Quack Nostrums.

THE NEW YORK DAY BOOK says: "The majority of Hair Washes, Hair Tonics, Hair Curlers, Hair Oils, and other nostrums of this class which are now before the public render such extravagant, hyperbolical and fantastic titles as are parcelled to them, ridiculous. Most exotic and sensuous headings, as 'hair preparations,' are all humbugs of the first water; their real merit, when they possess any, being that they do no harm. BOGY'S LAIR-WEAVE OIL, LARD OIL, SWEET OIL, scented and colored, make up, when in beautiful wrappers and white flint glass bottles, the compliliest character of a specific; and when that costly, are baptised with some triphlalatic name, and caught at by verdant young men and old maids. Such is not the case, however, with Wood's Hair Restorative. This gentlemen comes before the world without any "high sounding" titles to recommend it, or any other attending "flatteries" Xlophicodrum, or any other astounding title. Simply and unpretendingly, therefore, he simply advertises a Hair Restorative—what it expresses practically—and as a Restorative it acts. Buy Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, and as you brush your scalp, sow, your very brains, apply nothing else for it may be that you will get some worse substance than your predecessor, from your credulity. Professor Wood's Restorative for the Hair is the best article extant."

It Will, by Nature's own Process, Restore Gray Hair to the Original Color, Will make Hair Grow on Bald Heads, Will restore the Natural Secretions, Will remove all dandruff, Will remove all Humors, Will cure all eruptions—scurf and Head-Ache, Will make the Hair soft and Glossy, Will feed the Hair and prevent it from falling off, Will preserve the Color of Hair to the latest period of life, Will always Please it and never Disappoint, And in one of the best Toilet Articles of the day now in use.

Pittsburgh Gazette.

PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY BY S. RIDDLE & CO., FIFTH STREET, ABOVE SMITHFIELD. PITTSBURGH: FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 8.

A Bloody Programme.

The Richmond Enquirer is playing a very bold, but a very hazardous game, in the interest of secession. It is insisting that the Gulf States shall immediately attack Forts Sumter and Pickens, as the only mode of securing the co-operation of Virginia. The fact that "the Confederate Government still permits the occupation of forts by Federal troops," is the great argument on which the Unionists of Virginia rest their hopes of reconciliation.

The Enquirer thus closes its appeal:

"Now the action of Virginia will most probably decide the position of all the States of the Southern Border. By most inconvenient misunderstandings, between voters and candidates, a large body, perhaps a majority of the delegates, have been elected to the Convention now assembled at Richmond, who indicate a tone and temper very much at variance with the sentiments of their constituents. We very much fear that these delegates are disposed to try the experiment at least of moral coercion to be applied to the Gulf States, in the expectation, real or pretended, that these States can thus be dragged back into the Union on terms of submission to Black Republican rule. It is a sickly game —hard to play in Virginia—still it is possible, so long as the Submissionists are permitted to point to the fact that the Southern States are even now submitting to actual invasion. La Vile Confederate States are appeal to arms for resistance to invasion, and the Submissionist programme loses its last prop on the Border States!"

It is not easy to say whether weakness or wickedness predominates in this bloody programme. The Gulf States are urged to plunge themselves and the country into the unutterable horrors of civil war, in order to overbear the majority in the Richmond Convention! For purely political purposes—in order to reverse the sentiment, and to defeat the action, of the delegates of the people, it insists that thousands of the citizens of the Gulf States shall sacrifice their lives, and that the whole country shall be plunged into war.

We trust there is manliness and good sense enough left in Virginia to give to such bloody instructions the rebuke they merit. We have seen nothing more utterly brutal and profligate, since the first French Revolution. The worst excesses of the Reign of Terror can show nothing worse.—N. Y. Times.

Late Advices from Mexico, bring the following Intelligence.

