WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 8.

A Touching Story.

The following affecting narrative purports to have been given by a father to his son, as warning against the fatal consequences of neglect of parents and treating a mother's love and counsel.

"The agony was visible on my mother's face when she saw that all she said and suffered failed to move me! She rose to go home and I followed at a distance. She spoke no more to me till she reached her own door.

"It is school time now," said she. "Go my son, and once more let me beseech you to think upon what I have said."

"I shall not go to school," said I.

She looked astonished at my coldness, but replied firmly:

"Certainly you will go, Alfred, I command you."

"I will not," said I in a tone of defiance.

"One of two things you must do, Alfred—either go to school this morning, or I will lock you in your room, and keep you there till you are ready to promise implicit obedience to my wishes in the future."

"I dare you to do it, can't get me up stairs."

"Alfred, choose now," said my mother, who laid her hand upon my arm. She trembled violently and was deadly pale.

"If you touch me I will kick you," said I in a terrible rage. God knows I knew not what I said.

"Will you go Alfred?"

"No," I replied, but quailed beneath her eye.

"Then follow me," said she, as she grasped my arm firmly.

I raised my foot—oh, my son hear me!—I raised my foot and kicked her—my sainted mother! How my head reels as the torrent of memory rushes over me! I kicked my mother, a feeble woman—my mother! She staggered back a few steps, and leaned against the wall. She did not look at me; I saw her heart beat against her breast.

"Oh! Heavenly Father," said she, "forgive him—he knows not what he does!"

The gardner just then passed the door, and seeing my mother pale and almost unable to support herself, he stopped. She beckoned him in.

"Take this boy up stairs, and lock him in his room," said she and turned from me. Looking back as she was entering her room, she gave such a look of agony, mingled with the most intense love!—it was the last unutterable pang from a heart that was broken.

In a moment I found myself a prisoner in my own room. I thought, for a moment, I would fling myself from the open window, and dash my brains out, but I felt afraid to do it. I was not penitent. At times my heart was subdued by my stubborn pride rose in an instant, and made me not yield. The pale face of my mother haunted me. I flung myself in bed and fell asleep. Just at twilight I heard a footstep approach the door. It was my sister.

"What may I tell my mother for you?" she asked.

"Nothing," I replied.

"Oh, Alfred! for my sake, for all our sakes, say that you are sorry. She longs to forgive you."

I would not answer. I heard her footsteps slowly retreating, and again I threw myself on the bed, to pass another wretched and fearful night.

Another footstep slower and feebler than my sister's disturbed me. A voice called me by name. It was my mother's.

"Alfred my son, shall I come?" she asked.

I cannot tell what influence, operating at that moment made me speak adverse to my feelings. The gentle voice of my mother thrilled through me, and melted the ice of my obdurate heart, and I longed to throw myself on her neck, but I did not. But my words gave the lie to my heart when I said I was not sorry. I heard her withdraw. I heard her groan. I longed to call her back—but I did not.

I was awakened from my uneasy slumber, by hearing my name called loudly, and my sister stood at my bedside.

"Get up Alfred. Oh don't wait a minute! Get up, and come with me. Mother is dying."

I thought I was yet dreaming, but I got up melancholily and followed my sister. On the bed, and cold as marble lay my mother. She was not unclosed. She had thrown herself on the bed to rest; arising to go again to me, she was seized with a palpitation of the heart, and borne senseless to her room.

I cannot tell you with what agony I looked upon her; my remorse was tenfold more bitter from the thought that she would never know it. I believe myself to be her murderer. I fell on the bed beside her. I could not weep. My heart burned in my bosom; my brain was on fire. My knees threw her arms around me, and wept in silence. Suddenly we saw a light motion of mother's hand; her eyes unclosed. She had recovered consciousness, but not speech. She looked at me and moved her lips. I could not understand her words. "Mother, mother!" I shrieked, "say only that you forgive me." She could not say it with her lips, but her hand pressed mine. She smiled upon me, and lifting her thin white hands, she clasped my own within them, and cast her eyes upward. She moved her lips in prayer, and thus she died.—I remained still kneeling beside that dear form, till my gentle sister removed me. The joy of youth had gone forever.

