PITTSBURGH:

MONDAY MORNING, DEC. 17, 1860.

WHO ARE DISUNIONISTS.—The singular spectacle is now presented of Disunionists trying to palm themselves off as Union men, and to fix upon the friends of the Union the stigma of hostility to it.

Nearly all the democratic papers in the North openly sympathize with and aid, as far as they can, the Disunionists of the South. They gloat over every item of intelligence that indicates the triumph of Secession, and will be awfully disappointed if the Union should by any chance be preserved. Yet they set themselves up as the true and only friends of the Union!

The Republican papers of the North, on the contrary, are all for the Union. They have taken every opportunity to demonstrate their attachment to it, and are prepared to defend and sustain every constitutional effort for its preservation. Their motto is—"The Union: it must and shall be preserved." Yet the Republican party and its presses are held up as Disunionists, the men who are imperilling it because they will not agree to abandon the fruits of a hard-earned victory!

It is a notorious fact that nearly every Disunionist in the country is a Democrat. Every article written and every speech made against the Union has proceeded from a professed democrat: nearly all of them from the Breckinridge faction. The disunion speeches fulminated in Congress during the present session have been made by leading democrats, such as Joe Lane, Clingman, Brown, Iverson and Wigfall. They rivalled each other in declarations of enmity to the Union, and their determination not to stay within it under present circumstances; and it is the democratic party, where alone that party has any vitality, which is the backbone of the Disunion movement.

The Republican party occupies the opposite position. It is emphatically the Union party. It stands by the Union, and will stand by it, maintaining it against all odds and against attacks from all quarters. If the Democratic party succeeds in severing the Union, it will do it without aid from the Republican ranks, and if the Union is dissolved at all it will be through Democratic agency. It cannot escape from that responsibility by professing a devotion to the Union: it is trying its best to destroy, nor affix the stigma of Disunion upon the party to whom the government has been entrusted, and through whom, alone, the Union can be preserved.

CORRUPTION OF THE BORDER STATES.—The sensible papers published in the Border Slave States are beginning to see through the game of the cotton States. Thus the Baltimore American says:

"It seems to us that the whole annals of the human race do not present such an example of arrogance and presumption as this attempt of South Carolina to coerce the Border Slave States out of the Union. If she herself desires to go out, in Heaven's name, let her go. We do not desire to coerce her; we would not spill a drop of her blood even for the sake of this Union, the only ark of civil and religious liberty on the face of the earth. And yet she seeks to 'drag' us away from a government with which we are satisfied, under which we enjoy prosperity and peace, sitting every man of us in joy and content under our own vine and fig tree; to 'drag' us from this government, constructed by the wisdom and patriotism of our venerated forefathers and cemented by their heroic blood, and force us down a precipice the issues of which no mortal eye can see. Our wishes are not to be regarded; we are not worthy even to sit in council with South Carolina upon our own fate: even Old Virginia, the land of Washington, the mother of Constitutional Liberty in America, is waved off majestically by the Charleston Mercury, when she approaches with the olive branch, and asks to be permitted to consult with Carolina upon measures concerning their common destiny. 'Ye gods! Upon what meat doth this our Cæsar feed, that he hath grown so great? He doth bestride the earth like a Colossus; and we, petty borderers, must 'crawl between his huge legs,' and 'find ourselves dishonorable graves.'

"What wrongs has South Carolina suffered which the Border Slave States have not suffered in the proportion of ten to one, and what risks can she run in the Union which we must not endeavor before she is in danger? Why should she assume the championship, the leadership, the dictatorship of the Southern situation? One would think that such States as Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee are entitled, by their institutions, their interests, their history, their intelligence, to be the guides and counsellors of South Carolina in measures vital to their common welfare, instead of being 'dragged' after her, like brute beasts, destitute of the faculties of reason and judgment, and not to be trusted with the exercise of their own volition. We believe that we speak the sentiments of multitudes of the border communities when we say that the States of Washington, Carroll, Clay and Jackson do not intend to be dragged out of the chariot wheels of any section, but, in all that concerns their own dignity and destiny, TO LEAD THE WAY, and leave South Carolina to keep her proper place in the column, or to desert it, or, if she choose, to assail it, just as may best suit her sovereign will and pleasure.

