like that voice which the Revelator heard from Heaven, saying, 'Write, blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth: yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors: and their works do follow them.'"

IT WON'T WORK.—The Buffalo Commercial Advertiser, referring to Gov. Hunt's scheme to transfer the Bell vote of New York to Douglas, says:

"It is odorous of bargain and sale. It is one of those selling out operations of which the main difficulty lies in the delivery of the goods. The vote of New York, taking the last election as a basis of calculation, was for Storey, Republican, 250,880; for Vanderpool, Democrat, 226,755. Neither of these gentlemen were on the American half-and half ticket; and their vote shows that the Republicans outnumber the Democratic party by 24,125 votes. The balance of power therefore lies in the 50,000 American votes. Suppose they go all Democratic, that party will have a majority of about 26,000; all Republican, that party will have 75,000 majority; or if they divide about equally, the Republican majority will remain stationary, subject to the increase it may receive from the reserve rural vote which has not been fully out since 1856, and numbers some 80,000. This alone, if brought out as it should be, is enough to make triumph certain over any coalition; but leaving it out of account and coming down to the safe basis of 1859, for us endeavor to get at some idea of how the 50,000 Americans are going to vote.

Besides the prominent leaders, James O. Putnam, Shepherd Knapp, Daniel Ullman and others, including some members of the National Union State Committee, we notice that Hon. Dennison, of Steuben, former, Vice President of the American State Council, and one of the most influencial members of that party, has just declared for Lincoln, in a public speech. The Troy Whig, one of the truest and most conservative organs, and firm in the support of Bell and Everett, is emphatic against a sale to Douglas.

We think it safe to predict that except the N. Y. Express, Mohawk Valley American, and perhaps one other, the whole Bell and Everett press of the State will take the same ground, and hardly a tithe of the American vote will be cast for Douglas. Within a day or two past we have learned that one of the most prominent members of the State National Union Committee, a man whose consent is almost essential to the success of the proposed transfer, declares that he will beat the bargain if he can, and if not will vote and work for Lincoln. He is a Bell man, and no contingency can compel him to vote for Douglas.

As the scheme of transfer developes itself it will meet with the natural consequences of such bargains. Men will refuse to be sold."

NO GO.—The attempt of Gov. Wise to establish a direct trade between Norfolk, Va., and Europe, so as to take away the importing trade from the North, has ended out a sad failure. It was one of the secession experiments to prove the absolute independence of the South, but, like the other preparations for secession, it has vanished into thin air. A vessel called the Lone Star, was the pioneer of the proposed line. She has lately returned to Norfolk, Va., with an assorted cargo from Havre, which cargo is thus spoken of by an irreverent Virginia paper:

"A more perfect humbug could not well be imagined. We do not believe there was a drop of pure brandy or champagne in the lot. Of claret, we can say but little better. We are no judge of dry goods, but every man from Richmond in that trade laughed at the idea of purchasing. The only really good articles we saw were vinegar, bricks, cement and—sand!!! Just imagine a cargo of sand for Norfolk! What idea can you suppose Frenchmen have of America, when they ship to Virginia, vinegar, bricks, cement and sand? The cargo was made up of the riff raff which has previously been sent to Havre for the last twenty years. Even the shoes were very inferior. We doubt whether this will not prove the 'Lone Star' of that line."

THE PRESS OF OHIO.—The Ohio State Journal gives a list of all the papers in Ohio, with their politics, and adds:

"There are 216 papers on the above list, of which 126 are for Lincoln, 80 for Douglas, 8 for Breckinridge, and 2 for Bell and Everett.

There are eighteen counties in which no democratic organ of either wing is published, and twenty-three counties in which no Douglas organ is published.

Twenty-two of these papers are printed in the German language, of which 8 are for Lincoln, the rest for Douglas. Eighteen of the papers on the list are printed daily, of which 10 are for Lincoln, 6 for Douglas, 1 for Breckinridge and 1 for Bell and Everett. We learn that a new Breckinridge daily is about to be started at Cincinnati, and a new German Republican paper at Dayton, but neither has as yet made its appearance.

The press may be safely regarded as a clear and unerring evidence of public sentiment. It will be seen that the number of papers in favor of Lincoln in Ohio is 46 more than those in favor of Douglas, and 36 more than all the opposition papers combined."

POLITICAL CHANGES.—Mr. Robert Winston of the legal firm of Peters & Winston, hitherto an administration man, is now strong for Douglas.—Bereau Co., Dem.

In response to this story of the Dimocrat, the Bereau, Co., Republican says:

Milton T. Peters, Esq., also of "the legal firm of Peters and Winston," Democratic Elector of 1856, for the Third Congressional District and up to 1858, one of the leading Democrats in Illinois, now strongly attached to Republican principles, and will vote for Lincoln and Hamlin, Yates and Lovejoy.

It may be gratifying to our Douglas friends to be informed, however, that Mr. Winston is not a Douglas man. He claims that Douglas cannot be elected by the people, and that his only object in voting for the man he utterly detests is to throw the election into the House and thus secure the triumph of Breckinridge or Lane. But we have reason to believe that he has but little hope of even accomplishing this result, and it is yet very doubtful whether Douglas will receive his vote.

