S. R. BEND PROPRIETORS.

OFFICE—PITTSBURGH:

TUESDAY MORNING, JAN. 8, 1861.

PENNSYLVANIA U. S. SENATOR.—By a private dispatch from Harrisburg, received last evening, we learn that EDGAR A. COWAN, Esq., of Westmoreland county, was elected to the U. S. Senate yesterday, on the 6th ballot.

TO OUR READERS.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES.—We are perfecting arrangements by which we shall be able to furdish our readers with a brief synopsis of the latest and most interesting news by Telegraph, from special reporters in Washington City and Harrisburg—in addition to the usual telegraphic synopsis which we receive through the Associated Press. It is our intention to use every effort to put our readers in possession of the exciting news of the day, at the earliest practicable moment; and to this end we shall not spare either effort or expense.

We have purchased the True Press establishment from its late owner, and will henceforth issue an evening edition, in addition to our regular morning edition—thereby enabling us to keep our readers thoroughly posted in reference to current events. Our morning edition will, as heretofore, discuss the political questions of the day, in addition to our full reports of commercial matters, and city and suburban news. Our evening paper will, for the most part, eschew political discussions, and aim at giving the very latest and most important news, on all subjects of general interest.

Having increased our reportorial force, and made arrangements for daily letters and special dispatches from Harrisburg and Washington City, we trust to deserve that liberal support which has hitherto been extended to the Gazette.

To our advertising patrons, we offer facilities for reaching all classes of readers—not only in these cities, but in all the surrounding boroughs, and in every town accessible by Rail or mail—at least equal to any other medium between Philadelphia and Cincinnati. Our editions to-day are 7,600 Daily, and 7,500 Weekly, and we are daily adding largely to our lists of both. We mention this in justice to ourselves, and not by way of vain boasting. Any of our patrons desirous of verifying our statements, by an inspection of our books, can do so by calling at the counting room.

THE EDITIONS OF THE GAZETTE.

MORNING EDITION.

This is our Political and Commercial edition, containing the latest and most interesting news from all quarters, up to midnight, by telegraph, mail, and as gathered by our own reporters in the cities and suburbs; it is sent to all points by Railroad and by mail.

Terms—Yearly subscribers, by mail or carriers, $5 per annum, invariably in advance, and 12 cents per week if paid to the carrier.

Agents are supplied by Railroad in all the surrounding towns and villages, who will deliver to subscribers at 12 cents per week.

EVENING EDITION,

Containing the spice of the morning press, with the latest news by telegraph and mail up to the hour of issuing, including commercial reports and city news, is printed on clear type, and fine paper, circulating amongst the masses in the cities, boroughs and in all the surrounding towns, by afternoon trains.

Terms.—Yearly subscribers by mail or carriers, $3 per annum, invariably in advance, or 6 cents per week from carriers and news boys.

Agents are supplied by the earliest trains, in all towns accessible by Railroad, and will deliver to subscribers at 6 cents per week.

Agents wanted in all towns where we now have none.

WEEKLY EDITIONS,

Pittsburgh, January 8th, 1861.

ADHERE TO THE RIGHT.—The Revolution was the time which tried the souls of men; the present is the time which tries their faith.

Those who believe that this Government was established to establish Justice and secure the blessings of LIBERTY to ourselves and posterity, as the preamble to the Constitution asserts, have now an opportunity of showing their faith by their works.

The one great question now before the American people is, whether this design of the founders of the Government, as expressed by them in the Constitution which they framed, shall be carried out or subverted. Shall Justice or Injustice, Liberty or Slavery triumph? And, involved in that question is another of equal importance. Shall the Government formed by Washington and the revolutionary patriots who stood by him, be sustained or overthrown?

It is natural that men who love peace and quietness and pray with all their souls for harmony, should shriek from a contest in which for the present; but when a contest is inevitable, no true man will try to fly from it. The dread of such a contest is human, and there is no timidity in feeling it: but if it must come, let us meet it like men.

In a great struggle between Right and Wrong, neither compromise, nor concessions, nor half-way measures are of any avail. One or the other must triumph—one or the other must go to the wall.

