VIRGINIA'S UNIONISM.

It is difficult to comment with any degree of calmness or patience upon such an article as the following from the Richmond Whig. Such immeasurable impudence is either sublime or ridiculous according to circumstances. Were there not reason to fear that the spirit and fire of '76 is expiring in the great American heart, and that the nation is ripe, not for destruction, but for bondage, we could laugh at such an effusion as this, as simply ridiculous; but when we see men around us cowering, trembling, and ready to prostrate themselves before this all-conquering spirit of slavery, it must be confessed that it partakes of something of that terrible sublimity which lifts the name of Alaric above the lowest depths of infamy. It says:

"We have conversed freely with members of the Convention, and we are persuaded that the action of that body will be eminently wise and conservative, and as our distant readers will naturally desire to know what that action will be, we venture, for their satisfaction, to state our impressions on the subject.

"We believe that, after full debate and thorough examination, the Convention will indicate by resolutions the constitutional amendments and guarantees which, in the judgment of Virginia, are necessary for the security of her rights and institutions. When these are agreed on, she will invite a conference of the non-seceded States, at Frankfort or Nashville, to consider our propositions, and to make common cause with her. She will not offer her propositions as an ultimatum, but merely as her contribution to the general stock of suggestions on the subject. Some of her wisest and most patriotic citizens will be sent by the Convention to this Conference, and her propositions will there be considered, and, it may be, modified in some respects—though not in any essential particulars.

"When harmony and concurrence shall have been secured among the Border States, the propositions, as agreed on by them, will be submitted as an ultimatum to the Northern States. This ultimatum, we feel assured, will embrace no unreasonable features—nothing which is not in strict conformity with the principles of the Constitution, as understood and acted on by the fathers of the Republic. If it should be accepted by the North, the Union will be preserved and harmony restored. If, on the other hand, it be rejected, then the Border States will, in a body, withdraw from the Union, and unite with such States, both slaveholding and non-slaveholding, as may be willing to adopt them.' In the event of rejection, we believe that New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois will unite with the Border States. The result may be to throw off the New England States and the extreme Northwestern States. The Gulf States will soon find it to their interest to reunite themselves to this conservative Confederacy, and ultimately the exculated Northern States, having learned a lesson of wisdom and humility, will knock at our doors for readmission into the family mansion.

This is a noble programme, and it is one which we believe will lead to the restoration of the Union to all of its pristine glory and ample proportions. We are satisfied that the ultimatum of the Border States will be so fair and just and reasonable, that it will be promptly and gladly embraced by an overwhelming majority of the Northern States, and that any which may feel temporary dissatisfaction will be compelled to acquiesce."

This programme is somewhat different from the one we spoke of a few days ago, although the ultimate object is the same. That proposed to bring the whole country, or at least the greater part of it, under the Montgomery Constitution; this is designed to break up the entire Union at once, remodel the Constitution as Virginia shall dictate, and then start the work of reconstruction, beginning with the Border States on both sides of Mason & Dixon's line. Both aim at making Slavery supreme, and giving peace to the country by crushing out the anti-Slavery sentiment of the North, as it is now crushed out at the South. Then would the Union be restored "to all its pristine glory and ample proportions"—a vast dead sea of despotism, where fanatics would cease from troubling, and the slave could make up his mind to rest in his lot. It is a grand idea. All will be rest and quietness, for none will be suffered to make any disturbance but those gifted and privileged ones who own labor and are above the necessity of working with their hands. Such are the terms offered by our officious brethren of Virginia, to whose professions of Unionism so much deference has been paid; for the sake of which even the wheels of government have been stopped; until that stern devotion to the glory of its power is fast dying out of the national heart.