The Italian organ-grinders in New York have become hopefully shrivelized, and now hold regular prayer-meetings.

We wish the Democratic organ-grinders could be brought to do likewise.—Chicago Tour.

The California correspondent of the New York Courier and Inquirer says Mr. Lincoln will recieve many thousands of votes there which would not have been given for any other prominent Republican.

Is it true that the Hon. Fernando Wood went over to Douglas because a brother of his had lent the Little Giant large sums of money, and it was necessary to look after the debt?

REPUBLICAN DOCTRINES.—Land for the landless, and protection to American industry and the rights of all men.

DEMOCRATIC DOCTRINES.—Slaves for the slaveless, and protection to slavery and the rights of all slave-holders.

The press of Virginia stands 34 for Breckinridge to 5 for Douglas.

Catarrh! Catarrh!! Catarrh!!! Catarrh!!!!

What is it? How Cured?

Thousands of persons suffer all sorts of annoyance from Catarrh. Most people know what its inconvenience and results are, yet but few know how it can be cured. It is simply a chronic irritation and often enlargement of follicles and consequent thickening of the mucous membranes, lining the nasal cavities, frontal sinuses, and sometimes extending into the throat and lungs. From this results tightness and often vertigo of the head, obstructed nose, or a profuse flow of mucus, loss of smell, nasal voice, and often impaired hearing and taste.

The old school remedies have never been able to do any thing for it. Nasal injections and inhalations are as painful and expensive as they are generally worthless. Yet HUMPHREYS' CATARRH SPECIFIC, a simple Sugar Pill, taken two or three times per day, promptly cures the milder cases; cures at once all colds in the head, and radically cures, by persevering use, the most obstinate cases, as is proved by the experience of hundreds.

Price, with full directions,

Fifty Cents Per Box.

N. B.—A full set of HUMPHREY'S HOMŒOPATHIC SPECIFICS, with Book of Directions, and twenty different Remedies, in large vials, morocco case, $5; do, in plain case, $4. Family case of fifteen boxes and book, $3.

These remedies, by the single box or case, are sent by mail or express, free of charge, to any address, on receipt of the price. Address Dr. F. HUMPHREY & CO.

MOTHERS!
READ the following testimony to the success of DR. EATON'S INFANTILE CURE:

Morgantville, July 20th, 1859
DR. EATON—Dear Sir: I have much pleasure in certifying to the perfect harmlessness and efficacy of your Infantile Cordial, and cheerfully recommend it to those who have children to raise. I have used it in my own family, and have sold over two hundred bottles the past year. All those who have used it, unite in its praise for all diseases for which you recommend it. Yours, &c.,
E. V. LATHROP.

BLOOD FOOD! BLOOD FOOD!!
DR. EATON—Sir: It may not be valueless, to you, to know that I have used the different Preparations of Blood Food in several cases, and uniformly with success, and that I am convinced they are a nearer approximation to the means of a radical cure of those cases of Chronic Disease for which they are prepared, than any other Medicinal Agencies known to the Pharmacopœia.
I recommend these Preparations, as I am naturally desirous that they should be most widely tested and adopted.

DR. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, will be in Pittsburgh to examine patients with CONSUMPTION,
LIVER COMPLAINT AND DYSPEPSIA,
ON MONDAY AND TUESDAY,
June 11th and 12th, at the Drug Store of the agent,
DR. GEO. H. KEYSER, No. 140 Wood street.

DR. SCHENCK'S MEDICINES,
PITTSBURGH CERTIFICATES.

I have been sick now for nearly two years with a cough and liver complaint, and the whole of my breast inside, was completely raw. I first took it with a bad inflammation of the lungs, and I was attended by one of the best Doctors in Pittsburgh, who told me I had inflammation of the lungs. Some time in the early part of March last I called on Dr. Schenck, who was examining patients at Dr. Keyser's Drug Store, 140 Wood street. After he examined me carefully he told me that I had liver complaint, which had extended to my lungs. My doctor, before I called on Dr. Schenck, told me that my lungs were badly affected. I was terribly reduced in flesh, and my strength left me. My appetite was entirely gone, and I had very little hope of recovery, when I commenced using the medicine according to directions, and in less than one month I was able to go about my business. After I had taken two bottles of the Pulmonic Syrup, I was better than ever I was in my life, and weigh ten pounds more than ever I did in my life before, and I can now carry as much weight as any man of my height and size anywhere. I am entirely recovered from the disease which in its lungs down my constitution and I feel under a debt of gratitude to Dr. Schenck for his treatment. I know, therefore, that a number of my acquaintances, who have been cured by Dr. Schenck's medicines, when I recommended to take them, I always keep the "Mandrake Pills" in my house. They cured my wife of liver complaint when nothing else would help her. Her skin was yellow as gold, and she was sick—she took various other kinds of pills, but they did her no good, until she took your Mandrake Pills, which have made her a well woman. I am sure that I owe my life and present first rate health to
