ELECTROPATHY.

PROFESSOR A. S. GREGORY and J. GOUCHER, M. D., have associated themselves together in the practice of their profession, thus uniting Electropathy and Hydropathy with a

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

They have their establishment supplied with a new set of ELECTRIC BATHS, which are superior to any now in use. The water used is of such a temperature, and the electric currents are so regulated, that the patients, in receiving the benefits of these remedial agents, experience no unpleasant sensation. This system of treatment is among the safest, most effectual and least objectionable; it equalises the circulation, soothes nervous irritation, and restores a healthy balance to disordered functions. The medicine prescribed will be compounded and put up at their office, under the immediate care of Dr. GOUCHER, who has had twenty years experience in treating diseases.

The following are some of the diseases that yield to their treatment:

Palsy or Paralysis, Incipient Consumption, Rheumatism, both Acute and Chronic, Neuralgia, Headache, Torpid Liver, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, Weakness and Curvature of the Spine, Scrofula, Dyspepsia, Deafness by Paralysis, Ringing in the Ears, Amaurosis, Cataracts, Weak Eyes, Erysipelas, Spasmodic Retention of the Urine, St. Vitus' Dance, Chalic, Salt Rheum, Prolapsus Ani or Piles, Female Weakness and Irregularities, General Debility, Derangements of the Nervous System, Stiff Joints, all Diseases of the Bowels, Fever and Ague; and Fistula, Invariably Cured without the Knife.

In addition to their office business, they purpose attending to a GENERAL PRACTICE. All calls in the city and vicinity receive prompt attention. Letters containing stamp for postage will be attended to immediately, and if treatment is required, FIVE DOLLARS must be enclosed, for which they will send medicine to any part of the United States.

Quack Nostrums.

THE NEW YORK DAY BOOK says:

"The majority of Hair Washes, Hair Dyes, Hair Tonics, Hair Gems, and the numberless preparations which are now before the public under such extravagant, hyperbolical and fantastic titles as we see paraded in show window cards, and newspaper headlines, as hair preparations, are all humbugs of the first water, their real merit, when they possess any, is that they do no harm. ROOT'S LARD, WHALE OIL, LARD OIL, SWEET OIL, scented and colored, make up, when in beautiful wrappers and white flint glass bottles, the characteristics of delusion, and principles costly, are baptized with some trifyllable term, and caught at by verdant young and old at both sexes 'both to suit the character of Professor Wood's Hair Restorative.' This gentleness comes before the world without any "high falutin" about it. Restorative, by any other astounding and startling catchpenny term, he simply sells under a Hair Restorative—what it supposes precisely—and as a Restorative it acts. Buy Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, and as you value your scalp, ears, your very brains, apply both to it or it may be that you will get some worse substitute than perfumed lard oil on your cranium. Remember, Wood's Restorative for the Hair is the best article extant."

It Will, by Nature's own Process,

Restore Gray Hair to the Original Color,

Will make Hair Grow on Bald Heads,

Will restore the Natural Secretions,

Will remove at once all itching,

Will remove all Dandruff,

Will cure all eruptions—even Scald Head,

Will make the Hair Soft and Glossy,

Will make the old appear young again,

Will preserve the Color of Hair to old age,

Will always Fasten it and stop its Falling.

And is one of the best Toilet Articles for the Hair now in use.

DR. MOTT'S CHALYBEATE RESTORATIVE PILLS OF IRON.

AN APERIENT AND STOMACHIC Preparation of IRON purified of Oxygen and Carbon by combination in Hydrogen. Sanctioned by the highest Medical Authorities in Europe and the United States, and prescribed in their practice.

The experience of thousands daily proves the true preparation of Iron can be compared with it. Impurities of the blood, depression of vital energy, pale and otherwise sickly countenance all require this remedy; in almost every curable case. Innumerable all maladies in which it has been tried, it has proved absolutely curative in each of the following complaints, viz:

Debility, Nervous Affections, Emaciation, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Impotent Consumption, Scrofulous Tuberculosis, Salt Rheum, Stomach Affections, Whites, Chlorosis, Liver Complaints, Chronic Headaches, Intermittent Fevers, Pimples on the Face, &c.

In cases of General Debility, whether the result of acute disease or of the continued diminution of nervous and muscular energy from chronic complaints, one trial of this restorative has proved successful to an extent which no description but written attestation would render credible. Invalids so long bed-ridden as to have become a burden in their own neighborhoods, have suddenly re-appeared in the busy world as if just returned from protracted travels in a distant land. Some very aged persons have been benefitted to a state of female sufferers, emaciated victims of apparent consumption, sanguineous exhaustion, cruical results of both complication of nervous and dyspeptic aversion to air and exercise for which the physician has no name.

