Notice to Wide Awake Clubs

Some misunderstanding having arisen as to the manner in which the various Clubs of Wide Awakes, Rail Splitters, Minute Men, Lincoln Guards, &c, shall turn out and take part in the procession of the 27th, the said clubs are hereby requested to take the place in the procession designated in the programme of the Chief Marshal, A. G. Loyd, Esq., as the same has been published. Alex. Hay, Grand Marshal.

The Eye.—S. A. Starrett, M. D., devotes special attention to all diseases of the Eye. Cataract removed by a new operation, causing but slight pain or risk to the eye. Many interesting cases in the city and elsewhere, who have submitted to the operation, can be seen and consulted. Residence and office 211 Penn street.

The Late Explosion—More Evidence 'Before the Jury.—The jury assembled yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, to resume their investigations into the late terrible explosion. The Coroner suggested the propriety of appointing a committee, consisting of builders and architects, to examine into the construction of the building, and that Mr. Wallace, who was present, should have the privilege of naming some of them. The proposition was accepted and the following gentlemen were appointed: James Thompson, John U. Barr, Aaron Floyd, C. Bartberger, Francis, J. M. M'Clelland and Abraham Patterson.

Andrew Watson desired to correct a certain statement that had obtained currency—that he had stated that the head of the boiler was an old one. He had made no such statement, and was not so understood by the jury.

To a Juror.—My rule for ascertaining that there was sufficient water in the boiler, is twenty years' experience as an engineer. There was no evidence of the rivets having given way, no shell or scale on the inside, and the outside gave no evidence of intense heat. Again, the boiler gave way 22 feet from the fire. Sixty pounds of steam to the square inch was sufficient to throw the boiler the distance it went. The doctrine that a boiler could not be blown up when there is plenty of water, is erroneous, and its prevalence has been the cause of great damage to the West.—[Mr. W. continued on in this strain at great length.]

Robert Bougher, sworn—Am a boiler maker by trade; have worked at it about 16 or 18 years; have not been engaged at it within the two years past; made the boiler which exploded 6 or 7 years ago. It was made in Mr. Wallace's yard; the iron was made by Shoenberger, and was full ¼ inch; the heads were likewise ¼ inch, and the iron was also from Shoenberger's; never knowingly put in iron of an inferior quality in making a boiler; there was no defection either in the material or workmanship of the boiler which exploded on Monday; when this boiler was made, angle was generally used; stationary boilers have in some instances been used with perfect safety for 20 or 25 years; a stationary boiler, with proper care, ought to last 16 or 18 years. The witness also stated that some years ago he made boilers for Michael Stackhouse, one of the oldest engine builders in this vicinity at that time, and Mr. S. would have angle iron in the construction of boilers, contending that it was much the safest, although more expensive.

Mr. W. W. Wallace, re-examined—Mr. Stackhouse was considered one of the most competent judges of engines and boilers in his day; he done the very best quality of work; I had a conversation with Mr. S. in reference to putting in my boiler; he advised me to have angle iron in the boiler, as it was much more reliable and safer; the engine had not occurred when the explosion took place; think that the defect was in the gunnel iron.

Robt. Kennedy, sworn—Am a machinist by trade; have been working for Mr. Wallace; was engaged there on the day of the explosion; was on the same floor with the engine; seen the engine and boiler several times during the day of the accident; never had any doubts as to the safety of the boiler; know the boy he was assisting the engine; he never pretended to have the entire control of the engine and boiler; do not think he is capable of having charge of an engine exclusively; have rendered him assistance on several occasions about the engine; never found low water in the boiler; heard him say that on Saturday night he would leave the boiler full of water and on Monday morning would find it nearly empty; the boiler must have been in a leaking condition; was within 30 feet of the boiler when it exploded; saw no steam or water; the engine was not in operation when the explosion occurred; it was part of my business to see it started; have tried the water frequently, but did not during that day; it was the duty of the boy's father to see that everything about the boiler and engine was in good condition; the engine was an upright one and set immediately on top of the boiler.

