—How Men Grow.—Henry Ward Beecher:—Even in the darkest cellar, when spring comes, the tuber will sprout. No rains help it, and no sunlight; yet it will waste its very life in shooting forth long and etiolated stems, and toward any chink or crevice through which the faintest gleam may come. But so little light as that makes growth to be an exhaustion.—And such are men grown in the darkness and dungeons of oppression; while a free man, with all the circumstances and opportunity of admirable liberty resembles more our own New England pine, that asks not richness of soil; that grows from among the rocks, and clothes the granite hills, and feeds abundantly even in the very sands—whose leaf never withers, and is as green in the winter as it is in the summer. Behold it, standing on the mountain's top, and singing with every branch when the summer winds sigh through it; and even in the direst extremity of winter bearing up the cold snows upon its tufted branches, as the warrior carries the white plume upon his head. And such is the man full-grown, and strong in the nourishing air of liberty."

A Telegraphic Blunder.—During the mania for the dethronement of kings, subsequent to the French Revolution of 1848, when, for a time, almost every post brought tidings of "change perplexing nations," it was related in the papers of the day that the King of Prussia had abdicated. The news not being confirmed, it was speedily discovered to be erroneous. An ingenious provincial editor thus accounts for the mistake: The magnetic interpreter of the office of the electric telegraph is a politician, and considerably interested in foreign affairs. Late events have considerably excited him, and news from France has been so extraordinary, that there is not anything which his excited mind does not anticipate on the first word of communication. The telegraph, after due warning, the other day, said—"The—King—of Prussia—has—gone—to—Pot." In another minute the communication was on its way to the newspaper office. Not long after, however, the dial was again agitated, and then came "—dam." Making it read thus: "The King of Prussia has gone to Potsdam."

Afraid.—This story is told to illustrate the way in which old Touchwood's son's "feared the Lord:" These sons were sadly addicted to wicked practices; and one Sunday morning the minister of the parish happened to meet one of them starting for the woods with a gun on his shoulder. Seeking out the father, the clergyman told him that he ought to admonish his sons, and bring them up in the fear of the the Lord.

"Fear the Lord," replied old Touchwood: "they are so afraid of him now, that they darn't stir on Sunday without a double-barrelled shot gun in their hand!"

An Ancient Seaport Brought to Light.—Signor Visconti, assisted by his son, is restoring to the light of day the ancient gate of Rome, the famous Ostia, and has already uncovered the dockyards; the marts, where still are to be seen the earthen pots, with weights; a theatre, a beautiful temple, baths, a gymnasium, a square, a gate of the city, and above all a most interesting "mitreo," one of the most perfect which Italy, or perhaps the world, possesses.

The Garden of Eden in Kansas.—It was the Rev. Lyman Coleman, we believe, who suggested that the Garden of Eden might have been located in Kansas. The Bible plainly says that the rivers of Paradise arose from one source, and, flowing out of the garden, divided into four great rivers, running in different directions. Nowhere but in South Park of Kansas, observes Mr. C., is such a thing known on earth.

☞ To Advertisers.—The Pittsburgh Daily Gazette has a large circulation among the business men in this and the surrounding cities—among those who BUY, and who SELL—and among manufacturers and producers. It may be found in nearly all the counting rooms, store houses, banking houses, hotels, factories and commission houses in the two cities, where it is read and carried home to the families for perusal. As a medium for advertising, therefore, it offers inducements which no other paper in Western Pennsylvania can offer, to all who desire to reach this large class of our citizens. The Weekly Gazette at this time has a much larger circulation in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Virginia among substantial farmers and merchants than any other secular paper in this section of the States.

☞ THE DAILY GAZETTE is the oldest Newspaper in the West, and having an extensive circulation among the business men, and reaching all classes, it offers inducements to advertisers as the best medium through which to reach the public.

