AN IMPORTANT OPINION.—THE POST OFFICE NOT TO BE USED FOR FRAUD.—The United States Attorney General has given an opinion sustaining the action of the Postmaster of Baltimore, who refused to deliver letters addressed to fictitious persons or firms. The Attorney General says the Postmaster has authority under the laws to prevent the service from being used for fraudulent purposes, and then adds: With that end in view, you certainly have power to order the non-delivery of letters addressed to any person under a name which you know to have been assumed, as part of a system intended to cheat and defraud the public. But the fraudulent intent ought to be very clear, for you are not invested with any authority to carry on an extended inquiry into the private affairs of persons who receive letters by mail, nor have you means of ascertaining with correctness what they are. It should also be remembered that the mere misnomer of a man is not sufficient grounds for saying that the name is ficticious, neither is a firm an imaginary one because the style of it has no reference to the name of its members, nor can you stop a letter on the sole ground that it is addressed to a person whose employment is immoral, it being the duty of the State Government, and not of the Post Office Department, to punish such offences. But in the case under consideration, if there be no legitimate business of any kind carried on by C., under the name of D. & Co., if he has caused letters to be addressed to Baltimore in a name which is merely imaginary, if his correspondents do not know whom they are writing to, and, if in addition to this you find the fact to be that C. is using this fiction for dishonest purposes, then the measure taken by the Postmaster at Baltimore ought to be sustained.

GEORGE H. UMASS, an enterprising young farmer of Union Springs, N. Y., has tried an experiment the present season with salt, ashes, and lime, on wheat. An acre each was selected for the three experiments. About two barrels of salt were applied to one, two two-horse loads of ashes to a second, and a hundred bushels of lime to the third acre. The result has not been measured as yet, but the effects of each are visable. The salt proved least useful; the ashes more so; and the lime most so of all. The line of superiority marking the boundaries of the limed portion was as distinct as a line fence. The increase of the crop by liming, over the portions not dressed with anything, is at least ten bushels per acre. The question occurs whether a small quantity would not have produced an equal result. This will receive the test of another trial. The land is a strong or clayey loam; and what is worthy of notice, is in the midst of a limestone region, where the country is underlaid by rocks of the coniferous limestone, which is abundantly scattered over the surface. But acids do not show carbonate of lime in the surface soil.—[Country Gentleman.

THE germination of seeds depends largely upon the care taken in sowing, the depth of covering, the temperature of the earth and air, and the season of the year. Seeds which have a thick tough skin, unless soaked in hot water four and twenty hours, germinate very slowly, in some cases lying in the ground one or two years before sprouting. Seeds sown in the earth too dry and mellow will germinate unequally. So long as moisture is withheld they will not grow, and when rain comes on such a soil some seeds will sink deeper into the earth than others. Dry, mellow earth should be rolled or pressed before planting, in order, to obviate this difficulty.

SEEDS of fruit trees, gathered for planting, must be preserved, with some moisture, and not allowed to become very dry, or they will vegetate very tardily. This is especially necessary with cherry stoneses, which must be mixed with moist sand or peat, within a few days after taken from the fruit; and other seeds, as of apple, plumb, pear, &c., are better if kept moderately moist, till subjected to frost in Winter.—Novices often fail to raise chestnuts and horse-chestnuts, because they allow the exterior shell to become dry, or partly so.

THERE are now about four thousand acres laid out in vineyards in the State of Ohio, of which nearly one-half are in the immediate vicinity of Cincinnati. It is anticipated that with good weather the Ohio vineyards will yield 1,500,000 gallons this year. The grape culture for wine-making purposes is rapidly extending in the Western and Southern States, and is annually receiving more and more attention in Connecticut.

MOTHERS

Thousands are daily speaking in the praise of DR. EATON'S

and why? because it never fails to afford immediate relief when given in time. It acts as if by magic, and one trial alone will convince you that what we say is true. It obtains

NO PARAGORIC OR OPIATE

of any kind, and therefore relieves by removing the sufferings of your child, instead of by destroying its sensibilities. For this reason, it commands itself as the only reliable preparation now known for CHILDREN TEETHING, DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, PAIN IN THE BOWELS, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, WIND, COLD IN THE HEAD, and CROUP. Also, for softening the gums, reducing inflammation, regulating the Bowels, and relieving pain. It is the no equal—being an anti-spasmodic: it is used with unfailing success in all cases of CONVULSION OR OTHER FITS. As you value the life and health of your children, and wish to save them from those sad and blighting consequences which are certain to result from the use of remedies of which other remedies for infantile Complaints are composed, take none but DR. EATON'S INFANTILE CORDIAL, the use of which you can rely upon. It is perfectly harmless, and does not injure the most delicate infant. Price, 25 cents. Full directions accompany each Bottle. Prepared only by

BLOOD FOOD

Healthy human Blood upon being always presents in its solids the same essential elements, and gives of course the TRUE STANDARD. Analyze the Blood of a Person suffering from Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Scrofula, &c., and in each you find certain deficiencies in the red globules of Blood. Supply these deficiencies, and you are made well. The $1,000 FOOD is founded upon this Principle—supplies the deficiencies.

To all suffering from CONSUMPTION, incipient or confirmed, or from debility of any kind arising from nervous prostration, brought on by any cause, or from scrofulous complaints, or from diseases of the kidneys or bladder; and to ladies suffering any of the many distressing complaints their sex are liable to, and which engender consumption, the is offered as a certain and reliable remedy. Differing in every particular from all other preparations, it is in fact a chemical combination of IRON, SULPHUR and PHOSPHORUS, of very great worth, and many hundreds bear glad and grateful testimony to the benefits it has conferred on them.

We have changed the color of the outside wrapper from red to yellow, and increased the size of the bottle to eight ounces. Be very cautious, in buying, to see that the fac simile of our signature is on the outside of the wrapper.

Price of the BLOOD FOOD $1 per bottle.
