CITY AFFAIRS.

☞ BOOK AND JOB PRINTING,

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,

Executed at THIS OFFICE, on the most favorable terms and at the shortest notice.

TO THE BENEVOLENT.—This may certify that the Rev. Thomas James is the only authorized agent to collect money for the John Wesley Chapel, in the City of Pittsburgh, State of Pennsylvania. The above named church has been advertised for sale by the Sheriff, but the sale is put off for a few days, and it is hoped that the friends of religion will aid this poor society of colored people that they may be enabled to have a house to worship Almighty God in. "He that giveth to the poor, lendeth to the Lord."

HIRAM TANNER,
CHARLES SNOWDEN,
F. KENNY, Secretary.
Rev. SOLOMON T. SCOTT, Pastor.

ACCIDENT AT A POLE RAISING.—An unfortunate accident occurred yesterday evening while the "Lincoln Minute Men" of Allegheny were raising their beautiful pole, which resulted in it breaking about ten feet from the top, and also slightly injuring a man who was standing near by at the time. They had succeeded in getting it nearly half way up, when the principal rope parted and the pole as a matter of course fell to the earth, making a terrific crash and producing great alarm, it being feared that several persons who were working at it had been crushed to death, and that the pole had been broken into atoms. We are happy to state, however, that such was not the case. Instead of several persons being killed, it was found that no one was injured but a German named Young, whose injuries are of a trifling nature. The pole, too, sustained no material damage. The Minute Men are not to be discouraged at such trivial affairs as this. They intend to splice a piece where it was broken off, and raise it this evening.

HEAVY ROBBERY.—A daring robbery was committed at the house of Mr. Jason Kirk, near Lumber City, in Clearfield county, on Saturday afternoon last. Mr. Kirk was at Lumber City, and his son Isaac was absent, plowing, leaving no one in the house but a girl about fifteen years of age, and a boy of fourteen. About four o'clock, a tall, slim man, with sandy whiskers, and wearing a black coat and pantaloons, and a high black hat, came to the house and informed the children that the cattle were in the corn field, and to hurry and put them out. They ran immediately to the corn field, and in the meantime he broke open several chests and succeeded in getting $300 in silver and between $1,000 and $1,200 in gold! The robber had put down the fence and turned the cattle into the field in order to get the children away. His ruse was completely successful, and up to this time no trace of him or the money have been discovered.

PASSING BAD MONEY.—John Sirale, the intervidual who was committed to jail on Wednesday by Mayor Wilson for the bogus police scrape, in which he figured as one of the "Charleys," has another detainer lodged against him yesterday afternoon in the shape of an information made against him by a woman named Eliza Eisenbrandt, a resident of Grant street, who charged him with procuring money under false pretences.—She said Ald. Jones, of the Sixth Ward, Allegheny, came to her house, and got her to change bills a $5 bill on the Susquehanna Bank, Montrose, Pa., for good money, by representing it as being par money. Afterwards she found out it was bad, and asked him to redeem it, which he refused to do, saying "he didn't care."

THE CONTINENTAL OPERA HOUSE.—C. Gildenfenny & Co. have fitted up a neat concert room on Fifth street, opposite the Theatre, with the above title. The managers have spared no pains and expense in fitting up this most popular resort, and have effected engagements with the best talent in the profession, who will appear nightly in new songs, dances, wit, etc. The company consists of the following talented performers: Miss Fanny Gilmore, Mlle Fannie, Mlle Pattie Gilmore, Mr. James Flake, Mr. George Winship.

CAUGHT.—Xavier Carl, well known as the proprietor of a house of ill fame, who got off when the place was last "cleaned out," has been arrested and held in $500 bail to appear at Court. He and his wife have both been frequently arrested, but never tried. They were released to Court by Squire Wilson last time, but never tried. We hope they may receive merited punishment this time.—Morning Post.

The Carl family were tried the last time they were arrested, but were acquitted by the jury on account of there not being sufficient testimony to convict them.