In Nervous Affections of all kinds, and our reserve familiar to medical men, the operation of the preparation of Iron proves necessary to destroy, by means of the old oxide, its vigorously tonic, without being exciting or astringent, healing and gently, regularly aperient, even in the most delicate habits. Not compelled to yield, few would attempt to defy a gastro-purgative, or inflicting a disagreeable sensation.

It is this same property, among others, which makes it so remarkably effectual and permanent a remedy for Piles, upon which it also appears to exert a distinct and specific action, by diminishing the local tendency which forms them.

In Dyspepsia, innumerable as are its causes, a single trial of these Graphenate Pills has often suffered for the most habitual sufferer in healing the stomach and digestion.

In unchecked Diarrhœa, even when advanced to Dysentery, confirmed, and usually separately malignant, the effects have been equally decisive and astonishing.

In the local pains, loss of flesh and strength, debilitating cough, and resulting Pulmonic Consumption, which is the opprobrium of medicine, and perplexes, in several very gratifying and interesting instances.

In Scrofulous Tuberculosis, this medicament from her bad influence than the "gentle salamander," as the ancients termed the most inveterate of ulcers, without any of their wonted repugnance.

The attention of families cannot be too confidently invited to this remedy and restorative, in the cases peculiarly affecting them.

In Rheumatism, both chronic and inflammatory—in the latter, however, more decidedly—it has been invariably found reported, both as alleviating pain and reducing the swellings and stiffness of the joints and muscles.

In Hysterics, Fevers it may not necessarily be a great and energetic restorative, and the progress of the new settlements of the West, will probably be one of high demand and value.

No remedy has ever been discovered in the whole history of the world, which exerts such prompt, happy, and fully restorative effects. Good appetite, complete digestion, rapid acquisition of strength, with an unusual disposition for active and cheerful exercise, immediately follow its use.

Put up in neat flat metal boxes containing 50 pills, price 50 cents per box; for sale by Druggists and dealers. Will be sent free by mail on receipt of price. All letters, orders, etc., should be addressed to

THE UNION.

BY DAVID BATES.

"It must and shall be preserved."—JACKSON.

What! read this glorious federal arch
Or which our proud fair is embattled,
And scrub the hopes, and chain the march
Of freedom to a fettered world!

The wretch who seeks to rend in twain
The Union that our fathers gave,
Shall, living, bear the curse of Cain,
And, dying, fill a traitor's grave.

Where is the man who drew his breath
In this fair temple God has made,
Who dares to die the living death
Of treason by his act betrayed.

Stand forth; and let the world behold
Another Arnold beauly born,
With feet for power and thirst for gold,
And bear a traitor's curse and scorn.

The Union's safe. Ye need not fear
The words from babbling tongues distilled
Will check her in her proud career,
Till her grand mission be fulfilled.

South Carolina in 1832.

The following extracts indicate how General Jackson's proclamation in 1832 was received in South Carolina:

[From the Charleston Mercury, Dec. 11, 1832.]

The Declaration of War made by Andrew Jackson against the State of South Carolina occupies to day the larger portion of our columns. It will be read with the feelings which so extraordinary a document is calculated to excite. This unhappy old man has been sufficiently by his advisers to arrogate the power to coerce a State of the Confederacy. He has issued the edict of a Dictator—an edict which time will prove whether he dares or can enforce. He has attempted in this proclamation to intimidate the Whigs of South Carolina by threats, and to encourage and foment insurrection and violence on the part of the internal enemies of the State. This document was received here yesterday, and greeted with the indignation and contempt which it merits. In every freeman worthy of the name it has created no other feelings than those of defiance and scorn. Recreants will hail it as a brave blow in the cause of treason.

[From the Charleston Mercury, Dec. 19, 1832.]

The crisis for which every intelligent and resolute Carolinian Whig has long been prepared is come. The efficacy of our remedy has been demonstrated. We were told it would be inefficient; it has proved so potent that our unfaithful administration has been compelled, in despair of otherwise defeating us, to resort to brute force. We have always said that our remedy was of right peaceful—we never said that it would necessarily be peaceful—it is always in the power of a bad man to outrage right by violence, if unrestrained by principle or a fear of consequences personal to himself. Gen. Jackson has not furnished the first example. There has been a Caesar, a Cromwell, and a Bonaparte—men of towering genius who have stooped to play the usurper. Why may not an inferior spirit without as much heart as either, and with none of their genius, aspire to imitate them in other actions of their lives which alone he can imitate, because they are criminal.