Is war, short, sharp and decisive, the greatest evil that can befall a nation, even though that war be internecine—brother against brother? There may be greater calamities than even that, deplorable as it is. Can the patriotism of any people survive the virtual death of the government in behalf of which that patriotism is enlisted? It is idle to expect it; and we tell those to whom we have committed the government, that if they do not act promptly and vigorously, that that inner patria, and that enthusiasm for liberty, which carried them so triumphantly into power will become demoralized, and they and the government will fall together. Only let the country see and feel that it has a government, and then will the government feel that it has a country upon which it can rely to the last extremity. Never mind Virginia; for if she had any true attachment to the Union she would be not be presuming her fanciful ultimatums as the conditions of her abiding a member of it.

This programme must be broken in upon, and that quickly, or it will be carried out. Nothing but a stern demand, on the part of the government, that this treason, and arming, and outrage, and plunder, shall stop, can save us from utter discomfiture and disruption. We cannot vote this thing down; and at all hazards we must prevent—if it is in human power to do so—the agitation in our midst, here in Pennsylvania, of the terrible question, Which government we shall choose. Such a question might, and probably would, array neighbor against neighbor in deadly strife. May the hand that writes these words be palsied in death before it shall be required to deposit a ballot in such a question as this!

FAMILY QUARRELS.

Everybody knows that if a stranger interferes in a fight between man and wife, that, nine times in ten, they will quit their own battle and both turn upon him. Such, possibly, may be the effect of the interference of Europe in our present intestine broil.

A formidable fleet, made up of both English and French vessels, is coming to our Southern shores, but nobody knows what for, although everybody suspects that it is an impertinent interference of some kind. In addition to that, Spain is pouring a large force, both naval and military, into the Gulf of Mexico and the neighboring West India seas. Some say she is going to take possession of Hayti; and certain it is that the negroes of that island are greatly alarmed. But perhaps she may have designs upon Florida, now that its own crazy people have cut loose from the American Union and made that old Spanish colony a helpless waif, to be picked up by any power that can do it.

Texas was a Spanish possession only a few years ago, and that ambitious old government still regards her title good. It is therefore not altogether improbable that Spain is disposed to avail herself of this day of confusion and dissipation to reclaim it and so much of her lost property around the Gulf coast.

Spain has recuperated wonderfully in population, power and resources within the past twenty or thirty years, and with her returning strength her ambition is reviving; and it would not be surprising were she to make a bold attempt at repossessing herself of some of the rich provinces she lost in her days of weakness and decadence. Her late victorious raid upon Morocco did much to restore her ancient spirit of foreign conquest; and now an attempt to "reannex" Florida and Texas would certainly have more semblance of right than was or could be found in that; for to one of them at least she has what lawyers call a "color of title."

Should any or all of those foreign powers show a disposition to seize upon any of these broken fragments of the American Union, it will cause a reaction equally gratifying and amusing. A controlling Union party would spring up in the Gulf States as if by magic.

FROM HARRISBURG.

[Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, April 2, 1861.

Eds. Gazette:—In the Senate, yesterday, the following bills were passed:

House bill for the relief of T. H. Martin, late treasurer of Venango county.

House bill relative to the city of Allegheny.

House bill for the final adjustment of the claim of Sam'l. B. Richards.

House bill to incorporate the North American Oil Company.

In the House the following bills passed:

Senate bill, to incorporate the Brady's Bend Iron Company.

House bill incorporating the New Castle Gas Light Company.

House bill authorizing the borough of Franklin to levy additional taxes.

House bill establishing a ferry over the Allegheny river at M'Crea's, Venango county.

House bill authorizing the Commissioners of Fayette county to borrow money.

The bill authorizing the Commissioners of Washington county to compromise with the bondholders was taken up, amended and recommitted to the Judiciary Committee. E.

HARRISBURG, April 2, 1861

Eds. Gazette: In the Senate, to-day, the day was occupied in the consideration of the Bank bill. The time for resumption was changed from the 1st of July to the 1st of June.

Mr. Blood first moved to amend by making it the 1st of May. Mr. Welsh moved to amend the amendment by making it the 1st of June. The amendment prevailed by 14 to 12, and the amendment as amended prevailed, 14 to 13.

