ALL THE VIRTUES OF

ELECTRICITY AND WATER COMBINED.

THE above cut is a representation of DR. KARSHNER'S POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE ELECTRO-THERAPEUTIC BATHS, for which he has obtained letters patent from the Patent Office of the United States. These Baths have been in successful operation for the last two years, in many of our principal towns and cities, during which time hundreds of patients have tested their astonishing powers with signal success. Dr. K. challenges the entire medical world to produce any one system or combined set of systems, that will cure as many diseases, and in as short a time, as his Electric Baths alone, when rightly administered. The scientific minds of all professions are cordially invited to call, examine and test for themselves.

The duration of each Bath, the temperature of the water, and the strength of the electric current, are varied according to the disease, the condition of the patient at the time, and the effects desired. The water is about blood heat, and the electricity so graduated as to produce nothing but pleasurable sensations.

There is no class of Diseases, either Acute or Chronic, to which they are not adapted—which do not yield at once to their all pervading and health-restoring influences. The sick and decrepid have been led, voluntarily, to testify that they felt many years younger, and slept better than they had done for years. Others have been cured of painful diseases in a few Baths.

Nor do their healthful effects seem to be confined solely to the physical man: they have an equally happy influence upon the mental faculties, making them a most efficient means in the treatment of Insanity and all abnormal mental conditions.

Among the diseases successfully treated by Dr K.'s Baths are: Incipient Consumption, Scrofula, Paralysis, Epilepsy, (Fits,) Insanity, Delirium Tremens, St. Vitus' Dance, Curvature of the Spine, Rheumatism, Mercurial Diseases, Weakness and Joints, Nervousness, Nervous Head Ache, Asthma, Bronchitis, Sick Head Ache, Mental Despondency, Dyspepsia, Gravel and other Urinary and Genital Diseases, Falling of the Womb, Leucorrhea, and other Female Derangements, Fever, Fever and Ague, etc., etc.

These Baths are in successful operation at

No. 21 Fifth Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.,

relieving many of the afflicted daily. Call and get a pamphlet.

Quack Nostrums.

THE NEW YORK DAY BOOK says:

"The majority of Hair Washes, Hair Dyes, Hair Tonics, Hair Oils, and the numberless preparations which are now before the public under such extravagant, hyperbolical and fantastic titles as are generally set forth in showcards, and newspaper headings, as hair preparations, are all humbugs of the most barefaced description, whatever they possess say, is, that they do no harm. HOGG'S LABYRINTH, LAND OIL, SWEET OIL, scented and colored, make up, when in beautiful wrappers and white Bristol glass bottles, the costliest character of tonics; and when that costly, are beguiling with some triflable term, and caught at by verdant young and old of both sexes. Such is not the character of Professor Wood's Hair Restorative This gentleman comes before the world without any 'high falutin,'' Rhetoricorism, or any other astounding and startling quackery terms: he simply advertises a Hair Restorative—what it expresses positively—and as a fact—is active it acts. Buy Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, and as sure as you value your scalp, ears, your very locks, apply nothing else; for it may be that you will get some of the deleterious stuff purchased last fall on your cranium. Remember, Wood's Restorative for the Hair is the best article extant."

It Will, by Nature's own Process,

Restore Gray Hair to the Original Color,

Will make Hair grow on Bald Heads,

Will restore the Natural Secretions,

Will remove at once all itching,

Will cure all Dandruff,

Will cure all eruptions—even Scald Head,

Will make the Hair Soft and Glossy,

Will make Hair grow round scalds,

Will preserve the Color of Hair to old age,

Will always keep Hair from falling,

And is one of the best Toilet Articles for the Hair now in use.

R. ERRETT & CO.,

FIFTH STREET, ABOVE SMITHFIELD.

PITTSBURGH:

TUESDAY MORNING, OCT. 9.

WHAT FOSTER ACCOMPLISHED.

"I did go there (to Washington) and talk with those Senators. I told them that the great manufacturing interest of Pennsylvania demanded at the hands of the government this measure of protection; that, besides, the necessities of the government called for this increase of revenue."—Foster's speech in Philadelphia.