GRAND MEETING.—On Thursday of next week, while the people are present in large numbers in attendance upon the Fair, there is to be a grand meeting of Republicans and all others who may choose to attend, in the yard in the rear of Trimble's Hotel, Penn street, just above St. Clair. Hon. Wm. Pennington, Speaker of the House, will certainly be here; and in all probability, Hon. Henry D. Moore and Morton McMichael, the accomplished editor of the Philadelphia North American. There will be a great outpouring of the people.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.—A man named Samuel Beyer, living in McKenna's court, off Liberty street, in the Fifth ward, was arrested yesterday by Alderman Jones' police, on a charge of assault and battery, preferred against him by his sister, Hester Elizabeth Beyer. He had a hearing before the Alderman yesterday afternoon, which resulted in his being committed to jail to await his trial at the next term of the Court of Quarter Sessions.

THE opening night at the Pittsburgh Theatre was a decided success. The clean, bright aspect of the interior, a brilliant audience, and the actors in tip-top spirits, all contributed to the success of the entertainment. Le Maro (Mr. Ralton,) and Scipio (Mr. Carden,) were particularly fine. Mr. Barnard made a decided impression in the character of the "Image Man." To-night will be performed "Jack Cade," in which Mr. Stanchett, an actor of excellent reputation, will make his first appearance.

NEARLY DEMOLISHED.—The station house of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad at Beaver was nearly demolished on Monday, by being run into by a gravel train. There were some thirty people in the station at the time, who made a very narrow escape. No one was injured, with the exception of a brakeman on the train, who was slightly wounded. The accident was owing to the disarrangement of the switch.

LINCOLN RANGERS.—The Republicans of East Birmingham met at the School House of the borough on last Tuesday evening, and organized a club with the above name by electing the following officers: President, L. Breakings; Recording Secretary, J. N. Jarrel; Corresponding Secretary, J. J. Cready; Treasurer, S. Jones; Marshal, T. H. M'Bride; Assistants, J. Hayes and S. Hollis.

THE military encampment at York, begins on Monday next. Between twenty-five and thirty military companies are expected to be in attendance. Gov. Packer, of Pa., Gov. Curtin, of Md., Secretary Floyd, and Lieut. Gen. Scott, it is stated, will probably visit York during the encampment.

THE ZOUAVES.—The new Zouave Company had a drill yesterday morning about 5 o'clock, which was attended by quite a large number of the cadets. To-night is the regular drill night, and as all the battalion are required to be in attendance, there will doubtless be a large crowd at the armory.

NEARLY FINISHED.—The East Liberty Passenger Railway is now nearly completed. The grading has been laid as far as Shady Lane, and as the rails can be put down very rapidly, we expect to see the cars running clear through to East Liberty in the course of three weeks.

BEING RETAINED.—The Mechanic street bridge is now undergoing repairs. The old floor has been taken up, and a new one is being put down. The work will be finished by this afternoon, so as to enable to Firemen's Procession to pass over it to-morrow.

DRILLING.—About 90 members of the Neptune Fire Company were out last night with a band of martial music, practicing the facings, counter-marching, etc., in anticipation of the Firemen's Parade to-morrow.

DULL.—Yesterday was one of the dullest days we have had for sometime in the city. There was absolutely nothing doing at any of the posts, or in fact any place else.

RETAILING.—The shingle market is very dull just now, and prices have a declining tendency. This decline is attributed by a great many to the supply being more than equal to the demand, but the real reason may be found in the fact that the demand is not as great as in former years, shingle roofs not being thought of when "Oregon's celebrated fire and lightning Roofing" can be obtained. The agent for this excellent material can be found at his office, Coughlin's building, Canal bank, near the city Water Works.

