FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 3.

From the Charlottesville, Va. Review, (Del) and Everett.)

SOME MATTERS TO BE INWARDLY DIGESTED.—We take the people as the South is to-day at least, an honest, truth-loving people. They cannot bear any humbug. If there is anything, our mostly agricultural population like, it is to hear things called by their right names. Our talk is not dainty lying. We have the vices of an agricultural people: we drink, we swear, we bet, we idle away our time, but we scorn prevarication.

We see, therefore, our stump orators and our newspapers draw their pictures of Southern character and Southern social ways, we trust they will give us a faithful portrait. We do not wish to be flattered. We want the precise truth—no more—no less. We see, for example, beautiful little stories constantly going the round of the papers about our pleasing hospitality—our open and frank manners—the relations between master and slave. If there is any counterlint to all these delightful limnings—any little fly entangled in the ointment—by all means, let us have it.

Do not let us sound the horn merely in self-praise, but let us speak through it—whether it be harsh or not—the truth.

We want our writers of fiction to paint our happy and simple country homes—our modest and lovely women—the bold, free, generous bearing of our youths—their scorn of all that is petty and mean—the courtesy and show of respect which marks their intercourse. We want them to delineate the physical comforts which surround our slaves; their sleek, well-fed, well-to do look; their dances, their banjos, their laughter and song;—they can recite interesting cases of touching attachments between servants and their masters, and gives us a thrilling and lovainable picture of our domestic life.

But we would not have a novel, which made a false impression; we would shut out the light if some parts of the picture demanded it. We would—if we located that scene here in Albemarle—darken our canvas with a terrible shadow. Avoid all this sunlight that might have streamed upon our vistas—a black, damning cloud should spread over the whole scene. We would state that—by the authority of four experiments within a few years—it has been fully established that the bond of friendship between white and black could be broken by the white man—that it was law in Albemarle that an overseer could whip a negro for three hours, and unto death with impunity—or hang him up with so little ability to rest himself on his feet, that he should die by morning—or shoot him rushing with a pistol—or invert him, with his hands and feet tied, into a hogshead of water, until life was extinct.

This would do for the sensation part of such a novel. The artist could state that the perpetrator of such a crime not only went unwhipt of justice, but that (in the latest case) no magistrate would even arrest him—that even when the press was agitating the matter, and calling official attention to it, it produced no more impression than blowing a horn in an exhausted receiver. Things went on exactly as they did before: people shouted, hurrah for the nigger! and a great many gentlemen laid the unction to their souls, that we were certainly the purest, the most humane, the most Christian people the sun ever shone on.

Away with all hypocrisy, we say. Hush your general puerile twaddle about the happiness of your slaves, as long as the killing of them is totally disregarded: cease to denounce Sumner: stop cursing Mrs. Stowe: you, the people of Albemarle, know of four cases, of recent occurrence, that are bad enough to tinge your cheek with shame, and make you fear the avenging intervention of a Righteous God.

Tell the truth, and shame the devil. Tell the Abolitionists, that negroes are put to death by the overseers sometimes, and that there is no punishment sanctioned by public sentiment.

SKUNKS have a history, as many a New York trader has learned at his cost. A year or two ago they were exported to Europe in such quantities as to promise the purification of our atmosphere from one of the most disagreeable odors, before the elapse of many years; but this demand suddenly fell off, and several found themselves "skinned" to the amount of $25,000 and even twice that figure. Some European Israelites, it appears, had substituted them successfully for fitches, which commanded from one to nine dollars each in market. Forthwith, from being considered worthless, skunk skins rose in price to 1'50 each; ships were freighted with and fortunes made out of them for a few months. But an unlucky snow-storm in Russia, during which one of these collars or capes was drawn over the wearer's head, proved fatal to the trade. The disagreeable odor leaked out! Now, it is said, as many as 50,000 of these skins are stowed away in London, without being able to find a purchaser.—[N. Y. paper.

THE NEW YORK DAY BOOK says:

"The majority of Hair Washes, Hair Dyes, Hair Tonics, Hair Oils, and the numberless preparations which are now before the public under such alluring names, purported and do assume to be compounded in above whisper cards, and newspaper headings, as if such preparations, are all bantages of the first water, their real merits, when they possess any, is that they do no harm. BOG'S LARD OIL, WHALE OIL, BAY RUM OIL, mingled and compounded, make up, when in beautiful wrappers and white flint glass bottles, the combined character of evil men and base coinity, are baptized with some triphlicate term, and caught at by wanted young and old of both sexes. Such is not the character of Professor O'Neil's Restorative. If this gentleman comes before the world without any "high sounding" Alopholeibros, or any other astounding and startling scientific nomenclature, he simply advertises a Hair Restorative—that it expresses, practically—and as a Restorative it is one. Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, and as you raise your scalp, eye, your very brains, apply restoring also for it may be that you will get some worse substitute than perfumed lard oil on your premises. Remember, Wood's Restorative for the Hair is the best article extant."