☞ THE WEEKLY GAZETTE is issued every Wednesday and Saturday, on a large blanket sheet, and contains in addition to the news of the week, a carefully prepared and reliable report of the Markets, commercial and monetary affairs—making it the best Commercial Newspaper in the West

DR. MOTT'S CHALYBEATE RESTORATIVE PILLS OF IRON.

An aperient and stomachic Preparation of IRON purified of Oxygen and Carbon by combination in Hydrogen, sanctioned by the highest Medical Authorities, both in Europe and the United States, and prescribed in their practice.

The experience of thousands daily proves that no preparation of iron can be compared with it. Impurities of the blood, depression of vital energy, pale and otherwise sickly complexions indicate its necessity in almost every conceivable case. Hence, too in all maladies in which it has been tried, it has proved absolutely curative in each of the following complaints, viz:

Debility, Nervous Affections, Emaciation, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Indigestion, Dysentery, Incipient Consumption, Scrofulous Tuberculosis, Salt Rheum, Rheumatism, Whites, Chlorosis, Liver Complaints, Chronic Headaches, Rheumatism, Intermittent Fevers, Pimples on the Face, &c.

In case of General Debility, whether the result of acute disease or of the continued diminution of nervous and muscular energy from chronic complaints, one trial of this restorative has proved successful to an extent which no description nor written attestation could render credible.—Invalids so long bed-ridden as to have become forgotten in their own neighborhoods, have suddenly re-appeared in the busy world as if just returned from protracted travel in a distant land. Some very signal instances of this kind are attended to in the circulars, which are sent gratis to all applicants. Some very signal instances of this kind are attended to in the circulars, which are sent gratis to all applicants. Some very signal instances of this kind are attended of severe suffering, of wasting, of nervous and spasmodic paroxysms, sanguineous exhaustion, critical changes, and that complication of nervous and dyspeptic aversion to air and exercise for which the physician has no name.

In nervous affections of all kinds, and for reasons familiar to medical men, the operation of this preparation of iron must necessarily be salutary, for, unlike the old crudities, it is vigorously tonic, without being exciting and overbearing; and gently, regularly aperient, even in the most obstinate cases of costiveness, without ever being a gastric purgative, or inflicting a disagreeable sensation.

It is the latent property, among others, which makes it so remarkably effectual and permanent a remedy for Piles, upon which it also appears to exert a direct and specific action, by dispersing the local tendency which fosters them.

In Dyspepsia, innumerable as are its causes, a single box of these Chalybeate Pills has often sufficed for the most inveterate case, including the attendant Costiveness.

In unchecked Diarrhœa, even when advanced in Dysentery, confirmed, emaciating, and apparently malignant, the effects have been equally decisive and astonishing.

In the local pains, loss of flesh and strength, debilitating cough, and remittent hectic, which generally indicate incipient Consumption, this remedy has stayed the alarm of friends and the prejudices, in several very gratifying and interesting instances.

In Scrofulous Tuberculosis, this medicated iron has had far more than the good effect of the most cautiously balanced preparations of iodine, without any of their well known liabilities.

The attention of families cannot be too confidently invited to this remedy and restorative, in the cases peculiarly affecting them.

In Rheumatism, both chronic and inflammatory—in the latter, however, more decidedly—it has been invariably well reported, both as alleviating pain and reducing the swellings and stiffness of the joints and muscles.

In Intermittent Fevers it must necessarily be a great remedy and energetic restorative, and its progress in the new settlements of the West, will probably be one of high renown and usefulness.

No remedy has ever been discovered in the whole history of medicine, which exerts such prompt, happy and daily restorative effects. Good appetite, complete digestion, rapid acquisition of strength, with an unusual disposition for active and cheerful exercise, immediately follow its use.

Put up in neat flat metal boxes containing 50 pills; price 50 cents per box; for sale by Druggists and dealers. Will be sent free to any address on receipt of price. All letters, orders, etc., should be addressed to