In the Legislature, Mr. Pickens declared "the bailiwick the content would end in blood. The document of the President was none less than the edict of a tyrant, and if they were for war, he was ready, and if he believed all the citizens of the States to meet the storm with unsparing manliness. He, for one, never would submit—if driven from the seaboard, he was for carrying on the war in the interior; if driven from the interior, he was for a guerilla warfare in the mountains. Submission, if at last compelled to yield, he would contend to the last drop, or blood he had to sustain the ordinance, and the authority thereof. He adverted to the doctrines contained in the proclamation, relative to the rights of the States, and was astonished that the President should allege to be the enemies of the State from their proper allegiance, and in no measured terms denounced the whole proceedings. He concluded by saying, that before South Carolina should recede, he was for war up to the very knife, and he was for risking all at every hazard on the die that was cast."

The Wide-Awakes.

The campaign of 1860 ought not to pass out of the public mind without due recognition of the services rendered by the Wide Awakes to the Republican party. Their organization was one of the new features of the late Gubernatorial and Presidential contests, and one of the best. They provided a means for bringing together in a distinct mode of service those younger and more enthusiastic members of the party who are always the life of a campaign, and who furnish the most efficient labors. They presented an attractive nucleus which drew thousands ultimately to our ranks.

They offered themselves as a trained body of intelligent workers, from whom individual members could be selected for all varieties of service, with confidence that they would do their work well. They gave a picturesque beauty and interest to all the public displays of the campaign which relieved it from much of the harshness and irksomeness heretofore experienced. And they imparted a cheerful enthusiasm, which told in a thousand ways on the steady promotion of the good cause—for who ever saw the processions of variegated lights and banners, dancing above the serried columns of youth, and manly vigor, and to the strains of martial melody, filing through our streets, without being stirred to new hopes, new resolves, new endeavors?

All honor, then, to the Republican Wide Awakes! Their distinctive duties, probably, are over: their lights no longer shine: their torches are suspended as household mementoes, or find their way to the rubbish of the garret; their uniform retires from public life, and perhaps disappears altogether. So be it. The great triumph for which there things had their day—or rather their nights—has been achieved, and in the full blaze of victory we need no more these "ineffectual fires." But let us render in season our gratitude to the Wide Awakes for what they have been and what they have done.—Lancaster Exam.

THE SOUTH NOT IN FAVOR OF SECESSION.—The Missouri Republican, one of the most influential papers of St. Louis, says:

Unfortunately, as we think, the telegraph is made the great lifter of the country, and is doing more to keep up an exasperated and bad state of feeling than all other causes combined. One half of the time there is no truth in what it transmits to all quarters of the country, seemingly with a view to keep up discord, and too frequently it wrests some fact or assertion from its proper connection, thereby doing an infinite amount of mischief. The grand design seems to have been on the part of the plotters against the Union to precipitate the States and the people into a position from which they could not well recede with honor, and thus to bring on a contest between the North and South. But it is lucky circumstances that the press at this day is quite as potential as the politicians, and more mindful of the interests of the great world to which they address themselves every day; and we shall be much mistaken if even in the so-called cotton States, they do not, teach the ostensible leaders a lesson which may last them for a lifetime. Our extracts show something of this spirit.

HOW PAGANINI WAS CURED OF GAMBLING.—Paganini was desperately fond of gambling once. His favorite violin was a large Guarnerius, so called from Guarnerius, their maker, (these instruments are worth their weight in gold,) which a Russian Prince was anxious to purchase from him. He often asked Paganini to sell it to him, and at last, Paganini, tired of his repeated appeals, told him that he would sell the violin for $1000. The Prince told him he must be joking to ask such a sum of money, but that he would give him $500 for it. Paganini had lost everything he owned at gaming tables the night before; his jewels, his rings, his breastpins, his watch, had all been lost, and he had nothing in the world but thirty francs and his violin left. He was about to accept the Prince's offer, when he determined to appeal once more to the gaming table. He did so. He lost, lost, lost—nothing was left in his hand but three francs, and he was obliged to leave the next day for St. Petersburg. He staked these three francs. The run of luck turned, and he soon won money enough to carry him to St. Petersburg. "I was saved!" said Paganini, speaking of this incident, "if was sure of keeping my beloved Guarnerius. Since then I saw that the gambler was the most contemptible being on earth, and I have never since touched a card.—Paris Cor. of N. O. Picayune.

PHOTOGRAPHED BANK NOTES.—So rapidly are they produced and put in circulation it is impossible to keep the run of them. They can be very easily detected; the best and surest way is to draw your fingers after the bill, and if it is very smooth and polished it is doubtless a photograph. The paper must be glazed for photographing, which is not done in printing, and when finished, photographs have a varnished appearance. A little rubbing with the finger will blur the engraving just give
