ALL THE VIRTUES OF ELECTRICITY AND WATER COMBINED.

THE above cut is a representation of DR. KARSHNER'S POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE ELECTRO THERAPEUTIC BATHS, for which he has obtained letters patent from the Patent Office of the United States. Three Baths have been in successful operation for the last two years, in many of our principal towns and cities, during which time hundreds of patients have tested their astonishing powers with signal success Dr. K. challenges the entire medical world to produce any one system or combined set of systems, that will cure as many diseases, and in so short a time, as his Electric Baths alone, when rightly administered. The scientific minds of all professions are cordially invited to call, examine and test for themselves.

The duration of each Bath, the temperature of the water, and the strength of the electric current, are varied according to the disease, the condition of the patient at the time, and the effects desired. The water is about blood heat, and the electricity so graduated as to produce nothing but pleasurable sensations.

There is no class of Diseases, either Acute or Chronic, to which they are not adapted—which do not yield at once to their all pervading and health-restoring influences. The aged and decrepid have been and voluntarily, to testify that they felt many years younger, and slept better than they had done for years. Others have been cured of painful diseases in a few Baths.

Nor do their healthful effects seem to be confined solely to the physical man; they have an equally happy influence upon the mental faculties, making them a most efficient means in the treatment of insanity and all abnormal mental conditions.

Among the diseases successfully treated by Dr. K.'s Baths are: Incipient Consumption, Scrofula, Paralysis, Epilepsy, (Fits,) Insanity, Delirium Tremens, St. Vitus' Dance, Curvature of the Spine, Rheumatism, Mercurial Diseases, Weakness in the Back and Joints, Nervousness, Nervous Head Ache, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Weak Eyes, Partial Deafness, Dyspepsia, Gravel and other Urinary and Genital Diseases, Falling of the Womb, Leucorrhea, and other Female Derangements, Fever, Fe. er and Ague, etc. etc.

These Baths are in successful operation at

No. 21 Fifth Street, Pittsburgh, Pa., relieving many of the afflicted daily. Call and get a pamphlet.

THE NEW YORK DAY BOOK says:

"The majority of Wafers, Hair Dyes, Hair Tonics, Hair Oils, and the numberless preparations which are now before the public under such extravagant, hyperbolical and fantastic titles as we see paraded in show cards, and newspaper headlines, as hair preparations, are all humbugs of the first water; their real merit, when they possess any, is, that they do no harm. LYON'S KALLISTON, WHALE OIL, LARD OIL, SWEET OIL, scented and colored, make up, when in beautiful wrapped and variegated glass bottles, the costliest character of tonics; and when these costly, are baptized with some triyllable term, and straight at by various young and old of both sexes. Such is not the character of Professor Wood's Hair Restorative This gentleman comes before the world without any "high falutin" Xilopholatrikon, or any other astounding and startling catchpenny terms; he simply advertises a Hair Restorative—what it supposes precisely—and as a Restorative it acts. Buy Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, and as your valise your scalp, eye, your very brains, apply nothing else for it may do you evil—get Wood's, and observe the distance than perfumed lard oil on your cranium. Remember, Wood's Restorative for the Hair is the best article extant."

It Will, by Nature's own Process,

Restore Gray Hair to the Original Color,

Will make Hair Grow on Bald Heads,

Will restore the Natural Secretions,

Will rob ore at once all itching,

Will remove all Dandruff,

Will cure all complaints of the Scalp, even Scald Head,

Will make the Hair Soft and Glossy,

Will make the old person seem young again,

Will preserve the Color of Hair to old age,

Will always Fasten it and stop its Falling,

And is one of the best Toilet Articles for the Hair now in use.

PITTSBURGH,

MONDAY MORNING, OCT. 8.

THE FALL OF THE PAPACY.