Edward Closson, sworn—Am a machinist by trade; have been working at Wallace's for about two months; was engaged there on the day of the explosion; was on the second floor of the back building; the boy was engaged more to fire up than anything else; he did not have full control of the engine; was aware that there was an indicator on the boiler; there was an alarm given by the indicator about two weeks ago; the engine was not in operation when the explosion took place; did not see any water or steam come from the boiler after it had exploded; would not say that the boy was capable of ascertaining when there was anything wrong; the building did not shake when the engine was in operation; it is not customary to have a practical engineer in an establishment of this kind; do not think that there is any practical engineers employed in the two cities, save in the cotton factories and rolling mills; it is customary to have boys to run the engine in machine shops, etc.

All the witnesses having been examined, it was suggested by the Coroner that the jury adjourn to meet on Friday morning at 10 o'clock, at which time it was probable they would be able to hear from the committee appointed to investigate into the strength and condition of the building. The suggestion was accepted and the jury adjourned

Prince of Wales.—The Prince will arrive on next Monday evening at 9 o'clock, and leave on Tuesday afternoon at about two o'clock. The following is the Committee of Arrangements:

Hon. Wm. Wilkins, Gen. Robinson, Wm. H. Denny, Hon. George Wilson, Hon. John Morrison, Wm. Addison, Wm. Bagaley, Thos. Bakewell, J. K. Moorhead, Thomas M'Knight, P. Johnston, John S. Cosgrave, Wm. B. Committee of Reception at Depot: Hon. Geo. Wilson, Hon. John Morrison, R. B. Roberts, Geo. W. Case, Esq., Hon. Thomas M. Howe, Capt. David Campbell.

Committee at Monongahela House: Hon. Wm. Wilkins, Hon. Wm. B. McClure, Hon. Moses Hampton, Hon. Henry Williams, Dr. Robert Simpson, Thomas Bakewell, Esq., and other members of the Committee of Arrangement.

It is so seldom that absolute perfection is attained in machinery, that nothing interests us more than to see a machine that as it were gifted with intelligence, accomplishes all that could be desired and leaves no possible room for improvement. Such is the "Continental Corn Sheller," on exhibition at No. 12 St. Clair street. It works to admiration, shelling with great ease and rapidity, all kinds and shapes of ears, and nubbins and that, too, without marring the corn or breaking the cob, and without over-shelling the cob and pitching it away in an exceedingly ingenious manner.

Preparation for To-Day.—We noticed a wagon at France's brickyard, about a mile from Allegheny City, on the Beaver Road, on which a platform had been placed for the reception of a brickmaker's mould, clay, etc. It was furnished with Lincoln and Curtin flags at each corner, and we presume brick will be moulded, if not burned, on our streets to-morrow. The employees at France's yard are mostly Germans, who are turning out in large numbers for Lincoln and Curtin.

By order of the Chief Marshal, Aids and Assistants.

HIRAM HULTZ, Sec'y.

GRAND TORCH-LIGHT PROCESSION OF REPUBLICAN WIDE AWAKES OF Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Virginia.

FIVE THOUSAND LIVE REPUBLICANS IN LINE.

Our city last night was in a blaze of light, from thousands of torches borne by a great army of gallant and true-hearted Republican Wide Awakes. It was decidedly the most imposing political demonstration that was ever witnessed in this section of the State. Tens of thousands spectators thronged the side walks, giving expression to their enthusiasm by loud and prolonged cheers.

The parade was conducted with military precision, and although an immense body of men participated in it, the best of order prevailed throughout the long march.

The windows and doorways of a large number of the houses along the route of procession were filled with ladies, who literally showered down floral wreaths and boquets on the moving throng below them.

