Quack Nostrums.

THE NEW YORK DAY BOOK says: The majority of Hair Washes, Hair Dyes, Hair Tonics, Hair Restoratives, and other quackeries of the day are now before the public under such extravagant, hyperbolical and fantastic titles as we see paraded in show windows cards, and newspaper advertisements, as their proprietors, are all humbugs of the first water; their real merit, when they possess any, is but little or no harm. HYDE'S LARD OIL, LARD OIL, SWEET OIL, scented and uncolored, make up, when in beautiful wrappers and white flint glass bottles, the fearful character of poison, and when thus costly, are baptized with some irisyllable term, and caught at by verdant young and old of both sexes. Such is not the character of Professor Wood's Hair Restorative. This gentleman comes before the world without any "high falutin" Munchausenism. The other scoundrels rant and startling catchpenny terms; he simply advertises a Hair Restorative—what it professes precisely—and as a Restorative it acts. Buy Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, and as you value your scalp, sex, your very brains, apply not a drop of it before you buy that you will get some worse substance than perfumed lard oil on your premises. Remember, Wood's Restorative for the Hair is the best article extant.

It Will, by Nature's own Process, Restore Gray Hair to the Original Color,

When all other preparations have failed.

Will make Hair Grow on Bald Heads,
Will restore the Natural Secretions,
Will remove all Dandruff,
Will cure all Humors, Eruptions and Scald Head,
Will make the Hair Soft and Glossy,
Will make the Hair appear young again,
Will preserve the Color of Hair to old age,
Will always Fasten it and stop its Falling,
And is one of the best Toilet Articles for the Hair now in use.

Manufactured by O. J. WOOD & CO., and sold Wholesale and Retail, at 444 Broadway, New York, and 114 Market st. St. Louis, Mo.

Sold in Pittsburgh by Dr. GEO. H. KEYSER, S. L. FAHNESTOCK & CO., and all Druggists. ja26:1y

NOTICE TO CRUDE CARBON OIL COLLECTORS.—The subscribers are well located and offer facilities to those having crude oil for sale, to dispose with them. They have the use of the best warehouses and cellars in the city for that purpose.

VALUABLE IMPROVEMENT

In Steam and Atmospheric Hammers.

LETTERS PATENT were granted on Sept. 4th, 1860, to Thomas Beach, for a very simple and efficient improvement in Steam and Atmospheric Hammers, whereby the full stroke of the hammer is obtained, no matter what be the thickness of the mass of iron to be hammered—thereby effecting a great increase of power where large pieces of metal are to be operated upon, and a corresponding saving of expense.

The subscribers are owners of said patent, and are desirous of selling rights to use said improvement, as well as territory under said patent. A model of said improvement is left at the office of Messrs. Bakewell & Darling, Attorneys at Law, corner of Grant and Diamond streets, where parties interested may call and see it, and learn also the terms of license sale, &c. P. S. WEAVER,

PITTSBURGH:

THURSDAY MORNING, JAN. 31.

LATEST NEWS BY MAIL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Senatorial revolutionists say, if the President's policy, as announced in his message, be carried out, to wit, acting on the defensive, by reinforcing the Southern forts—it is the policy of coercion, and will cause war in twenty days. Nothing less than the unconditional yielding up of all the federal property would seem to please the revolutionists.

So many military companies are arriving here that it is quite impossible for them to find quarters. It is understood that application will be made to the mayor for the temporary use of the basement of the City Hall, which is well suited for the purpose, at the same time affording ample room.—N. Y. World.

After much hesitation and delay, arrangements were made to-day for the protection of Washington, which will insure it against any probable danger from conspiracy within or invasion without. Another company of light artillery will be brought here to-morrow from Fort McHenry, which is to be substituted there by one from West Point. This company, and the present troops, are to be posted at different parts of the city, under a military organization so perfect that all may be concentrated, within a short time, effectively.