The details which now reach us, far from complete though they are, of the defeat of Gen. De Lamoriciere by the Sardinians under Cialdini, are still explicit and intelligible enough to warrant the belief that history will be called upon to revere in Victor Emanuel, King of Italy, the prince appointed of Heaven to bring to an end the temporal power of the Roman Pontiff, calmly, victoriously, and with that dignity of unrulled justice which becomes the doing of so immeasurably important an act. He must be dull of brain and cold of heart who can look with undisturbed complacency upon the extinction by cruel and questionable means of any institution about which long antiquity and the reverence of many generations of men have thrown their mystic but most real sanctity. Born of fraud and force, and maintained by the same evil instruments, the princely estate of the Roman Bishops has yet been no uninterrmittent fountain of ill to mankind. The world owes it to some great debts; and though the balance of the grand account was struck some fifty years ago, it would have been no pleasant night to see the modern partisans of Julius II. and Sixtus V. snatched from their successor forever, by hands as ruthless as those which smote down the ancient Papacy and bore it away captive for a fatal sojourn of centuries at Avignon. When Pius IX. twelve years ago turned his back alike upon principles and his people, and fled in the disguise of a diplomatic lackey to Gaeta, thus much might be pleaded in excuse for conduct alike so unpriestly and so unprincely, that the revolution which he betrayed when he had lost the hour to lead it, had become under the frantic inspirations of Mazzini a mere caricature of senseless and obstinate philosophers, falsely so called. The Roman Triumvirate of 1848, was a spectre at once so absurd and so alarming, that any rational man might well forgive a Pope for despising the counselors who would have made him embrace it, and for flinging their counsels under the wheels of a Bavarian Envoy's post chaise. The Republic of 1849 was no distinct form in the secular history of the great pontificate. It drove the Pope of itself into an abdication, from which it was morally certain that he would revert to all his old rights as soon as the external pressure should be removed.

Very different are the circumstances in which the Pope will now depart from his seven-hilled capital, should he follow the course upon which the Sacred College as we now learn, are urging him. No force of any kind, no injustice or wrong or excess now compels him to flight. He is recalling now from his friends; from the only men whose sympathy and cooperation can fortify himself and his position afresh in the fast failing respect of mankind. In deserting Rome before the advancing justice of Italy, the Pope deserts Rome forever.

In their strictly spiritual character as presiding bishops of the Roman Catholic Communion throughout the world, neither Pius IX. nor his successors can ever hope to reenter the Eternal City, if he who now wears the tripple crown shall quit its gates for a refuge in Austria or in Spain, rather than disavow his complicity in the cruelties and crimes which have driven Umbria and the Marches into rebellion and compelled the intervention of Italian armies to suppress the excesses of a foreign and mercenary horde, fighting under the keys of St. Peter.

The royal proclamation, under which the army of Victor Emmanuel entered the Papal dominions, will remain forever as the last solemn indictment of the Papacy. It offered to the Pope, in language equally touching and respectful the only hope which Lamoriciere, and Antonelli, and Austria, had left, to him of reigning in the heart of regenerated Italy. It reminded him that in his name the sacred love of country had been branded as worse than Islamism, and it adjured him for Italy and the Church, to rest on Italy, and rule the world, instead of resting on the world and ruling over Italy. Though the most urgent, this proclamation is not by any means the first warning which the Bonapartist Pontiff has been permitted to read in unmistakable characters of fire.

To go no further back than the peace of Paris, four years ago Europe assembled in Congress at the Tuileries, bade the King of Naples, and through him the Papal Government, beware of the work which they were doing. They were told then that every hour of the desperate policy they had adopted was an hour of maturing revolution. The King of Naples relied on his soldiers and his treasury, and flung back the advice of Europe into the face of those who gave it. The Pope and his Cardinals relied on the instincts of their hierarchial connexion with the subjects of every Roman Catholic State and their consequent fancied control over the political course of every Roman Catholic Power. They went on like the fool of the Scriptures, adding tax to tax and tyranny to tyranny, enriching themselves and all their dependents, impoverishing the Church in all that makes its eternal and enduring wealth.

After the Congress of Paris came the joint insurances of England and of France; then the outbreak of all Italy, into a new life on the battle fields of Magenta and Solferino, at the inspiring voice of a great sovereign, and of the binding association of arms with a mighty and glorious people; then the toppling down one after another, as by some inward invisible force without bloodshed, or confusion or disorder, of the petty princes—Tuscan, Modenese, Parmesan—who ventured to array themselves athwart the unanimous movement of the Italian race. All these were in vain; in vain the offer of the leadership and Presidency of the new Italian confederation.