The procession was formed on Liberty street, at about 8 o'clock in the evening, under the command of Chief Marshal Alexander Hay, with the following Assistants:

Joseph Ross, James Montooth, Col. Milton McClelland, Joseph Kaye, Jos. R. Hughes, T. B. McMillen, F. Frederick, Wm. Berger, J. Slagle, Wm. P. Herbert, Thomas Hagen, Charles Sloeper, W. A. Anderson, Dr. Paul, D. Llscomb, J. Ulrich, J. H. Whitsell, Alexander Chambers, Charles Barnes, Chauncey B Bostwick, W. H. Dobinson, J. C. Shackenield, H. R Sample, H. F. Dunham, Capt. A. V. Kipp, Wm. G Bigham, Col. J. L. Lloyd, Gen. Herwig, George Richey, Joseph Ross.

The route of procession was as follows:

Form on Liberty, right resting on Water; up Water to Smithfield, up Smithfield to Fourth; up Fourth to Rose; up Rose to Pennsylvania avenue; along Avenue to Morgan; up Morgan to Wylie; down Wylie to Fifth; down Fifth to Wood; up Wood to Liberty; up Liberty to Hand; down Hand to Penn; up Penn to Mechanic; down Mechanic to bridge; over bridge to Chesnut; along Chesnut to Ohio; along Ohio to West Common; countermarch to Federal street; down Federal to bridge; over bridge to St Clair, along St Clair to Penn; down Penn to Water; up Water to Liberty, at which point it was dismissed at a late hour in the night.

The clubs—over fifty in number—were arranged in the following order:

Wheeling Wide Awakes.—This was the largest delegation from a distance, and made truly a handsome appearance. Their uniform was black. They mustered 225 men, (being less than two thirds of their whole organization,) parts of companies A, B and C. The officers of company A were

Captain—Henry Wallace,
1st Lieutenant—Edwin Reese,
2d " —Charles A. Griffin

Of company B,
Captain—George Trimble,
1st Lieut.—Theodore Croft,
2d " —Thomas Norton.

Of company C,
Captain—Charles Lynch.

They carried two transparencies, one of which displayed the coat of arms of Virginia and the inscription, with the appropriate picture annexed, "Sic Semper Tyrannis."

The following persons came with Wide Awakes; Hon. Alexander Reed, the lone star Republican Senator in the Virginia Legislature.

J. M. Punphrey, chairman of the State Executive Committee.

Thomas Hovabrook, one of the State Committee, and Jacob Hornbrook, one of the electors of the State ticket; A. W. Campbell, editor of the Daily Wheeling Intelligencer; E. M. Norton, Jacob Freeman and others.

The Wide Awakes came up on the steamer Minerva, having chartered her for that purpose. They left Wheeling at 11 o'clock Tuesday night, after Tom Corwin's speech at the Athenæum.—They are by all odds the finest body of men by their friends who wish to see them this morning.

Hookstown, (Beaver County) Wide Awakes.—Thirty-three men including military band.—they sported a fine flag and wore black capes and caps. They only obtained their uniforms last night and effected a permanent organization, having had one previous meeting.

Elizabeth Wide Awakes.—Seventy men, preceded by a military band, bearing a flag and banner and wearing black capes and caps. The banner contained on one side the inscription, "Old Elizabeth good for 500 majority!" On the other side was a ludicrous representation of Lincoln putting a rail in the big end of a horn, and Douglas peeping out of the small end. Abraham asks, "do you like rails, Stephen?" to which Stephen replies "it's a horn, Abe!"

Tarentum Lincoln Wide Awakes.—60 men in black uniform, preceded by a military band, and displaying a flag and transparency, the latter inscribed as follows: 1st side, "Tarentum Lincoln Wide Awakes;" 2d side, "Our Watchword ever Vigilant;" 3d side, "Our banner—Lincoln, Hamlin and Curtin;" 4th side, "Our motto—Liberty and Protection." This delegation also bore another transparency, which was one of the most conspicuous in the procession. One side contained a carricature of Douglas on a platform containing five planks, marked as follows: 1st plank, "Slavery Extension!" 2d do, "Dred Scott!" 3d do, "Free Trade!" 4th do, "Squatter Sovereignty!" 5th do, "Cuban Annexation!" The platform was borne on the shoulders of four negroes, crying out, "Ho! for Salt River, platform and all." The Little Giant is coming over part of his Harrisburg harangue, "Why are the interests of Pennsylvania not taken overlooked at Washington? Why, don't you see? The negro question must be settled first." The platform seems to be a little insecure, as in his struggle to keep his feet his hat falls off, showing its contents to be a copy each of the Plaindealer, Herald and Post.

