PITTSBURGH:

WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 10, 1861.

First Principles.

The wise and careful mariner, when darkness and storm are upon him, and when in danger of being driven upon rocks or shoals, will consult his chart with more than ordinary care and solicitude, take his soundings and make his observations, in order to ascertain where he is, and how far he may have been driven by the violence of the tempest from his proper course. So will the thoughtful statesman and citizen do at such time as this.

This government of ours is founded upon certain principles which are fixed and eternal in their nature, which men did not ordain, which they have no power to alter, and which they may not, without moral treason, abandon—principles which are God's, not Cæsar's. Party platforms, when founded upon those principles, are as sacred as truth itself, and may not be abandoned without great guilt, and the danger of incurring the most fearful disasters.

Men sometimes talk with great self complacency of the duty of giving up party prejudices and attachments for the sake of the country; but do such people reflect that what they call prejudice may be a high and intelligent adherence to principle; that this may be one of the chief ligaments which binds the man to his Supreme Sovereign, and that his attachment to his party is nothing less than a manifestation of his love of truth and righteousness. Is it right or reasonable to ask a man to give up this?

Does the Chicago platform embody, in a summary form, the great principles of truth and righteousness as they apply to human government? We think it does, and so thinking, we are bound to adhere to it. We may change the form of expression as often as we please; but we are bound by a law infinitely higher than any that ever emanated from any Convention, or any Congress, to adhere to the substance; and it is the substance, not the form, with which the salaries of slavery are now quarrelling.

It is either true, or it is not true, "that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuits of happiness." If true, then slavery per se is wrong—an infraction both of the rights of man and the rights of God. If true, then the principles upon which our party is founded are right, and we may not and dare not abandon them, however much we may be tempted by interest, or love of peace, or a fancied love of country, to do so. But if not true, then is our whole system a delusion, and the sooner we abandon it the better. If not true, then the writer and the reader of these words are only free by sufferance. If not true, then the principle that "might makes right" must be true; and the genuine outworking of that system would justly subject the weaker to the stronger, until finally the strongest, as an irresponsible despot, would have all the rest of the nation, or of the world, under his heel. But beware, white man, how you consent to allot to the black man, either by your own act, or by tacit consent, bondage like that to which he is subjected in the Southern States; for remember that His said, whose word is stronger than all our Constitutions and laws—"with what measure ye mete it shall be measured to you again."

A few man, long, long ago, sold a brother into slavery. Subsequently they got into great trouble and perplexity, as we are now, and that trouble brought their sin to remembrance, and wrung from them the ingenuous confession—"We are verily guilty concerning our brother!"

But if slavery is right, and if that clause in the Declaration is nothing more than a falacious rhetorical flourish, then those men had done no wrong—they were only a set of miserable fanatics, suffering under the pangs of morbid conscience. Say, you apologists of slavery and treason, how do you like this logic? Do you think those men were fanatics? We think they judged rightly when they accused themselves of having done their brother wrong, although at the time they did it they supposed that the act was highly politic and expedient; for they had had some intimations that if he was not made away with in some way they themselves would be reduced to servitude. It was a political operation on a small scale—an example of primitive statesmanship.

The doctrine that is now to be pressed upon us for our acceptance is this: That the fathers of the Republic were mistaken in the position that liberty is the birthright of every human being, and that in this respect all men are created equal. The new doctrine is, that the Creator made man unequal; that it is the prerogative of white men to command, and the natural status of negroes to be slaves. To be sure there is no attempt to prove that the Supreme Ruler ever promulgated such a decree; but the fact is confidently assumed, and it is intended that it shall be so decreed by the joint authority of Slavery and Democracy. Regard for any higher law than that is scouted as sheer fanaticism. This may seem to be wildly extravagant to some; but we know that it is sober truth; and the ultimatum which some Virginians intend to thrust upon us the only thing that can save the Union is to be based upon this assumption. So we may make up our minds that we are to have a severe contest—not for our party merely, for that is of little consequence—but for the great truths which underlie our party—truths which we neither originated or can destroy—truths which will remain, whatever may become of our fidelity—truths which we have no more right to barter away than Judas had to betray his Master.