Mr. Irish renewed his amendment, offered in Committee of the Whole, to include the balances due by solvent banks to the basis of banking; lost, 4 to 20.

Mr. Yardley moved to amend by requiring only the suspended banks to receive the notes of suspended banks at par until June 1st, but this was voted down almost unanimously.

Mr. Smith moved to amend the 3d section so as to require the Receiver of Taxes in Philadelphia to receive in payment of State Taxes the notes only of Philadelphia suspended banks. Lost, 19 to 14.

Pending the consideration of the 4th section, the Senate adjourned until to-morrow.

The bill will pass, as reported, except the alteration of the time for resumption. There will be a big fight over the 4th section, to-morrow, but the chances are that it will pass.

In the House, this morning, the County Reform bill was objected off the calendar by a Philadelphia member, and goes over until next week. It is perfectly understood that the Democrats used to procrastinate this result, and I know that, although our members are almost a unit in desiring its passage, and that, although the bill applies only to Allegheny county and concerns no one outside of it, that the paid agents of the Commissioners, sure, expect to accomplish its defeat. If they succeed in defeating it, I will lay bare the whole machinery used for attaining that end.

The private Calendar was taken up, and the following bills passed to second reading. They will pass finally, to day or to-morrow:

An act to incorporate a company to construct a plank road in Erie, Crawford and Venango counties.

An act supplementary to an act to lay out a State road in Clarion and Venango counties, approved the 21st day of May, A. D., 1857.

An act supplementary to an act to incorporate the Pittsburgh and Steubenville turnpike road company.

An act to lay out a State road in Clarion and Venango counties.

An act to authorize the commissioners of Clarion and Armstrong counties to erect a bridge over the Red Bank creek.

An act to incorporate the Union Mills and Oil Creek plank road company.

An act declaring Soldier run, in the county of Jefferson, a public highway.

An act relating to the Erie canal company.

An act to incorporate the Tidioute bridge company.

A further supplement to the act to incorporate the Somerset and Johnstown plank road company, approved March 24th, A. D. 1851.

An act to incorporate the Columbia oil company.

An act to incorporate the Venango petroleum company.

An act to incorporate the Roresco oil company.

Senate bill. A further supplement to an act in reference to running of locomotive engines and cars on connecting railroads, approved the 13th day of March, 1847.

A further supplement to an act, entitled an act to incorporate the Bedford railroad company.

A further supplement to an act incorporating the Erie and Pittsburgh railroad company, approved April 1st, A. D. 1858.

An act to divide the borough of Ebensburg, in the county of Cambria, into two wards.

An act to expedite and lessen the expenses in criminal proceedings in the county of Erie.

Supplement to the act authorizing the Commissioners of Beaver county to borrow money.

A further supplement to the act incorporating the Lawrenceville and Sharpsburg Plank Road Company.

Senate bill. An act for the removal of the toll-gate of the Lawrenceville and Sharpsburg Plank-Road Company, from the borough of Lawrenceville.

A supplement to an act to authorize the managers of the Indiana and Ebensburg turnpike to collect tolls for certain purposes.

An act to incorporate the Pittsburgh and Brownsville Turnpike Road Company.

An act to incorporate the fire enwood Cemetery company, of New Castle, and to authorize Cyrus Clark, guardian of the minor heirs of James D. Clark, deceased, to sell and convey certain real estate.

An act to prevent injury to persons and property on the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad, and for the better protection thereof in the county of Beaver. E.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, April 1st, 1861.

The Cabinet met at eleven o'clock to-day, and considered not only the question of appointments, but the interminable one relating to the policy of the Administration in the Southern States. It is especially necessary that something definite should be arrived at publicly as to the course to be pursued, as the ground work has undoubtedly been laid in the instructions to Minister Adams, as well as in the dispatches sent out on Saturday, to all our Foreign Ministers, by Henry S. Sanford, the newly appointed Minister to Belgium, regarding the position which the Administration has taken toward the assumed Government of the Confederate States.