THE COMMITTEE OF THIRTY-THREE.—The dispatches to the Associated Press stated that the proposition adopted on Thursday by the Committee of Thirty-three, was that offered by Mr. RUST, while private dispatches say that as entirely different proposition was adopted, offered by Mr. DUNN, of Indiana. The truth seems to be that Mr. RUST called attention to the fact that a dispatch, signed by REAGAN of Texas, HINDMAN of Arkansas, LANDRUM of Louisiana, all the Mississippi members, all the Alabama members but HOUSTON and CRUD, all the Georgians except HILL and HARDMAN, all the South Carolinians, and by Mr. RUFFIN of North Carolina, had that day been sent South to their respective constituents, declaring that there is no hope whatever for conciliation or settlement, and urging prompt action and immediate secession; and he urged the Committee to immediate action, proposing resolutions in favor of an amendment to the Constitution, securing to the South what she asks. Mr. DUNN off red the resolution sent by telegraph, as an amendment to Mr. RUST's resolutions, which Mr. RUST accepted, and it was adopted, as stated in our dispatches.

SIGNS OF REBELLION.—The Douglas papers of the North are beginning to think that too much is expected of them, by the South.

The Cincinnati Enquirer declares that the amendment to the Constitution which the President shows to be absolutely necessary to save the Union, which shall declare the right of slave property to Federal protection in the Territories, "will never be acquiesced in by the free States, and it is useless to talk about it."

The Providence Post plays upon another string, and is throwing the blame upon the South and its own party, in this way:

"But the South was not wise. It followed Mr. Buchanan and Mr. Yancey. The former hated Douglas—the latter hated the Union; and that was all that could be said of either of them, politically. They led the South into a warfare with the Democratic party, and to-day the country beholds the fruits of their united labors."

TEN telegraph mentions that three men were hung in Mississippi the other day. They were "carpenters," and accused of "inciting slaves to rebellion." Other Northerners, we are complacently told, were shipped North. The reign of terror seems to grow more terrible every day. The circumstance of hanging "three carpenters" is evidently regarded as an ordinary affair.—Chi. Com.

It is safer, to-day, to travel anywhere among the savages of Africa or Asia than it is to travel in ten States of this confederacy.

IT is estimated that 2,000 gallons of molasses have been made this last year from Chinese sugar cane in Cumberland county, Md.—Cumberland Tel.

THIS is nothing. In one township in Vermillion county, Illinois, 76,000 gallons were made from last summer's crop. So we learn from the Danville Republican.

THE disintegration of Mr. Buchanan's Cabinet is still going on. Mr. CASS has actually resigned. He urged, in a Cabinet meeting, the propriety of re-enforcing Fort Moultrie; but the timid or treasonable President overruled him, and Gen. CASS at once resigned. We honor Gen. CASS for his pluck and consistency.

FREE SPEECH.—On the day of the great Union meeting in Philadelphia, Mr. G. W. CURTIS was advertised to lecture in that city. Mayor HENRY apprised the lecture committee that the attempt of Mr. CURTIS to be heard, there, would be unwise, and that if he had the legal power, he would prevent his appearance, and the owner of the Hall in which the lecture was to come off, closed the doors, refusing its use. So Mr. CURTIS did not lecture there, and the Southern interdict upon free speech has become a part of the unwritten law of Philadelphia.

THE Chronicle of Saturday published under its telegraphic head an extract from the Albany Atlas & Argus on "Thurlow Weed's plan of saving the Union." Thurlow Weed's paper is the Albany Evening Journal. The Atlas & Argus is the locofoco organ, and its plan is simply to incorporate a Slave Code for the Territories into the Constitution.

FROM WASHINGTON.

We are assured by a member of the dry goods house of Kent, Payne & Co., Richmond, Va., that the report telegraphed to us the other day, that they had discharged all of their clerks but four, is entirely incorrect. They declare that they have discharged no clerks.

THERE are, really, but 65 men in garrison at Fort Moultrie. They are well drilled, and Col. Anderson is determined not to surrender, though the Administration seems willing to sacrifice him, from fear of sending reenforcements.

MR. BRENHAM's proposition to admit States immediately from the present Territories, gains ground as offering a fair and honorable basis of settlement to those who honestly regard the Territorial question as to the cause of complaint. This was substantially the plan entertained by Gen. Taylor and his Cabinet.—N. Y. Trib.

WASHINGTON, Dec 14.—The Hon. Lewis Cass, Secretary of State, has this morning resigned his place in the Cabinet.

The reason of his resignation is the timidity or in-action of President Buchanan, who in the Cabinet meeting yesterday, could not be persuaded to reinforce Fort Moultrie, at Charleston.

This action of the venerable Secretary has caused considerable excitement here. I cannot learn yet whether he was alone in the Cabinet in his opposition to a policy calculated, whether designed or not, to favor secession, and at least unworthy of the Executive whose sworn duty it is to protect all property of the United States.