We intended to have said something about the moral philosophy of compromises; but as we have said enough for one time, we shall defer that to another time.

Programmes.

The continuation of the men and material shipped, or in process of shipment, from the port of New York and elsewhere, has of course been considerably speculated upon within the past few days. The following three programmes are given as having many believers among the best informed military and naval people in the country:

Programme First—The clearance of the steamers for Texas is bona fide. They are going there. But they will distribute the troops among the men-of-war off Pensacola for reenforcing Fort Pickens; then go to Brazos and bring back whatever scattered troops have accumulated on the coast, to be tried and reorganized here, and subsequently sent to Pickens, where reverses might render re-enforcements a necessity.

Programme Second—The troops are going to Texas to "spread the rebels of the track," and cooperate with Gen. Houston. This is altogether the most probable, as horses for land service have gone.

Programme Third—The troops are bound to Texas to "spread the rebels of the track," and cooperate with Gen. Houston. This is altogether the most probable, as horses for land service have gone.

WASHINGTON, it appears, was much agitated on Saturday evening and Sunday with rumors of an intended attack of the Secessionists, under command of Ben McCulloch, but the rumors proved, on proper enquiry, to be totally without foundation. Washington just at present, is probably the very last place the Secessionists will think of attacking.

THE Washington dispatches of Sunday reported that the telegraph wires South of Petersburg, Va., were down,—so that no further news, besides what appeared in the morning papers, could be received there from the South.

HALF a million packs of cards are made annually in London.

From Charleston.

The Charleston correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune, writing from that city on the 3d inst., gives us the following view from that stand point:

It has probably been decided in a secret session of the Convention that no more supplies shall be sent to Major Anderson. The Mercury also intimates that the attack upon Fort Sumter will no longer be delayed, it is therefore certain that the Government must now act, and either strengthen or evacuate the Fort. That the former can be done I firmly believe, and that it could be accomplished with little loss I am no less certain; the people outside of slaveholders and politicians becoms daily more satisfied that their interests are in no way bound up with a despotic form of government, and are hopeful that the authority and dignity of the United States may yet be manifested, and themselves and their families saved from the ruin which now stares them in the face. The foreign news which arrives by every mail, while it is carefully sifted before publication, has yet a wonderful effect upon the nerves of the rebels; the cutting sarcasm of the London Times, in speaking of "President" Davis and his connection with Mississippi repudiation, and the withering denunciations of the London Daily News, strike terror into the hearts of the fire-eaters and traitors, and give consolation and Hope to the friends of the Union. Let the good work of maintaining the honor of America and her free institutions be pushed steadily on, let her power be felt, and she will not only be respected and applauded by the civilized world, but will secure to her flag thousands of patriotic non-slaveholders in the South, whose hearts are yearning for reconstruction.

The Chivalry are beginning to admit now, the fact being so patent that they cannot help it, that there is considerable distress existing among the poor in Charleston, both white and black. The most lamentable circumstances of all is, that they will stand a very weak chance of assistance from their "betters." Money is scarce, and business men are beginning to look with great suspicion on the banks, fearing that their money will be illegally used for treasonable purposes. Meantime provisions are rising in price; bad beef sells for twenty-one cents per pound, and other things are proportionately dear. The poor have a hard time before them; the prospect of it is enough to make a true man's heart bleed. The sickly season will soon be here, and Charleston, the native home of yellow fever, was never so ill prepared for it. The streets, alleys, and byways have been allowed to get into the most filthy state. Money which ought to have been spent in cleansing and purifying the city has, of course, been expended in the purchase of cannon balls. The chances against any poor man who is out of work are a hundred to nothing. The few founderies and other manufactories here have not half their usual number of hands, and those who are employed are filling orders on the credit of the State, which, if one may judge by the slow progress made in taking up the required loan is mighty poor security.