THE VERA CRUZ SQUADRON.—The United States ship Macedonian had arrived out with orders for the Home Squadron. The Powhatan was to sail on the 22d inst., for New York, and the Cumberland and Pocahontas on the same day for Norfolk, Virginia. The Macedonian will remain at Vera Cruz for further orders. The officers of the squadron who have resigned, not having heard from Washington, will return home in their respective vessels.

We take the following summary of Mexican news from the Mexican Extraordinary, of the 16th ult:—

SUPPRESION OF NUNNERIES.—In our last we briefly noticed that on Wednesday night the authorities had transferred the occupants of several nunneries to others of their class, thus reducing the number of these establishments in this capital. The result of these changes is that of the twenty-two nunneries of this capital, thirteen have been suppressed, and their lands and buildings will hereafter be turned to some useful purposes.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.—From the returns already received of the votes in the States for the next President, it appears that Senor Juarez has a majority over either of his two competitors, Senors Lerdo and Ortega, but not an absolute majority, as is required by the Constitution for a direct election by the people. This circumstance will throw the choice of the President on the next Congress.

ATTEMPTED INSURRECTION.—The Extraordinary states that the suppression of the nunneries excited intense feeling among the lower classes of the city. They paraded the streets with cries of death to foreigners, heretics and liberals. "Long live Religion," &c. The threatened outbreak was, however, promptly suppressed by the military. Some sixty persons were arrested.

MISCELLANEOUS.—A line of steamers, under the Mexican flag, and therefore subject to embargo, is to be put on between San Francisco and the ports on the Pacific.

The official journal of Chiapas declares that the Government of Guatemala favors with men and elements of war the cause of the clergy in that part of the republic.

It is announced that the Supreme Government has reimbursed the $11,000 levied in the shape of a forced loan upon the French Vice Consul at Tepic, and has given to his widow $20,000 as an indemnity for the outrage.

Wills of Revolutionary Character.

An antiquarian, who has been looking over the records at Albany, brings to light the wills of some of the revolutionary veterans. Among them is the will of Baron Steuben, dated Feb. 12, 1804. After the usual covenant, he says:

"Sufficient reasons having determined me to explode my relatives in Europe from any participation of my estates in America and to adopt my friends and former aide-de-camp, Benjamin Walker and William North, as my children, and make them sole devisees, except to my servants one year's wages, and to my valet-de-chambre all my wearing apparel; but I do hereby declare that these legacies to my servants are to be on the following conditions:—that on my decease they do not permit any person to touch my body, not even to change the shirt in which I shall die, but that they wrap me up in my old military cloak, and in twenty-four hours after my decease, bury me in such spot as I shall, before my decease, point out to them, and that they never acquaint any person with the place where I am buried."

Whether the place of his burial has ever been made known, the antiquarian could not ascertain. But his request savors of the mysterious.

General Herkimer's will is dated February 7, 1777. He says: "My Executor is to prove my will and order that if by the providence of God, my present beloved wife and future widow, after my decease, should lawfully marry one of my brother's sons, that they shall have and enjoy the interests and rents of all my lands," &c. "But in case she, my said wife, do marry with one of my sister's sons, then the said rents and interests shall apperiain to them and their heirs." The old General was determined to keep the property in the family or let Mrs. H. remain a widow.

BY TEN THOUSAND TONS.—One hundred and fifty men have been, for a long time past, and are yet, busily engaged, at Watervliet Arsenal, as we learn from the Troy Times, making gun carriages, preparing caps, cartridges, &c. Thousands of tons of war material have been sent off from this station to Fort Pickens, Jefferson, Tortugas and other fortifications. Shell, canister, and grape shot are being sent off to a fabulous extent, and heavy gun carriages to mount the forts have also been quite plentifully sent away. The Southern forts have never been fully mounted before, but they are now in a fair way of receiving a supply of ammunition sufficient to exterminate the country in the section to which the material is sent. The men have not been paid off by the Government during the past two months; but it is expected that, by next week, at farthest, some $15,000 will be received wherewith to settle all labor accounts.