It is currently reported that Senator Douglas will at an early day make a speech in the United States Senate, in which he will insist that it is the duty of the President to resist secession by force of arms. In this he will but carry out the sentiment he so frankly and boldly avowed when he was questioned at Richmond, Va., during the Presidential campaign.

I think the feeling of confidence in some final adjustment continues to gain ground here.

Several men who have hitherto not been hopeful about the future, now express almost a confident hope that adjustment of all difficulties will be accomplished before many days have passed by.—N. Y. Com. Adv.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Secessionists and disunionists have been in great excitement over the news which has leaked out from the Capitol to day, concerning the requisition of Major Anderson, commanding at Fort Moultrie, for more men and ammunition, and the action of the Cabinet thereupon.

It is stated on authority, which I think is not to be disputed, that Major Anderson has decided upon the necessity for a reinforcement to his command and his supplies, not because he believed the danger of an attack upon Fort Moultrie by the South Carolina forces to be immediately imminent, for the assurances of leading secessionists have been received that there will not be a crisis of this sort precipitated, but because the whole secession ordinance is passed, as it doubtless will be in the early days of the convention, there is no security that a Charleston mob will not make a desperate onslaught upon the nearest Federal possessions. And if the men at Fort Moultrie and Fort Sumpter are to fight, they are too few and their ammunition to scanty.

The question of acceding to Major Anderson's request has been up before the Cabinet, and it was decided not to grant it.

Secretary CASS, it is asserted, strongly urged the propriety and the necessity of the opposite course. Either Major Anderson was justified in making the requisition or not. If justified, his request should be granted at once. If not, then he is incompetent to fill his place, and it should be supplied by some one who will not make a dangerous demand in troublous times. So long as he is in authority, the means of answering his authority should be conceded to him.

In spite of these arguments, which are unanswerable, the Cabinet refused to send any more men or ammunition to Fort Moultrie, and there the matter stands.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—It appears that the President had given orders to have the sloop of war Brooklyn held in readiness to proceed to Charleston, to aid in the defence of Fort Moultrie, at any time when he should command it, but declined to do anything immediately by way of reinforcing the garrison there at present.

Secretary CASS took ground in favor of prompt action, and strenuously maintained his place in the Cabinet, that to neglect to send troops there after the threats that had been made and the events that have transpired, implied a discreditable weakness in the Federal Government and an inability to enforce its authority, and compel obedience to its laws, and that that interpretation would be put on such neglect by the secessionists, who in consequence would grow bolder and be led further than they would otherwise dare to go.

The President, however, could not bring his courage up to the point demanded by Mr. CASS, who therefore refused any longer to be a member of the Federal Administration.

Of course the secessionists are annoyed and exasperated that the resolve should be taken by the Chief Executive; and no less mortified at his semi-official, but truthful and common-sense declaration that no foreign powers will recognize the nationality or independence of any seceding State.

Since the issue of the Southern manifesto, urging the cotton States to continue their preparations for secession, some here have begun to doubt whether anything can be effected by Congressional mediation. But the signatures to the manifesto were so few, that most people regard it as no evidence of secessionist weakness, and as a bright beam of hope rather than of gloom.—N. Y. Com. Adv.

THE Crisis Committee sat four hours to-day and then adjourned over till Monday.

Mr. CORWIN addressed the Committee in a conciliatory speech, and closed by presenting a proposition substantially to the effect that the Territories should be allowed to elect all their own officers, which are now appointed by the President, and that, upon attaining population enough to authorize one Member of Congress they should be admitted as States with or without Slavery, as they might elect.

Mr. RUST of Arkansas, proposed to amend by a provision that slavery might go into the Territories and be protected there during their Territorial condition.

Mr. CURTIS introduced a series of resolutions declaring secession to be revolution, and involving war, and pledging the Committee to sustain the Union at all hazards.

This led to an animated expression from Southern members, who declared if conciliation was the object it could not be attained by such means.

Mr. CURTIS then withdrew the resolutions temporarily, but they will probably be renewed on some future occasion, and the sense of the Committee tested.

Some general but unimportant discussion followed, but the subject was postponed for another meeting. It is very evident from all the indications that the extreme South intend to demand protection for Slavery in the Territories as a sine qua non, and that, failing to obtain it promptly, the Gulf States will secede, with the expectation, however, of being invited to return, under new guarantees, or with what they call reconstruction. This is the programme, in plain terms, however disguised it may be by evasions or generalities.—N. Y. Trib.

