SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 25

The Children's Hour.

[The following poem by Longfellow appears in the September number of the "Atlantic Monthly."]

Between the dark and the daylight,
When the night is beginning to lower,
Comes a pause in the day's occupations
That is known as the Children's Hour.

I hear in the chamber above me
The patter of little feet,
The sound of a door that is opened,
And voices soft and sweet.

From my study I see in the lamplight,
Descending the broad hall stair,
Grave Alice and laughing Allegra,
And Edith with golden hair.

A whisper, and then a silence:
Yet I know by their merry eyes
They are plotting and planning together
To take me by surprise.

A sudden rush from the stairway,
A sudden gleam from the hall!
But three figures fly together,
There enter my castle wall!

They climb up into my turret
O'er the arms and back of my chair;
If I try to escape, they surround me:
They seem to be everywhere.

They almost devour me with kisses,
Their arms about me entwine,
Till I think of the Bishop of Bingen,
In his Mouse-Tower on the Rhine!

Do you think, O blue-eyed banditti,
Because you have scaled the wall,
Such an old mustache as I am
Is not a match for you all!

I have you fast in my fortress,
And will not let you depart,
But put you down into the dungeons
In the round tower of my heart.

And there will I keep you forever,
Yes, forever and a day,
Till the walls shall crumble to ruin
And moulder in dust away!

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

A correspondent of the Pittsburgh "Christian Advocate," writing from India, gives an interesting account of the moral and religious changes going forward in that country. After stating the progress of evangelical religion among the English residents, he says that a wonderful change for the better is observable in the army. Plous men have established prayer meetings in the regiments, and in a single regiment in the Madras presidency, more than a hundred men have been converted during the past year. The soldiers are dissatisfied with their chaplains and are employing Scripture readers. During the past year the Bishop of Madras received more than two thousand native members into the church.

Eleven places of worship in New York city are to remain closed during the month of August.

A number of persons of great influence, indies and gentlemen, in London, have entered into the good work of endeavoring to save fallen women. For this purpose "homes" or "refuges" have been provided and a series of "midnight meetings" instituted in various parts of the great Metropolis. At one of these meetings, held on the 27th of July, about 120 fallen women attended. While the touching hymn was sung, commencing—

"Depth of mercy, can there be," one young woman fell back in her seat with convulsive sobbing. Her reminiscence of early and better days had been awakened. Twenty young women accepted the offers of the homes and others promised to come.

An English Friend in a recent work, says: "In 1656 there was not a Quaker living who did not believe Quakerism to be the only true church of the living God: in 1856 there is not a Quaker living who does believe it."

Bishop Simpson will preside at the next session of the Cincinnati Conference, to be held at Oxford, Ohio, on the 5th of September.

The "London Quarterly Review" contains an interesting account of the great revival in Sweden, from which we extract the following:

"Scarce any means have been employed besides the circulation of tracts and the reading of the Scriptures. Owing to the peculiar regulation of the Lutheran Church, the Swedish people were only acquainted with a small portion of the Bible, and thus it had the freshness of a new book. Small meetings for prayer and reading, almost entirely by laymen, were everywhere largely attended. The lowest estimate places the number of converts, or as they are termed in Sweden "readers," at two hundred and fifty thousand out of a population of eight millions five hundred thousand. The awakening has pervaded all classes, and is extending among the nobility and the wealthy. Instances of sudden conversions are not unfrequent, and the 'divine impulse' had been so irresistibly felt in the midst of secular arrangements or in the streets, as to lead the people to fall on their knees and cry for mercy."

The next session of the Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church will commence on Monday, the 10th of September. The opening address to the students will be delivered by Prof. Wilson.

An aged minister named McMahon, writing to a Memphis paper an account of his early life and manhood, relates an incident that occurred after preaching his last sermon (when reference was made to poor support) at some point in the South, a large, fat old man coming up to the pulpit, blubbering and wiping his eyes, saying, "God bless you, sir; if we poor critters don't pay you, the Lord will." McMahon replied, "I understand that the Lord is very good for his own contracts, but I never heard that he was bound to pay your debts."

The annual session of the British Wesleyan Conference convened in John Wesley's chapel, City Road, London, on the 25th ult. Rev. W. W. Stamp was elected President. About six hundred ministers were present, being only a portion of that body, owing in part to the difficulty of entertaining such a large body and the custom of selecting a representation from their number of the oldest and most influential ministers of the connection. During the past year 123,048 pounds sterling were raised for the chapel and school department. In six years the total amount raised for the erection of chapels and schools was $74,123 pounds sterling, and in the period 744 edifices were erected and enlarged. There are 514 day schools and 43,[illegible] day scholars. [illegible] Schools and [illegible] late of the City Road [illegible] occupied the attention of [illegible] people called Methodists" on a lease of ninety years from the city of London. This lease will expire in 1870, and it became a grave question with the Conference officials whether to [illegible] a building in which, or in its grounds, rested the mortal remains of John Wesley, Richard Watson, Joseph Benson, Dr. Bunting and other great men of Methodism should pass out of the hands of the Methodists. Arrangements are in progress, and likely to be successful, to secure the perpetuity of this time-honored chapel to the Methodist connection.