We have just such a struggle forced upon us now, by the secessionists of the South. The differences between the contending parties are radical. They cannot be healed by the temporary expedients of timid men, who would fain avoid the encounter between forces which are irreconcilable. On the one hand we have the great principle that slavery is wrong, and therefore should be excluded from our national territories; on the other hand we have the claim that slavery is right, and should be recognized, extended and protected throughout our national domain. Here are principles diametrically opposite. No measure of conciliation can reconcile them. One or the other must triumph. The question is, which shall succeed and which shall yield.

The part of every lover of freedom is to stand manfully by his principles. This question has got to be decided at some time, and it may as well be decided now. Compromise will only postpone the day of final conflict. It may be put off; but it cannot be prevented. If we have not the manhood to meet the issue, our children will have to meet it, and perhaps under aggravations not now existing.

It is, therefore, the part of prudence, of manliness, of honor, of expediency ever, to gird ourselves for the encounter, and settle the whole matter with the present opportunity. No ballot will ever offer. The whole question is as well understood, to-day, as it can be a hundred years hence; and every day's delay but adds to the difficulty of settling it.

What we speak of is a contest, and a struggle. We do not of necessity mean an armed one.—That may, in the lapse of events, become necessary; but our conviction is that the whole matter can be decided, now, without any physical conflict. All that is needed is firmness. Let the friends of freedom in the territories stand up manfully to their principles, yielding none of the advantages of their position, but showing a firm determination to take full and ample possession of the government, the control of which they have honestly, legally and fairly won, and all will be well. It will be a severe, but a bloodless contest. We are thrice armed, for we have our quarrel just; and those who have assumed the attitude of rebellion need only the assurance that we will not yield, to make them slink away, discomfited without a blow.

Our exhortation, then, to all our friends, is, heed not the counsels of timidity. Quit you like man; be strong. Fidelity to the Right, at this critical moment, is the sure and the only way of overcoming the Wrong.

TRADE OF PHILADELPHIA.—Our statistics for the year 1860 show very gratifiingly for the future of Philadelphia in more respects than in its new buildings, and as they may not have attracted the attention of the public so much as they should have done, we design now to refer over them. From these it will be seen that the trade of the city is not as stagnant as has been supposed.

The arrivals at this port during the year were 582 foreign and 37,746 coastwise, against 519 foreign 36 225 coastwise the previous year, an increase of 63 foreign and 1521 coastwise. It has been customary to say that our foreign trade is drooping and declining, but these figures indicate that it is prosperous and progressive. The arrivals from foreign ports this year have been vessels of all sizes, viz: Steamships 1, sailing ships 75, barques 145, brigs 214, schooners 143, ketch 1. These arrivals were from all parts of the world—England, Ireland, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, South America, India, the West Indies, etc.

We have searched the New York papers diligently for a statement of the whole number of arrivals, foreign and coastwise, at that port during the year, but can find none. We are, however, conspicuously published in all the commercial journals of that city, the arrivals at that port for 1860 from foreign ports, credited revenue officers, and therefore put forth as official. The details of this statement are rather curious. The number of these foreign arrivals is 4451, of which 24 were canal boats. From what foreign port these crafts came is not stated. We had always supposed the "raging canawl" to be a domestic institution, but it seems Gotham has got ahead of us by discovering some northwest passage to Europe by "canal boats." Among their foreign arrivals also is one yacht. How is another mystery. That yacht must be akin to the celebrated vessel in which the three Gothamite sages went to sea. Accompanying this remarkable table is another, purporting to show the nationality of these arrivals. It sets down the 2956 of the 4451 foreign arrivals as American, "165 being steamers, 680 ships, 730 barques, 18 barquentines, 798 brigs 456 schooners, 24 canal boats and one yacht. Here the canal boats and yacht again come into play, and the reader will see that the inference is a strange one, that this whole statement is a dodge; that the 2956 American vessels were not from foreign ports at all, but constwise, and that, instead of there having been 4451 foreign arrivals at New York during the year, there were only 1495—a decided difference. By this, too, we have afforded us the means of comparison between the arrivals of the two cities, and we make it thus:

	Foreign.	Costwise.	Total.
Philadelphia	582	37,746	38,328
New York	1,456	2,956	4,451

Difference in favor of Philadelphia.....33,877

Comment upon this is necessary. We present it to the public as a fitting exhibit of the position of Philadelphia in reference to the trade of the United States.—Phil. N. Amer.

The American Flag.

BY J. R. DRAKE.