Mifflin Wide Awakes—60 men, in black caps and capes, preceded by a military band, and displaying a flag and transparency, the latter inscribed on one side, "Mifflin township goded for 100 majority for Lincoln, Hamlin and Curtin;" and on the other, "Protection to American Industry, free speech, free press, free homes and free men."

Keester's Wide Awakes—Fifty men—in black uniform—preceded by a military band, and bearing a flag.

Youghiogheny Wide Awakes.—Twenty-two men —in black uniform.

Fayette Wide Awakes.—Thirty-six men—in black uniform—preceded by a military band.

Mt. Washington Wide Awakes.—Forty men in black uniform—displaying the stars and stripes.

South Pittsburgh Wide Awakes.—Preceded by the St. Clair military band. They wore black uniforms, and carried colors presented to them on their way over, by the citizens of South Pittsburgh. The flag staff was also hung with as many wreaths as could conveniently be put on it.

Lincoln Wide Awakes, of Fawn Township.—Fifty-six men—attired in red capes and black caps. They bore a transparency, inscribed on its different sides, as follows: "Fawn Township Mud Sill Wide Awakes;" "Free Homes for Free Men;" "Protection to American Industry;" "Lincoln, Hamlin and Curtin;" and, "Old Abe, our choice for the Presidency." They carried a flag, and were preceded by a military band.

Penn Lincoln Guards, of Shaler Township—Consisting of eighty men, in red capes and black caps, preceded by a military band, and bearing a transparency inscribed with the name of the organization.

Birmingham Wide Awakes.—Ninety-six men, in black uniforms, bearing a transparency, inscribed "Lincoln, Hamlin and Curtin."

East Birmingham Lincoln Rangers—38 men, in lead colored capes and red caps. They bore a banner with a portrait of Lincoln on one side and a representation of the Goddess of Liberty on the other, and a transparency inscribed as follows: "East Birmingham good for 300 majority;" "We are not driven to the polls!" "Lincoln, Hamlin and Curtin!" "East Birmingham Rangers!"

German Birmingham Lincoln Guard—64 men, in black uniform, preceded by a brass band and having a transparency inscribed with the name of their organization on one side, and, representing Lincoln in his rail splitting capacity on the other.

Rochester Lincoln Guards—20 men, in drab capes and black caps.

New Brighton Wide Awakes—160 men in black uniform, preceded by military band and bearing a transparency designating the name of the organization.

Pitt Township Wide Awakes—58 men in black uniforms. This was a company just organized and its fine turn out speaks well for Republicanism in Pitt township.

Clinton Hill Wide Awakes—55 men, in black capes, trimmed with yellow, bearing a banner inscribed, "Lincoln, Hamlin & Curtin—our choice."

Beaver Falls Club—40 men in black uniform, carrying a very handsome banner designating the name of the organization.

Waynesburg Wide Awakes—60 men in black uniform, carrying a banner inscribed "free territory, free speech and free homes."

Fourth Ward Wide Awake Club, Pittsburg—200 or 250 men in ranks, preceded by a Glee Club in an open omnibus, drawn by four horses and were also accompanied by a brass band. They had some transparencies, one of which bore the following inscription: "Protection to Free Homes, Free Men and Free Speech."

Third Ward Invincibles—100 men in ranks, gold bronze caps and drab capes, brass band, with flags, banners and transparencies.