Before Maj. Anderson transferred his command from Fort Moultrie to Fort Sumter, he was supplied with provisions under contract, from Charleston. Since the recent understanding with Gov. Pickens, the terms and extent of which have not yet been officially communicated to the War Department, the old arrangement has been resumed, and he is now furnished as heretofore. His letters are received and forwarded regularly, and in order that it may be known immediately here whether perfect communication is kept up, a daily report from the Fort is made to the Government.

The two United States Senators from Kansas cannot be here much, if any, before March. The State Legislature has never yet been convened, as the Constitution forbade it till after the admission, and there are seven vacancies to be filled. This will prevent its meeting till late in February. Mr. Conway, the Congressman, will be sworn in when Mr. Buchanan signs the bill to-morrow. Mr. Parrott, the delegate, will then retire and return to Kansas, when he will be a candidate for Senator.

Mr. Davidson, of Louisiana, does not intend to surrender his seat in Congress. He does not believe in secession as a remedy for southern grievances.

Mr. Hunter expresses the confident opinion that Virginia will pass an ordinance of secession, and join the Southern Confederacy. All his influence has been exerted in that direction, with the view of being made President. No man has been deeper in the plot, from the beginning, or advocated it more resolutely, under the professed garb of conservatism.—N. Y. Tribune.

The great popularity of the proposed reduction of duties on sugar was remarkably demonstrated today, by the promptness with which the House instructed an inquiry into its expediency, with leave to the committee to report by bill.

Senator Douglas proposes to introduce an amendment of the Constitution simply removing from Congress all power over the subject of slavery, and forever prohibiting the slave trade. This, he thinks, may possibly satisfy all the States earnestly desirous of preserving the Union.

The President has discontinued the work on all the public buildings now in course of erection at Charleston, New Orleans and other parts of the seceding States, and also on all Southern fortifications; and no money will be paid out of the public treasury to the contractors engaged on there works, except in payment of services heretofore rendered. N. Y. Times.

The information upon which the recent belligerent action of Congress is based is derived from the authorities of Maryland. The impression, however, is that any important organization for the purpose of creating trouble exists here, is not generally credited. No apprehension need be entertained of an attack on Fort Sumter so long as Colonel Hayne remains in this city, which will be for some ten days or two weeks yet.

The resolution compelling all persons in the Army and Navy to renew their oaths of allegiance to the Constitution, created much excitement, and provoked the most bitter opposition from the South. It received the hearty endorsement of all the Republicans and Southern Union men, while nearly all the Democrats opposed it. It is now accepted that all the Senators, representatives and members of the civil Departments of the Government be called upon to do the same thing.

One of the heads of the departments said to a member of Congress to-day that unless the most energetic steps were resorted to the city will be taken possession of in less than ten days by the conspirators against the government.

A storm was raised in the House to day because the Military Committee reported a bill providing for an oath to be taken by the militia of the District that they will be true to the Union. It passed handsomely, with the votes of several Northern Democrats against it.

Secretary Dix has instructed the commanders of the revenue cutters, if attacked, to make the best defence in their power, and if they are assailed by a superior force to run their vessels ashore and blow them up.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—I learn from good authority that Mr. Lincoln has written a letter to one of his Cabinet Ministers, which confirms the statement made in my dispatch in to-day's Herald, that he will not object to the Border State proposition if his party will agree upon it as a basis of settlement. The letter was yesterday shown to a distinguished member of the Virginia Legislature, who is a candidate for higher honors, and he expressed himself well satisfied with the suggestions of Mr. Lincoln, and paid him a high compliment for comprehending the subject so well, and manifesting a disposition to respond to the demands of the times before his party acted, thereby showing that he is a leader, and not a demagogue.

It is now certain that all the influence of the incoming republican administration will be thrown in favor of a speedy settlement of our national difficulties. I state what I know, when I affirm that letters have been read in this city, within the last two days, from eminent chiefs of the republican party, fresh from an interchange of opinion with the President elect, urgently counselling the republicans in Congress to adopt speedy measures of pacification.