The battle for the Union, in Tennessee, will be of the most animated character. The Bell and Douglas parties, with many patriotic Breckinridge men, have joined hands, and under the leadership of Henry S. Foote, (the heroic defender of the compromise measures, in 1850, who pursued Mr. YANCEY with so sharp a stick through all the Southern States, while Judge Douglas was on his tour,) William H. Polk, Henry M. Waterson and others, will make a tremendous struggle to prevent Tennessee from being carried off by the Cotton States.

This gentleman, a member of the last Congress, and a warm friend of the Union, is full of confidence that Missouri will adhere to the Constitution as laid down by the old Thirteen. He has been spending several days in Washington, and left last evening for home.—Phila Press.

FORT MOULTRIE.—A private letter from Fort Moultrie, was read to us this afternoon. The writer, a spirited and patriotic person, expresses the opinion that South Carolina will be out of the Union, on the 15th inst., and that the second battle of Fort Moultrie will probably take place this month. The officers and men chained to a handful, are steady and determined, and will sell their lives dearly if attacked, as they may be any day, for the mob at Charleston are discussing the matter all the time and would like nothing better than to try it.—Phil. Bull.

The conservative sentiment increases daily, and thousands begin to favor coercion, so disgusted are they with the precipitate haste of South Carolina.—N. Y. World

Important Resignation of Southern Members of Congress.

An important caucus of the members of Congress from the further South was held in Washington on Tuesday evening, at the request of the Hon. Reuben Davis, of Miss., one of the members of the committee of "Thirty-Three." They assembled at his rooms and drew up and signed the following "Southern Manifesto:"

"Washington, Dec. 13, 1860.

To our Constituents: The argument is exhausted. All hope of relief in the Union, through the agency of committees, congressional legislation, or constitutional amendments is extinguished, and we trust the South will not be deceived by appearances or the pretence of new guarantees. The Republicans are resolute in the purpose to grant nothing that will or ought to satisfy the South. In our judgment the honor, safety and independence of the Southern people are to be found in a Southern confederacy—the inevitable result of separate State secession. That the sole and primary aim of each slaveholding State ought to be its speedy and absolute separation from an unnatural and hostile Union."

Signed by J. L. Pugh, David Clopton, Sydenham Moore, J. J. M. Curry and J. A. Stallworth, of Alabama; Alfred Iverson, J. W. H. Underwood, J. J. Gartrell and James Jackson, (Senator Toombs is not in Washington, but would sign,) John J. Jones and Martin J. Crawford, of Georgia; George S. Hawkins, of Florida. It is understood that Mr. Yulee will sign it. T. C. Hindman, of Arkansas. Both Senators from that State, it is said, will also sign it. A. G. Brown, Wm. Barksdale, O. R. Singleton and Reuben Davis, of Mississippi; Burton Craige and Thomas Ruffin, of North Carolina; J. L. Benjamin and John M. Landrum, of Louisiana. Mr. Slidell will also sign it. Senator Wigfall and Hemphill, of Texas, will also sign it.

It appears the Committee of "Thirty-Three" were in session on Thursday, when they were informed of the above manifesto, and that they immediately suspended discussion and passed the resolution of Mr. RUST, published yesterday.

This resolution Mr. DAVIS is said to have denounced as an attempted fraud upon the South, intended only to delay action, and even refused to vote one way or the other. Subsequently, it is said, the Committee of Thirty-Three, by the Southern quorum, the resolution and proceedings of the committee are represented to have been condemned without a dissenting voice. These proceedings indicate that the following States are determined to secede on the day named, unless they conclude to keep their conventions in session until that of Georgia meets, which is on the 18th of January, when they will all go out together.

South Carolina—Convention meets on December 17th; will retire from confederacy December 18

Alabama—Convention meets January 7; retires January 10

Mississippi—Convention meets January 7; retires January 10

Florida—Convention meets on January 3; and will probably retire with Alabama and Mississippi.

It is expected Arkansas and Texas will not be long behind them.

A plan is proposed, and will probably be put in execution if enough consent, to call a caucus of all the Republican members, to consider the present crisis, and what should be the action of the Committee. I am satisfied that, although the resolutions passed are interpreted as meaning nothing, yet only a few Republicans comparatively can be will support them.

Private accounts from Alabama, received by members of the Government to day, say that the conservatives think they will carry the State sure. If so, time will be gained, and South Carolina will go out alone. The border State men are doing their utmost to bring this about.—N. Y. Times