Central Wide Awake Club, Pittsburgh—About 200 men in ranks, preceded by a brass band, and were also accompanied, we believe, by a glee club. They made a very fine appearance and were greatly admired.

Lincoln Minute Men—Chief Marshal, R. P. McDowell; 100 men in the ranks; dress, red glazed caps and capes; three or four transparencies, one bearing a picture of Honest Old Abe one one side and the Goddess of Liberty on the other; another, "We will do our Duty in October and November;" another, "Fourth Ward, Allegheny, good for 400 majority for Lincoln, Hamlin and Curtin;" and, "Old Abe, our choice for the Presidency." They presented a remarkably fine appearance.

The "Alpsham Guards," Third Ward, Allegheny—John Myers, Marshal; 58 men in the ranks; dress, black caps and capes; several transparencies, bearing the following inscriptions: Old Abe Splitting Rails; Brookbridge has released his fingers from between a log where they had been fastened, looking very pleased to get away; Douglas is sitting on a log with both hands fastened between a log that has just been opened; looks very much distressed and seems anxious to get his fingers released. Old Abe busy splitting rails, at the same time exclaiming, "you are in a tight place, gentlemen."

Central Wide Awake Club, Allegheny—Marshal, J. Heron Foster; 100 men in ranks. Banner bearing the name of the club, and a brass band consisting of 12 members. Dress: black caps and capes. They presented an unusually fine appearance, and were much admired by the vast multitude.

Allegheny Rail Splitters—T. Hagan Marshal; 90 men in the ranks and a band of martial music. Red caps and capes, with the letters A. R. S inscribed on the capes. After they had left their headquarters and proceeded a short distance, they were presented with a beautiful flag by the young ladies of the Fourth ward. It was presented in behalf of the ladies by Mr. John Pennyhill, in a few appropriate remarks, and responded to in behalf of the club by Mr. James Martin.

Sewickley Wide Awakes—Harry Myers, Marshal; dress, black caps and capes, and white collars. About 60 or 60 men in ranks, and had some appropriate transparencies, such as "No more Slave Territory," and "Penns. good for 20,000 majority for Lincoln, Hamlin and Curtin."

Washington Central Wide Awake Club—85 men in black capes and caps, preceded by Stoey's band. Banner. "Washington Wide Awakes," on one side and "Free Speech, Free Men and Free Homes," on the other.

Venice Wide Awakes—25 men in black capes and hats. Banner on which was inscribed "Venice Wide Awakes." Martial music.

Lawrenceville Inaugurators—110 men in ranks; dress, red caps and capes, and were accompanied by martial music. They also had some transparencies which we were unable to make out.

Beaver Co. Wide Awakes—About 150 men in ranks; dress, drab caps and capes, bordered with red. Banner on which was inscribed "Beaver Co. Good for 1200 majority for Lincoln, Hamlin and Curtin."

Temperanceville, West Pittsburgh, and Chartiers Lincoln, Hamlin and Curtin Guards.—Flags, banners, transparencies, &c.

Clinton Mill Wide Awake Club.—"Lincoln, Hamlin and Curtin our choice," was inscribed on one of the banners. Martial music, &c.

Sharpsburgh Lincoln Minute Men.—Martial music; about 50 or 60 men; had flags, banners, &c.

West Pittsburgh Rail Splitters—Men in black uniform, carrying a transparency inscribed with the name of the organization.

North Ward Wide Awakes—Sixty-four men in ranks, in blue uniforms, displaying a banner, presented to them by the ladies of the Ward, and inscribed as follows: "Our Principles are in accordance with Truth and Justice."

Sixth Ward Wide Awakes—Black dress, and were preceded by a brass band. They had in the neighborhood of one hundred and twenty-five or one hundred and fifty men in ranks. They made a very fine appearance.

Birmingham Lincoln Guards—Sixty men in ranks; black caps and capes. Banner inscribed "Rail Splitters Rails," and on the other, "Birmingham Lincoln Guards." They had a brass band.