The sales of Bibles in Constantinople during the year 1859, amounted to 25,156 copies.

The able European correspondent of the (Presbyterian Banner,) writes that more than 30,000 Bibles were sold or given away in Ulster, Ireland, during the summer of last year, in a district which (already) had been well supplied,

An exchange states that a Cumberland Presbytery in California has adopted a by-law to the effect that no minister, licentiate or candidate, shall be allowed to preach either for or against the institution of Slavery.

Dr. Butler, the Superintendent of the Methodist Missions in India, writes that the Rajah of Kuppoorthuula, who proved so faithful and fought so bravely for the English during the rebellion, has become a professed Christian, and is a candidate for baptism under the care of an American Presbyterian brother up country. They have lately married him to a Christian lady, and he has established a mission on his Punjaub estates. It is thought he will establish a mission on his Oude estates.

Rev. Dr. Warner (Methodist) has resigned the chaplaincy of the Ohio Penitentiary, and is succeeded by the Rev. Mr. Jenkins, Presbyterian.

The Watch contains the following:

"The leaven is at work in France. A great revival has taken place recently among Roman Catholics, near Vassol. In two or three villages nearly a thousand souls have left the Roman Catholic Church and turned to Evangelical Protestantism."

Great success has attended the Seamen's Prayer Meetings, held in the Bethel Church, Cherry street, New York, during the past thirty-one months. In this period three hundred have made a public profession of their faith in Christ. Of this number, more than two hundred were men of the sea.

The Rev. Abel Stevens, LL D., late editor of the Christian Advocate and Journal, had, within three days after his withdrawal from the editorship, three colleges offer to make him their president, and two churches their pastor. Two journals solicited his acceptance of their editorship, and two colleges offered him a professorship.

The General Convention of the Universalists of the United States, holds its next annual session at Boston, on the 18th of September. Rev. Mr. Fay, of Rhode Island, is announced to deliver the annual sermon.

A New York paper states that Rev. Mr. Babcock, formerly pastor over the Universalist Society at South Nailck, has sued the Society for salary not paid, and has attached the church organ.

The degree of D. D. was conferred on Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, by Amherst College. This honor was bestowed once before, but declined.

A large meeting of Christians (or Disciples) was held at Alliance, Ohio, recently. Elder Alexander Campbell was present.

It is stated by reliable authority that the number of conductors, firemen, switch tenders and others on the Western Railroad (Massachusetts) who are deprived of a part of their Sunday rest, for the accommodation of Sunday travelers, exceeds the whole number thus accommodated on the single train run on that day.

The Southern Churchman says:

"The Bishops of the Episcopal Church have unanimously testified that the Church canon does not forbid the leading of an Episcopal church to any respectable denomination of Christians."

The friends of Rev. Dr. Van Dousen, Rector of St. Peter's (Episcopal) Church, of this city, will be gratified to learn that his health is greatly improved. It is expected he will resume his pulpit at an early day.

A correspondent calls our attention to an item which appeared in our issue of the 11th inst., of a disparaging character to the Unitarian denomination. We were misled by an exchange. By substituting the word Universalist for Unitarian, the item appears to be correct according to recent advices. It is due to our correspondent "D" to state that there is no minister named J. D. Moore belonging to that (Unitarian) denomination, nor Unitarian Journal called the "Freeman." The paper alluded to is the "Christian Freeman," of the Universalist persuasion.

For Sale & To Let.

PUBLIC SALE OF ORIZABA IRON WORKS, SOPHIA FURNACE, &c.—by virtue of an authority vested in us as Trustees for certain creditors of Richard M'Cormick, and in pursuance of a decree of the District Court of Allegheny county, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in No. 3 of November term, 1858, we will expose to public sale at the MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, on Fourth street, in the city of Pittsburgh, on TUESDAY, SEPT. 11th, 1860, commencing at 11 o'clock a. m., the Rolling Mill and Nail Factories, situated near New Castle, Lawrence county, Pennsylvania, known as the Orizaba Iron Works, consisting 16 Boiling Furnaces, five Heating Furnaces, Bar Rolls, Small Rolls, Nail Rolls and Head Mark Rolls, four new 40 Nail Machines, one Wrought Spike Machine, and Machinery for manufacturing Nail Rods and Fire Brick.