LIGONIER VALLEY, Aug. 31st, 1860.—Messrs. Editors: In my recent letter, I described the attractions of this romantic valley. Now, I will endeavor to relate a few incidents connected with my sojourn here. Frequently I have wished you were here in our midst, to enjoy the cool, invigorating influences of both air and scenery that are lavished upon us, (the denizens of this region,) while you are sweltering over some illegible 1858 in your sanctum, the thermometer raging in the "nineties," while we are keeping cool in the "sixties." There is connected with living in the country, some fun, some romance and much that will not come under either of these titles. A slight tinge of both these elements belong to an outside view of rural affairs, but it would speedily depart on an inside experience. Your numerous imaginations disappear when you enter the humble roof with which your imagination have associated your highest conceptions of earthly happiness. In the absence of that artistic beauty of internal arrangement to which you have been accustomed with, you forget the creeping vine without that half conceals not only the door but also the humble dwelling, the rippling brook, the rugged eminences of towering mountains, loose their charms when you dwell among them and have slipped a little of your anticipated enjoyment. Go to stay; go designing to submit to what may be unromantic, and with the best grace possible; go and make the most of what pleasures are offered; take the country for what it is, and not for what it is not, and you may hope for what your correspondent is enjoying—a good time, and for what he is dreading, a return to the city. On Saturday (to-day) we were properly equipped for a hunting and fishing excursion, and at 5 left off for the woods just as the sun was showing his disc above the horizon; his rays were tinging the tops of the trees on the distant mountains; my rifle was in excellent order; my friend was armed with an English fowling piece, and our sable son of Africa, Pete, was furnished with a blunderbuss of an ancient style—having a flint lock on it. The blunderbuss had a double charge in it, but of this Pete was ignorant; he also had charge of the fishing tackle. We had not traveled more than a mile when our sable Pete drew up the reins and turned up a "by-road," as he called it, which led us up a narrow valley through a dense woods, and by the side of a small creek. We halted at a small house and gave our horses in charge of an elderly German, who saluted us with a cordial vee gheis. We had gone but a short distance, when Pete sang out, "Ise, gemmen, lookee dar! Ain't he a big un?" and Pete smacked his lips. "I golly, won't he make a nice fricasee; whew!" I approached the pond where Pete was standing, expecting to find some huge monster, and to my surprise and disappointment, I saw but a large bull frog that was balancing upon his broad breast. With his muscular arms and webbed feet spread to their full extent, it presented a very comic appearance. "Walk right in and don't alarm it," said I; but Mr. Frog appeared to comprehend my intention, for before I could raise my rifle, he leaped with the velocity of an arrow, and her-chung he lit in the water and disappeared. "Dorg-gonned, dar goes dat good fricasee," cried Pete. Rifle in hand, I waited for his re-appearance, and not until I had given up all hopes of his return did I turn around on the side of the mountain, to a spring that Pete had noticed on a previous occasion. We found it a short time—a basin surrounded by rocks of tartaceous formation. Pete's long neck, when extended sides with the rest of a couple of Catawba wine bottles protruding out, gave proof of the tender solicitude we had left behind us. Walking gave me an appetite and the heat caused Pete to feel the necessity of the hap-penny soon satisfied the one and a cup of Catawba, mixed with water from the cool, calcareous fountain, gave luxurious relief to the other; and truly, for a few minutes I lived a life as nearly as Æ'chylus. My sensations were as grand as Keat's when he wrote Hyperion. A cigar was the natural finish to this repast, and having lighted one, I lay down upon my back to watch the blue curls as it curled upward among the green leaves, causing the tiny insects to flutter away from their perch. My emotions grew still and I fell asleep. I had been in the soft embrace of Morpheus but a few minutes when my friend noticed Pete going stealthily into the woods. The barking of a squirrel had attracted his attention, and he being anxious to have some sport or prove himself a Nimrod, he embraced this opportunity as a favorable one to display his talent. We were aroused from this state of estacy by a loud report, accompanied by the most diabolical sound I ever heard. In a short time he emerged from the woods on all fours, minus hat and blunderbuss, making a hideous noise which had a similarity to that of a frightened porker; he was the very picture of terror; his eyes were rolling in their sockets, and his teeth chattling. He grasped me by the arm, and at the same time casting a fearful glance in the direction whence he had come, as if some dreadful danger was behind him. We required but little explanation from Pete as to the cause of his agitation. We left him in charge of our horses, and went in search of the blunderbuss, but was unsuccessful, and we could not induce him to go after them; therefore he was compelled to return home minus his hat, and also his reliable gun.

We resumed our journey homeward and arrived there just as the sun was disappearing behind the western mountains. More anon.

YOUTS, M. D. J.