This summary includes nearly the whole procession. A few clubs we have probably missed, there being such an interminable number of them that it was well nigh impossible to make an entirely accurate report of all. There was a very handsome display of fireworks which, added to the effect of the torches while the Wide Awakes were going through their various manœuvres, made a very imposing appearance. A very glittering array of torches Pittsburgh never saw. The procession was an hour in passing the Gazette office, so that the most liberal computation would make it at least two miles long. The whole was a grand success and a fit forerunner to the splendid pageant which is to be witnessed in our streets to day.

Sad Accident.—A man named Alexander Waddle lost his life yesterday, about noon, on the Allegheny Valley Railroad, nearly opposite Lock's glass works, in the Ninth ward. He was in the employ of Messrs. Gregg & Dickson, coal dealers, and while working about a coal train that was in motion, fell accidentally and one of the trucks passed over his waist. He only spoke a word or two after he was hurt, and expired. He had been a blacksmith, but had long work dull, accepted the situation of a brakesman. He leaves a wife and four children. Coroner Bostwick held an inquest on his body, and the jury returned a verdict of "accidental death."

Another.—An accident occurred in Snowden township on Tuesday, which resulted in the death of a man named Henry Adams. The deceased feiled a tree which, in falling, struck another, which was dead, throwing it upon him and killing him instantly. No one saw the occurrence, and it was some time afterwards before the deceased was found. Adams was a married man.

Mistaken Policy.—We have just been informed by a gentleman from Salem, Columbiana county, Ohio, that the Wide Awake Club of that place, and hundreds of others, were prevented from attending the Convention by the refusal of the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Railroad Company to issue excursion tickets. Great disappointment was felt, as it had been announced that all the railroads would issue these tickets, and great preparation was made for the trip by the people of Salem and the adjacent country. The agent at that point states the railroad company has lost at least $1000, at his office alone, by their suicidal policy! How much have they lost at all the stations taken together?

At the raising of the four Lincoln poles at the corner of Chesnut street and Spring Garden Road, Allegheny, on Tuesday evening, great enthusiasm prevailed, and the following offices presided:

President, O. L. Goehring; Vice Presidents, Ernest Eggar, Christ. Lappe, Lawrence Murtzig. Secretary, Adam Wiese, G. Wettach. Speakers, J. L. Koethen, (German.) Robt. McKnight, H. P. Muehler, (German) Mr. Woodward.

Correction.—Some time since, in giving the account of an accident near Sewickley, in which a Wm Byers was hurt, we mentioned the general conviction that he was laboring under the effects of liquor at the time of the accident. We have just learned that this was not the case.—Mr. Byers is a quiet, sober, inoffensive citizen of Finley township, and we regret the allusion to him which conveyed a contrary impression.

Pittsburgh Theater.—Take a glance at the bills, mark the attractions, and you will at once see the necessity of visiting the above establishment this evening, should you have any desire to witness good plays and fair acting. But by no means do not forget to-morrow night, as it is then the sufferers of the late boiler explosion take a benefit; and remember a friend in need is a friend indeed.

Sewickley Academy.—We attended a concert given at the close of this institution yesterday morning. It consisted of vocal and instrumental music, and was highly entertaining to those present. Some of the performers were very young and surprised the audience not a little by their fine execution of some of the most popular songs of the day. The more advanced pupils performed selections from "Traviata" and other operas, exhibiting a proficiency that was hardly to be expected. The "Anvil" chorus, sung by all the pupils together, and the Marseillaise hymn, which concluded the concert, elicited much applause. After the concert a game of foot ball was played, in which all present were invited to participate, and the day's entertainment wound up with a collection of very choice edibles, for which the active sport on the Academy grounds had given considerable relish.

Sewickley Academy is in a flourishing condition, there having been about 50 pupils in attendance during the present session. The next one will commence the first Monday of September. It is extremely popular, especially in the immediate neighborhood of Sewickley, where it receives the unqualified support of nearly all who have children to educate.

Awkward Blunder.—