ENLISTMENT AT NORFOLK.—Some excitement was occasioned at Norfolk, Friday night, by the calling out—by the authorities of detachments of the military force of that city. The movement was intended to be precautionary to certain insurrectionary designs, indicated in a letter picked up in Petersburg on Tuesday, and signed by Race Slayter, a negro resident of the former city, one Tone Scott, President of "The Sons of Liberty." The police made diligent search for the writer of the letter, but failed to find him. The military were on guard from midnight on Friday until 7 o'clock the succeeding morning.

A LIST of the various religious societies in Great Britain has just been published, from which it appears their annual receipts amount to £1,205,738 stg., and their annual disbursements to £1,155,396. This is a large sum to be raised through voluntary contributions to the cause of religion. It is upwards of six and a quarter millions of dollars, be it remembered.

A STORY is told of a person asking another one whether he would advise him to lend a certain friend money. "What! lend him money! You might lend him an emeis and he wouldn't return it."

The Cotton Product.

The American cotton crop forms probably about one-twentieth of the whole annual agricultural and manufacturing product of the nation. The value of the cotton exported for the last five years, according to the last report made by Howell Cobb, as Secretary of the Treasury, was as follows:

1856	$128,382 351
1857	131,575 859
1858	131,386 561
1859	161,434 923
1860	191,806 555

The total value of the annual products of American industry was estimated by the census of 1840 at about $1,000,000 000; by the census of 1850 at about $2,000,000,000; and the estimate made by the census of 1860 will probably be about $4,000,000,000.

Making allowance for the home consumption of cotton in addition to that exported, its value may, we think, be fairly stated at about $200,000,000, although it probably exceeded that sum during the last year.

There is no doubt that cotton differs in several essential respects, which give it a peculiar value in addition to the actual amount of cash for which it is sold, from most other American products, because it is in great demand in foreign countries, and thus forms a basis for an extensive commerce, as well as for the multifarious manufacturing operations for which it is indispensable as a raw material. But, at the same time, the men who produce $200,000,000 worth of cotton are in no better financial condition than the men who produce $200,000,000 worth of any other article which can be readily sold for that amount of money, if their actual net profits are no greater. The mere fact that cotton can be profitably exported does not necessarily render its producers more wealthy than those who produce hay, or iron, coal, or cotton goods which cannot be exported. Communities advance in wealth according to the relative market-value of their annual production and consumption, without reference to the nature of the articles they make or consume. And thus the fact is explained that the free States, which export little or nothing, advance in wealth more rapidly than slave States, which export a very large proportion of their entire product. If Cotton is King it does not follow that it enriches the dominions devoted to its productions more rapidly than other States which produce more democratic articles, but only that so many interests are dependent upon its constant supply that it cannot be an easily dispensed with as other things which are not made the basis of extensive commercial and manufacturing operations.—*Phila. Great Storm on the British Coast.—Fearful Loss of Life.

The violent gale which ravaged the east coast of England and Ireland on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 8th and 9th, appears to have been more destructive in its effects than any similar visitation which has occurred on those shores for many years. It was so sudden and unexpected, coming as it did from the northeast, that numerous small coasting vessels were sacrificed to its fury, and there had been any previous phenomena to indicate such an interruption to the fine weather which had previously prevailed, they might have remained safely anchored in sheltered harbors. The storm set in on the afternoon of Friday, and raged without intermission until Saturday night—the weather-vanes indicating an occasional change in the wind from northeast to south and west. In the neighborhood of Hull, Shields and Hartlepool, on the English coast, and Kingstown and the adjacent ports on the Irish coast, the greatest ravages were committed. At Shields, Hartlepool, Redcar and Scarborough, sixty-three vessels are reported to have gone ashore or foundered, of which about forty are total wrecks. Fourteen ships are reported wrecked or disabled at Kingstown alone, and to this list of casualties is added a melancholy catastrophe which befell Capt Boyd, of her Majesty's steamer Ajax, and a number of his crew, while endeavoring to save the lives of shipwrecked mariners.

The English and Irish papers abound in harrowing details of the disasters.