It Will, by Nature's own Process,

Restore Gray Hair to the Original Color,

Will make Hair Grow on Bald Heads,
Will restore the Natural Secretions,
Will prevent the hair from falling,
Will remove all Dandruff,
Will clear all scurf and dirt from the head,
Will make the Hair Soft and Glossy,
Will make the old appear young again,
Will preserve the Color of Hair to old age,
Will always Fasten it and stop its Falling,
And is one of the best Toilet Articles for the Hair now in use.

D^R. MOTT'S
PILLS & IRON.

AN APERIENT AND STOMACHIC Preparation of IRON purified of Oxygen and Carbon by combustion in Hydrogen. Sanctioned by the highest Medical Authorities, both in Europe and the United States, and prescribed in their practice.

The experience of thousands daily proves that no preparation of Iron can be compared with it. Impurities of the blood, depression of vital energy, pain and otherwise sickly complexions fastened to presence in almost every conceivable case. Hence, one in all maladies in which it has been tried, it has proved absolutely curative in each of the following complaints, viz:

Debility, Nervous Affections, Emaciation, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Piles, Female Irregularities, Scrofulous Tuberculosis, Salt Rheum, Rheumatic affections, Whites, Chlorosis, Liver Complaints, Diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Skin, Intermittent Fevers, Pimples on the Face, &c.

In cases of General Debility, whether the result of acute disease or of the continued diminution of nervous and muscular energy from chronic complaints, one trial of this restorative has proved sufficient to an extent which no description nor written attestation would render credible. Invalids so long bedridden as to have become forgotten in their own neighborhoods, have suddenly re-appeared in the busy world as if just return'd from protracted travels in a distant land. Some by my signal instances of the kind are attested of female sufferers, emaciated victims of apparent consumption, sanguinuous exhaustion, critical changes, and that complication of nervous and dyspeptic sterdom to all and exercise for which the physician has no name.

In Nervous Affections of all kinds, and for reasons familiar to medical men, the preparation of this preparation of iron must necessarily be salutary, for, unlike the old cathartic and tonic mixtures, all being antagonistic, it acts by harmonizing and, gently, regularly aperient, even in the most obstinate cases of costiveness, without ever being a gastric purgative, or inducing a fatiguing relaxation.

It is this latter property, among others, which makes it an remarkably effectual and permanent a remedy for Piles, upon which it also operates to arrest a disposition to a speedy action, by thickening the local tendency which forms them.

In Dyspepsia, Intermittents as on in cases, a single box of these Chalybeate Pills has often suffered for the most habitual cases, benefiting the attendant Costiveness.

In mechanical Diarrhœa, even when, advanced to Dysentery, confirmed, unexciting, and apparently malignant, the effects have been equally decisive and astonishing.

In the local palsies, loss of flesh and strength, debilitating cough, and remittent hectic, which generally indicate Incipient Consumption, this remedy has allayed the alarm of friends and physicians, in several very gratifying and interesting cases.

In Scrofulous Tuberculosis, this medicated iron has had no more than the good effect of the most cautiously balanced preparations of Sodium, without any of their well known liabilities.

The attention of families cannot be too confidently invited to its remedy and restorative, in the cases, peculiarly affecting them.

In Rheumatism, both chronic and inflammatory—in the latter, however, more decidedly—it has been invariably well reported: both as alleviating pain and reducing the swellings and stiffness of joints and muscles.

In Intermittent Fevers it must necessarily be a great remedy and energetic restorative, and its progress in the new settlements of the West, will probably be one of high renown and confidence.

No remedy has ever been discovered in the whole history of medicine, which exerts such prompt, happy, and fully restorative efforts. Good appetite, complete digestion, rapid acquisition of strength, with an unusual disposition for active and cheerful employment, are the results.

Put up in neat flat metal boxes containing 50 pills; price 50 cents per box; for sale by Druggists generally. Will be sent free to any Address on receipt of price. All letters, orders, &c., should be addressed to