We give Mr. Foster the benefit of his own version of his visit to Washington, although he omitted to tell the people in Independence square that his most urgent appeal to Mr. Hunter and the democratic Senators was to save the party from an impending ruin, which became inevitable unless some dodge on the tariff was made to avert it. How did his political friends answer the appeals which he professed to have made in behalf of Pennsylvania. This is the plain and practical question. With all the influence which Mr. Foster could bring to bear, and all the representations he made, not a solitary vote was changed in that body. The Morrill bill would have been carried with two votes in addition to those given, and yet Mr. Foster, Mr. Bigler and the President could not command even that meagre support with all their exertions, supposing them to be sincere, which we rather incline to doubt, from various causes.

When it was of the utmost importance that the friends of the bill should be united, and concentrate all their efforts with one impulse, and in one direction, Mr. Bigler prepared a scheme of his own as an element of distraction, and sought to obtain support on the democratic side for it in preference to the Morrill bill, which had already passed the House by the solid vote of our friends, and only wanted the aid of two democratic votes to pass the Senate. We don't know whether Mr. Foster favored this movement or not, but suppose he did, as the humble follower of Mr. Bigler and the Administration. When the President desired to force the English bill through the House, although confronted by a decided majority, he found means to conquer the prejudices of his friends, and to convert the necessary votes. Had he and his administration really desired the success of the Morrill bill, the same instrumentalities could have carried it. Whenever slavery was to be advanced or protected, they were prompt enough to discover the needed influences; but when the industry of our honest and toiling white masses required attention, it was turned over to the cold charity of free traders and propagandists like Mr. Hammond, who hold that "all the laborers and operatives of the north are slaves."

Mr. Foster confesses that he accomplished nothing at Washington; and the record shows that his whole party in the Senate, with two exceptions, neither of whom he pretends to have influenced, voted steadily and solidly against the Morrill bill, while the whole republican side, without a single exception, voted for it. The democrats peremptorily refused to make any concession to Pennsylvania, or to yield to the importunities of Foster and Bigler, to give them some show upon which they might again mislead the people. Mr. Hunter and his followers refused even that pitiful supplication, knowing that the party in Pennsylvania was always obedient to their commands, and that the leaders like Foster would not dare to resist any dictation. Mr. Foster was then, as now, a candidate for Governor, and importuned his political friends, on that ground, to do something to save him from defeat. The journal of the Senate tells how they disavowed upon every proposition. They would hear no appeals, yielded to no intercession, and refused to concede a particle of the prejudice and hostility against our interests. The democrats killed the bill, and told Mr. Foster to go home to the people of Pennsylvania, and tell them who did it. This is the exact result of his mission to Washington, and we do not wonder that he boasts of it.—Phil. N. Amer.

DREADFUL STEAMBOAT EXPLOSION.—SEVERAL LIVES LOST.—The steamer Bayou City, Captain Forrest, a regular packet plying between Galveston and Houston, exploded her boilers on the night of the 27th ult., killing seven, and injuring some ten or twelve others. From an extra of the Galveston News we extract the following:

Our city was startled this morning by a report that the steamboat Bayou City, Captain Forrest, one of the packets plying regularly between this port and Houston, and which left here last evening, had exploded her boilers when near Lynchburg, causing much loss of life and wounding many. It was known that there was a large number of passengers on board, besides the full complement of officers and crew.

There were, as far as we could ascertain from various sources, about sixty or seventy passengers on the Bayou City, including five or six ladies and some children. None of the ladies or children were hurt, though a piece of iron flew into their part of the cabin. Two boys were saved by one of the stewards, a colored man, who snapped them as they were running to the bow, alarmed by the noise; took them up in his arms; ran down a back way and placed them on the barge.

As the Clerk's office, with the safe, books and papers, was blown to pieces, it is not likely we shall ever have a complete list of passengers.