It is stated on the street to-day that important conclusions were arrived at in the Cabinet meeting, but what there are is not known.

The monthly statement of the United States Treasury was made to-day. There are now subject to draft two millions seven hundred and sixty-four thousand dollars. There are credited to depositaries in the Seceded States some two millions more, which the Government will probably never obtain. The new loan will be opened at 12 o'clock to-morrow, and all parties are very hopeful that it will be taken at a much lower rate than the old loan. Several combination bids were made to-day.

I telegraphed you some time since that the Cabinet had under consideration the question of the schooner Restless, at New York, which cleared from Mobile without proper papers. It was decided that the penalty of forfeit should be remitted, and the Secretary of the Treasury has so informed the owners. It was done on the ground that there was no Collector of the United States at the port of departure, to grant a clearance.

Senator Trumbull, returns to Illinois this week. Messrs. Bingham and Gurley, of the Ohio delegation, are here. Mr. Holloway has appointed his son Chief Messenger of the Patent office. This situation is a very valuable one. E.

The President has decided on the Collectorship appointments, thus putting an end to the disgraceful quarrel of the rival factions, commenced on Saturday.

R. R. Sloss, of Sandusky, is appointed General Mail Agent for Ohio.

On Saturday evening last, three members of Congress, one of whom was from Ohio, called on the President. They found him engaged in looking over a number of maps of the gulf coast. A conversation ensued about the disposition of the Southern posts, in the course of which the President gave it to be understood, in unmistakable terms, that even though the evacuation of Fort Sumter should be determined upon, the other forts yet in possession of federal troops will be held to the last. He furthermore hinted rather more plainly at the intention of the government to blockade the southern ports, and collect the revenue with men-of-war. This is authentic, and can be implicitly relied on by your readers.

A bearer of dispatches from the United States Consul at St. Domingo, arrived here yesterday. They bore upon the high handed measures of annexation lately resorted to upon that Island by the Spanish authorities. It is known that the subject has already occupied the attention of the President and Secretary Seward, and the letter will address an energetic protest to the Spanish Government without delay. This is all the federal power can do in its present crippled condition.

W. H. Russell, the Times correspondent, is being considerably lionized, both by the Administration and public at large. He dined with the President on Saturday, and had an interview with the Southern Commissioners yesterday. He has now laid out his route through the South, and will start in easy stages for Montgomery towards the end of the present week. The Secessionists will receive little mercy at his pen.—Cin. Com.

Secretary Chase has adopted a rule, within a day or two, shutting off access to the offices in his department from all but those who have department business to transact. This prevents the hords of office seekers from interfering with the regular business of the department.

Minister Wyfer is expected to leave the city of Mexico to-day, for Washington. His dispatches mention the murder of a young man attached to the American legation; and adds that a great deal of lawlessness is prevailing throughout the country.

There is unusual activity at the Norfolk Navy Yard. Two vessels will soon be ready to go into commission.

Rheumatism! Rheumatism! Rheumatism!

It is well-known that bathings, ointments and external applications, only drive Rheumatism from one part of the system to another. Sometimes, with fatal results. HUMPHREYS' SPECIFIC HOMŒOPATHIC RHEUMATIC PILLS often cure the worst and most protracted cases. This simple medicated SUGAR PILL will do more to eradicate the disease than quantities of crude medicines, and has cured when all other means have failed. Price 25 cents per box. Six boxes for $1.

N. B.—A full set of HUMPHREY'S HOMŒOPATHIC SPECIFICS, with Book of Directions, and twenty different Remedies, in large vials, morocco case, $5; ditto, in plain case, $4; case of fifteen boxes, and Book, $2. Single boxes, 25 cents and 50 cents.

These Remedies, by the single box or case, are sent by mail or express, free of charge, to any address, on receipt of the price. Address Dr. V. HUMPHREYS & CO., No. 562 Broadway, New York.