To all these warnings, the rulers of Rome had but one answer to make. They set about consolidating a league of resistance against what they chose to regard as the ambitious aspirations of North Italy. They would unite their forces with those of Naples, and under the protection, and with the cooperation, open or secret, of all the reactionary influences of Europe, they would crush Garibaldi back into his older limits, recover the Romagna by force for the head of the religion of love, put Francis of Modena, and Robert of Parma, and Ferdinand of Tuscany, back on their lost thrones, and once more all should go in Italy at the sound of the priestly bell, and the wave of the royal sceptre.

Garibaldi and Victor Emmanuel have scattered all these dreams;—yet mark with how close and patient a consideration for the Pontiff, who had put them and theirs under the ban of the Church, which they alone are now capable of saving in Italy. They turn their arms first against Naples trusting in that the fall of the Bourbon might at last awaken the Pope from his sleep of another age, and make the Pope still possible in liberated Italy. Naples falls—like a house of cards, so suddenly that the event seems the work of magic, rather than of arms, and what is the result in Rome?

The King of Naples quits his capital on the 7th only to be invited on the 8th by Pius IX. to take up his abode in the Quirinal; and the joyous shouts of the Neapolitan people welcoming the deliverer of Italy are echoed by the orders of Gen. De Lamoriciere for suppressing instantly by the sword every symptom of "Italianism" throughout the States of the Church. Who now shall aid a Power which has so recklessly abused the long suffering of mankind, and defied the clearest intimations of Providence? Not parasyzed Austria, nor Byzantine Russia. Protestant England and Prussia are a guarantee for the abstinence of others, as well as for their own. France alone, as the protector of the Papal personality in Rome, might possibly be driven to the confusion of the world, and to her own unspeakable disgrace, into so untenable an attitude, were the leaders of Italy madmen, or the Emperor of the French a Bourbon. In the very different actual state of the case, it is quite beyond reasonable doubt that, whatever, resolution the Pope and his Cardinals may take, their final settlement with Italy is at hand, and must be made with none but themselves to assume its just responsibilities.—*N. The Political Campaign in Pennsylvania.

[Special Despatch to the New York Times.]

PHILADELPHIA, Thursday, Oct. 4.—The State of Pennsylvania might furnish just now a most complete exhibition of the politicians of all the States of the Union. They are here from all quarters, talking, canvassing, bargaining. It is the busiest hive of drones that I ever saw. Of course, everybody here is making inquiries as to probable results. I have done my share of that; at least I find the utmost confidence prevailing among the men of the People's Party, that their candidate, Col. Curtin, will be elected by a majority that cannot be less than ten thousand, and which may be thirty thousand. They base their estimate of success upon these foundation stones: First—Is no previous contest has the State been so thoroughly organized. For the first time in years a regular and reliable canvass by election precincts has been made. Second—Col. Curtin, the candidate for Governor, is personally popular, an efficient stump speaker, and never failing to make a favorable impression. He has spoken at ninety-three meetings since his nomination—almost an average of twice in each county. Third—Until within the last three weeks, the different branches of the Democratic and Bell factions have been as wide apart as the Lincoln and Breckinridge men. Since the attempted fusion in New York, there has been a kind of fusion here, but the friends of Curtin say this is not cordial, and if it were, it comes too late; and that the weight of the Administration will break it down. Fourth—that Pennsylvania is again beset with that mania for a change which possessed her in 1848, and which always breaks her away from her Democratic moorings. They find evidence of this in the unparalleled numbers who attend the political meetings.

So much for the reasons why the Peoples Party will carry the State. I have seen the evidence that most of these positions are well taken. The canvass has been conducted with great energy, and with a close regard to details. I have met Col. Curtin more than any other man I have met this year on the stump. He seems to carry the people. He has the power to magnetize a crowd and draw it after him. This is no under estimate of the energy of the three fractions op