When Freedom from her mountain height,
Unfurled her standard to the air,
She tore the azure robe of night,
And set the stars of glory there.
She mingled with its gorgeous dyes,
The milky baldrick of the skies,
And striped its pure, celestial white,
With streakings of the morning light;
Then from his mansion in the sun,
She called her eagle-bearer down,
And gave into his mighty hand
The symbol of her chosen land.

Majestic monarch of the cloud!
Who rear'st aloft thy regal form,
To hear the tempest trumpling loud,
And see the lightning lances driven,
When strides the warrior of the storm,
And rolls the thunder drum of heaven;
Child of the sun! to thee 'tis given
To guard the banner of the free,
To hover in the sulphur smoke,
To ward away the battle stroke,
And bid its blendings shine afar,
Like rainbows in the cloud of war,
The harbinger of victory.

Flag of the brave! thy folds shall fly
The sign of hope and triumph high.
When speaks the signal-trumpet tone,
And the long line comes gleaming on,
Ere yet the fife-lead warms and rest,
Red gushing from the gleaming bayonet,
Each soldier's eye shall brightly turn
To where thy meteor glories burn,
And as his springing steps advance,
Catch war and vengeance from the glance;
And when the cannon's mouthings loud,
Heave, in wild wreathes, the battle shroud,
And grim sabre rise and fall,
Like shoots of flame on midnight's pall,
There shall thy victor glances glow,
And sweeping foe shall shrink below
Each gallant arm, that strikes beneath
That awful messenger of death.

Flag of the seas! on Ocean's wave
Thy stars shall glitter o'er the brave,
When death, careering on the gale,
Sweeps darkly round the billowed sail,
And frighted waves rush wildly back,
Before the broadside's reeling rack,
The dying mariner shall turn
His glazing eye from wave to urn,
Shall look at once to heaven and thee,
And smile, to see thy splendors fly
In triumph o'er his closing eye.

Flag of the free heart's only home!
By angel hearts to valor given,
Thy stars have lit the welkin dome,
And all thy hues were born in heaven.
Forever float that standard sheet!
Where breathes the foe but falls before us,
With Freedom's soil beneath our feet,
And Freedom's banner waving o'er us!

Items for 1861.

Symbol of hope and glory! born
Of aspirations only pure,
To the brave and free, who will not cower
In slavish fear of tyrant power!—
Symbol of hope and glory! thou
By traitor's hand or tyrant's threat
Hast never yet to yield been driven—
And never, never shalt thou bow
That starry scroll, now sun brought low
Those heaven thou hast won and worn.—
For as the brave and true have sworn!)
Ne, never! ne'er by kindred shed
Shalt thou gloriously with perished yet,
And say with thousand loving eyes:
"FOR A FUTURE HOME ON THESE BLEST SHORES,
BUT NOW A KINGLY REAL FRAME REST!"

UNGRATEFUL.—The Augusta (Ga.) Dispatch makes the following feature for all the members of the New York Herald in the cause of slavery. We are aware that many in the South read the Herald with tolerance—none are so stupid as to have the least confidence in its fidelity.—We consider it more culpable than any sheet in America, for its agency in building up the Republican party.

THE WORK

FOR THE TIMES!

EVERYBODY SHOULD SUBSCRIBE!

THE AMERICAN

Conservative Review,

PUBLISHED MONTHLY,

BY J. HERBERT,

32 BEEKMAN ST., NEW YORK.

A strictly conservative Monthly Publication, containing 64 pages folio. Consisting of Political, Commercial and Literary Reviews on all current events; New Publications and Works of Art, together with a Monthly Summary of Foreign and Domestic News. Also, an original series of Biographical, Historical and Scientific Articles and Literature, by the most able writers of the day in every department.

EVERY MERCHANT, LAWYER, CLERGYMAN, SENATOR,

And in fact every man of taste, position or influence should have it.

THE AMERICAN CONSERVATIVE REVIEW will be strictly neutral in its character, and will endeavor, in all appropriate, to suggest a line of policy, that consistently with right and justice, may tend to allay all party or sectional feeling, and reconcile to each other the conflicting elements that now or in the future agitate the public mind.

N. B. The first number of the AMERICAN CONSERVATIVE REVIEW will be issued on the 1st of February, 1861.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY, AT $5 00 PER YEAR, PAYABLE IN ADVANCE,

BY J. HERBERT,

32 Beekman street, New York.

N. B. Letters containing subscriptions and all other communications, should be addressed to the American Conservative Review, New York.