It is further known that all the leaders have been in conference during the last forty-eight hours, devising some mode of settlement. Mr. Lovejoy, of Illinois, is open in his declaration that the party is sold out.

The next few days will develope a complete change of policy on the part of the republican party.

Advices from Springfield confidently report that it is the desire of Mr. Lincoln to have a settlement of the difficulties before he reaches Washington, and he has signified the same to some prominent republicans here, and it should not astonish the people if a partial change of front be the next measure in the republican ranks.—*N. Intended Seizure of the Dahlonega Mint.

The feeling in Georgia—Richmond Va., Jan. 27.—Intelligence has reached here that, previous to the passage of the Georgia ordinance of secession, Hardison W. Riley, a prominent citizen of the mountain region of that State, proclaimed in another portion of Georgia that he was on his way home, and intended to raise a party and take possession of the United States mint at Dahlonega, for the United States Government, in case Georgia passed a secession ordinance.

This declaration caused considerable excitement at Milledgeville, and the Governor was requested to send a military force to Dahlonega, but had not done so at the date of the last advices.

On the same authority as the above we learn that there is a considerable Union element in the Mountains of Georgia, and an anti-secession meeting was held in Pickens county when they heard of the passage of the secession ordinance. The old stars and stripes were run up, and the demonstrations of resistance to secession were emphatic and unequivocal.

The impression, however, was at Milledgeville that the people of Georgia will generally sustain the ordinance of secession, and co-operate in the formation of a Southern Cotton States Republic.

THE question of slavery in this country has entered upon yet another new and most important phase. The Court of Queen's Bench has issued a writ common enough in itself, but of singular moment in this particular instance and at this particular time—a writ of habeas corpus for Anderson, the slave who killed his pursuer, and who is now in Toronto jail and claimed by the United States government under the Ashburton extradition treaty. The writ is based on the grounds that the jurisdiction of the Queen's Bench is limited only by the boundaries of the British empire, and that it has yet to be made clear that the homicide committed by Anderson was not entirely justifiable, and that therefore the decision of the colonial court, which was for his extradition, must be subjected to revision by the court of highest authority. The issuing of the writ of habeas corpus into a remote colony is very unusual, and it is complied that it was applied for and granted in this case only on account of the great interest which it has excited in England among the legal profession as well as in the more intelligent part of the public. The judges retired to deliberate upon the motion of the writ, but were in consultation only twenty minutes; and the chief justice, in announcing the decision, used language which showed that all the contingencies of the case had been taken into consideration. The writ merely removes the proceedings preliminary to the prisoner's extradition or liberation, from Canada to England; but the movement itself is a most significant indication of Great Britain's position in the present crisis of the slavery question in this country, and the final decision will be an important declaration of the extent to which she is prepared to admit the relations produced by local laws into the consideration of the alleged criminality of individuals affected by those relations. In Missouri the killing by a slave of his pursuer is an aggravated form of murder; in the British empire it is justifiable homicide.—N. Y. World.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 28.—Judge McCaleb, of the U. S. District Court, has resigned, in consequence of the progress of Louisiana.

The English Money Market and the American Crisis.

[From the London Times of January 11th.]

The absence of inconvenience with money at 7 per cent. is a subject of remark on all sides; but it would be hard for any one to point out a reason why the existing rates should be regarded as an evil. There is no country in which money abounds to the same extent as in England, and yet whenever the value of this commodity experiences an increase there are always persons ready to cry out that it must check commerce and produce disaster. Happily the ignorance that produces this tendency is daily diminishing, and the experience of last year went far to convince the public that sudden changes of high rates of discount may be consistent with the preservation of credit and a smooth and highly prosperous course of business. Undoubtedly there may be circumstances in which high rates should be looked upon as indications of national misfortune, as when they arise from distrust in the honor of a Government or a community, or from the wealth of a country being drained in consequence of famine, or any similar calamity. But in those cases the suffering country stands as an exception. At present money commands high ter