Boys who spurn a mother's control, who are ashamed to own that they are wrong, who think it manly to resist her authority, or yield to her influence, beware! Lay not up for yourselves bitter memories for future years.

CHALYBEATE
RESTORATIVE
PILLS IRON.

AN APERIENT AND STOMACHIC Preparation of IRON purified of Oxygen and Carbon by calcination in Hydrogen. Exercising all the Medicinal properties, such in Europe and the United States, and prescribed in their practice.

The experience of thousands daily proves that no preparation of Iron can be compared with it. Impurities of the blood, depression of vital energy, pale and otherwise sickly complexions indicate its necessity. In short every consumer of this Iron, in whatever form, is satisfied it is the best medicine which has been tried, it has proved absolutely curative in each of the following complaints, viz:

Debility, Nervous Affections, Emaciation, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Dyspepsia, Scrofula and Glandular Diseases, Tuberculosis, Sick Headache, Rheumatism, Whites, Chlorosis, Liver Complaint, Chronic Headaches, Rheumatism, Intermittent Fevers, Pimples on the Face, &c.

In cases of General Debility, whether the result of acute disease or of the continued diminution of nervous and muscular energy from chronic complaints, one trial of this tonic restorative has proved successful to an extent which no description nor written attestation would render credible. Invalids so long bed-ridden as to have become forgotten in their own neighborhoods, have suddenly reappeared in the busy world as if just return'd from protracted travel to a distant land. Some very signal instances of the kind are attested of female sufferers, emaciated victims of apparent consumption, nervous autocracy, critical changes, and that complication of nervous and dyspeptic aversion to air and exercise for which the physician has no name.

In fevers, of some of all kinds, and for reasons familiar to medical men, the operation of this preparation of iron must necessarily be salutary. Under the use of this, its vigorously tonic, without being exciting and overbearing and gently, regularly aperient, even in the most obstinate cases of constipation, without ever being a gastric irritant, or inducing disagreeable sensation.

It is this latter property, among others, which makes it so remarkably effectual and permanent a remedy in Piles, upon which it also appears to exert a distinct and specific action, by dispersing the local tendency which forms them. In typhoid fevers, intermittents, and bilious remittents, eight box of these Chalybeate Pills has often suffered for the most malignant cases, including the attendant Diarrhœas.

In unchecked Diarrhœa, even when attended by Dysentery, confirmed, emaciating, and apparently malignant, the effects have been equally decisive and astonishing.

In the local pains, loss of flesh and strength, debilitating cough, and resultless hectic, which generally indicate Incipient Consumption, this remedy has allayed the alarm of friends and physicians, in several very gratifying and interesting instances.

In Scrofulous Tuberculosis, the medicated iron has but for more than the good effect of the most cautiously balanced preparations of lactates, without any of their well known liabilities.

The attention of families cannot be too confidently invited to this simple and, restorative, in the cases peculiarly adapting them.

In Rheumatism, both chronic and inflammatory—to the latter, however, more decidedly—it has been invariably well regarded, both as alleviating pain and reducing the swellings and stiffness of the joints and muscles.

In Intermittent Fevers it must necessarily be a great remedy and energetic restorative, and its progress in the pestilent remittents of the West, will probably be one of high renown and usefulness.

No remedy has ever been discovered in the whole list my experience, to exert so much prompt, happy, and fully restorative effects. Good appetite, complete digestion, regular action, healthy changes and full, rich, impregnated blood, as regards quantity of oxygen and carbon, immediately follow its use.

Put up in neat flat metal boxes, containing 50 pills; price 50 cents per box; for sale by Druggists, or sent by mail, on receipt of price. All letters, orders, etc., should be addressed to