A DISTRESSING AND FATAL ACCIDENT.—Yesterday morning, about two o'clock, an accident of a most distressing nature occurred on the National Road, less than a mile east of this city, by which an old and estimable lady was deprived of life, and an honored citizen perhaps fatally injured. Hon. Lewis Steenrod, in company with another gentleman and a small negro girl, was coming towards the city in a carriage, and while ascending the hill east of town, in order to avoid some fresh stones upon the road, drove near a high embankment or precipice which is only partially protected by a stone wall. A wagon coming in the opposite direction, kept still to her left in order to avoid the carriage, and in so doing, the horses became frightened, and suddenly jumped, or fell, over the precipice. The occupants of the carriage were thrown out as the vehicle went over, and horses, carriage and all, were sent rolling down the hill. Mrs. Steenrod was the first to recover, and gaining a sitting position, picked up the little negro girl who was near, and asked her if she was hurt. She had scarcely done so, when she felt back a corpse. Mr. Steenrod had two ribs broken, and was so badly injured that he may not recover. Mrs. Steenrod might have well obtained his injuries, but Mr. S. has been very feeble and rheumatic for many years, and the shock will therefore go hard with him. The negro girl was not seriously injured. There were no perceptible injuries discovered upon Mrs. Steenrod, and it is supposed that, being quite aged—past seventy—and very feeble withal, she must have died from fright.—Wheeling Intel.

KILLED.—At Liverton's Coal Works, on this river, a man named Jenkins Murry was instantly killed on Monday, by the falling slag-cutter of a mill-runner. He had been sick during the first part of the day, and was coming out of the bank, but when some distance through the entry, hearing the cars coming in, he stepped aside into a "room" in order that they might go past him. Being rather weak, it is supposed, he became tripped and fell down, when one of the cars broke his head on his shoulder in some way fell and struck him in the side, causing a severe wound. From fright, or some other cause, he staggered forward and fell just before a passing car which run over his neck, causing almost instant death. This is only the theory of his death drawn from the circumstances, but as he had many enemies in the bank, other opinions are rife, and it is difficult to get at the truth of the matter. The above is the decision arrived at by the Coroner's jury, we believe.—Monon. Rep.

EYE AND EAR.—Dr. Underwood, of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skillful oculist and aurist, arrived in the city last evening, and has taken rooms at the Monongahela House, where he may be consulted for a few days only. The Allisted would do well to avail themselves of the services of this distinguished American operator on the eye and ear.

☞ We call the attention of our readers to an article advertised in another column, called BLOOD FOOD. It is an entirely new discovery, and must not be confounded with any of the numerous patent medicines of the day. It is Food for the Blood already prepared for absorption; pleasant to the taste and natural in action, and what one gains, he retains. Let all those, then, who are suffering from poverty, impurity or deficiency of blood, and consequently with some chronic disease or disease, take of this Blood Food and feel and be in health. We notice that our Druggists have received a supply of this article, and also of the world renowned DR. HAYNE'S INFANTILE CORDIAL, which every mother should have. It contains no paregoric or opiate of any kind whatever, and of course must be invaluable for all infantile complaints. It will allay all pain, and act on the gums in process of teething, and at the same time regulate the bowels. It is all mothers and nurses, who have recourse to anxious days and sleepless nights, procure a supply, and be at once relieved.

Weekly Review of the Pittsburgh Market.

[Reported specially for the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

PITTSBURGH, FRIDAY Aug. 31, 1860.

The week which has just closed has not been a very remarkable one, so far as business was concerned, at least. The transactions in all the leading articles, with but few exceptions, have been limited, and mostly of a local character, without any particular change to make from last week's quotations. The general impression prevailing among our business men is that a good Fall business may be expected.

The weather has been remarkably pleasant for the month of August, being cool at night and not uncomfortably warm through the day. This has, without doubt, been one of the most delightful summers we have had for many years.

APPLES—Are in moderate request, but the supply is sufficient to meet it. The sales during the week have been liberal at $1.50 for common, $1.75@2.00 for medium, and $2.25 for choice.

BEANS—The weeks' sales were small at former prices viz: Soda Ash 3@3½; Pots range from 4¼@4½; Pearls 5½@5¾. The stock in first hands is ample for all ordinary purposes.

ALE—Pittsburgh manufactured continues in fair demand, with steady shipments to all parts of the country. The established rates at present are:

	bbls.	half bbls.
Kennett	$6	$4.00
Cream	5	2.50
X	6	3.00
XX	7	3.50
Porter	6	3.00

BAGS—the price current of Messrs.