Several of the latter, with some of the crew, jumped overboard, and we have yet no means of knowing how many were saved and how many lost in the water. As the bayou is quite narrow at the point where the accident occurred, those who could swim and jumped overboard, uninjured by the steam, had a good chance to save their lives.

The explosion injured the boat, we understand, only immediately above the boilers.

Capt. Sterrett sent the Mary Hill back to the wreck at once, and will go up early in the Neptune this afternoon. A great many of the passengers and several of the officers remained with the wreck.

The News of the 29th has the subjoined additional facts.

Mr. J. T. Irvin, Speaker of the Georgia House of Representatives, and one of the most prominent men in the State, was on board with a family of nine negroes, and his brother-in law, Mr. O. L. Battle, of Egypt, Wharton county. He was seen rushing out, and it is believed he jumped overboard and was drowned. None of his negroes were injured. Nearly all the people killed were negro hands employed on board the steamer—out of the lot seven were killed outright. Many of the passengers and crew were scalded.

POPULATION OF ANNAPOLIS, &c.—It appears from the official returns of the census, that the entire population of Annapolis, Md., is 4,659, including 1,434 white males, 1,464 white females, 551 free colored males, 505 free colored females, 220 maleslaves, and 225 female slaves. The Annapolis Gazette says:

By the census of 1850, Annapolis contained 3,011 inhabitants, of which 918 were white males and 913 white females; 266 free colored males and 297 free colored females; 249 male slaves and 403 female slaves. This shows a total apparent increase of 1,647 which is not actually the fact—inasmuch as by the recent enumeration is contained all who live within the walls of the Naval Academy—some 800 persons. It is a notable fact that the free colored population has doubled in ten years, while the white population—even with the addition of the inhabitants of the Naval Academy—has increased but about one-third while the slave population has diminished more than one fourth.

SEWARD'S SPEECHES IN THE WEST.—The St. Louis Democrat says:

"We would but echo the unanimous opinion of the Republicans of Missouri if we expressed unqualified admiration for the extraordinary fertility of thought which Gov. Seward has manifested in his addresses to the people of the West. No other man has enunciated with such clearness the manifest destiny of the Republic—not that Manifest Destiny which can see no glory except in annexation; but that nobler and truer destiny which is to be attained by organic development and industrial progress. Wherever he has spoken he has made an original speech. The genious of the West seems to have inspired him. He seemsto have acquired a wider mental horizon in his tour. His recently enunciated views have a vastness and sublimity akin to the prairies and rivers of the West—at least it is no task to imagine such a resemblance."

RECIPE FOR IMPROVING CIDER.—Let the new cider from sour apples (sound and selected fruit is to be preferred) ferment from one week to three weeks, as the weather is warm or cool. When it has attained to lively fermentation add to each gallon one quarter of an ounce of sulphate of lime. Stir the powder and cider until intimately mixed, and return the emulsion to the fermenting liquid. Agitate briskly and thoroughly for a few moments, and then let the cider settle. The fermentation will commence at once. When, after a few days, the cider has become clear, draw off and bottle carefully, or remove the sediment and return to the original vessel. If loosely corked, or kept in a barrel on draught, it will retain its taste as a still cider. If preserved in bottles, carefully corked, which is better, it will become a sparkling cider, and may be kept indefinitely long.—Ohio Farmer.

GARIBALDI AND VICTOR EMMANUEL.—The following paragraph we find in the Manchester Guardian, and it would seem to set at rest the reports which have got abroad as to a rupture between the Italian Dictator and the King of Sardinia:

Mr. Edwin James in a letter to a friend, written at Naples on the 8th instant, thus describes his interview with Garibaldi at Salerno, on the morning of that day:

"At my interview with him yesterday at Eboli, which was a hurried one, he requested me to see him in the evening; he was so surrounded by crowds of admirers, all anxious for a glimpse of the 'great man,' that I delayed my interview until this morning. On entering the large rooms of the Hotel de Ville or 'Intendenza,' the throngs of people and their agitation and excitement were most striking. The National Guard of Salerno