Intelligence has just reached the city that a schooner, name unknown, being anchored in the bay, near Fort Sumter, has been fired into; a shot was sent across her bow from Morris Island; she, not understanding its meaning, ran up the United States flag; this was the signal for another shot, which struck her. Major Anderson immediately dispatched one of his Lieutenants to Morris Island, to demand explanations. The reply was that she was supposed to be a transport schooner, with provisions for Fort Sumter. It understood that the major gave the officer in charge to understand that if any damage was done to the schooner, and apology and reparation were not made, he should open his batteries in her defense. Depend upon it stirring times are near at hand. That our Government may be equal to the crisis, is the earnest prayer of a thousand Union men in Charleston.

Western Virginia.

The people of western Virginia will never consent to secession. This is emphatically declared by the delegates from that section. Meanwhile, it cannot be denied that the secession cause is strengthening in eastern Virginia; but this change can avail nothing against the combined power of western Virginia and the strong conservative element which, I am satisfied, still predominates in eastern Virginia. The secessionists are very active. They are resorting to every contrivance of enthusiasm and display that can give the prestige of apparent strength to the secession movement. Processions, secession banners, music and speeches are the stimulants which are nightly employed to win over new adherents. Pryor is constantly on the wing, seeking to make new converts. He is no sooner in this city than at some country cross-road attending the ceremony of secession poll-raising; an order of proceeding which is of late becoming fashionable here. The notorious John M. Daniel, late minister to Sardinia, has resumed control of the Examiner newspaper, in this city, and if anything, he seems to have improved upon his old habits of scurrility. That paper is now, by common consent, the dirtiest sheet on the continent. Its columns teem daily with scurrilous personalities in reference to all who venture to say a word in support of the Union. If there was no intrinsic demerit in the cause of secession itself, I should suppose that the characters of its most prominent to the movement would be sufficient to admonish all honest, virtuous men against any connection with it. I do not know a single man of standing or influence in this community who is identified with it.—[Richmond Cor. of World.

THE LONDON TIMES ESTABLISHMENT having been visited by a Frenchman, is described by him as follows:

"Adjoining the editorial room, which is large, well lighted, and fitted with desks commanding every convenience for writing—is a dining room for the editors, and the archive room, where are stored all the files of the "Times" since its foundation. Next to the archive room are the proof readers rooms, where are hundreds of dictionaries and encyclopedias in all languages and relating to all subjects. A dozen proof readers are employed during the day, and another dozen during the night. They have an eating room adjoining that where they work; and their meals are provided at the expense of the establishment. The administration of the "Times" has nothing to do with the subscription to the paper. Smith, of the Strand, sees to the mailing of the papers, of which he takes thirty thousand daily. The remainder are bought by one hundred and seventy-seven dealers, who pay in advance."

AN ILLUSTRATION.—The treasonable spirit which rules the councils of the Virginia Legislature is manifested in the fact, that while it has authorized the seizure of the guns manufactured at the Bellona Foundry for the United States, not the slightest opposition has been made to the sale of arms by a Richmond manufacturer to the Southern traitors. The folly of this piece of meanness is illustrated in the fact that the Bellona guns are small, the whole thirty costing only thirteen or fourteen thousand dollars. They are in no way necessary to the defence of Fortress Monroe, which is amply provided with the materials of defense. The secession fright has been entirely without adequate foundation, but the occasion serves to illustrate the treasonable spirit which prevails about Richmond.

IT WILL surprise some of our readers that in Texas whole counties voted against Secession. We give the returns in some of them:

Counties.	For Secession	Ag'st Secession
Bastrop	335	252
Burnet	107	248
Collin	405	948
Collin	471	656
Fannin	580	626
Fayette	15	826
Gillespie	553	563
Lamar	140	207
Medina	450	704
Travis	349	480
Williamson

How must the people, for example, in Gillespie, or in Collin, or Travis county fell, at being dragged off to a foreign country after such a vote as this?

THE wheat raised in 1860 averages about three pounds in weight per bushel more than the crop of 1859.

THE amount of Northern manufactures sold to the South in 1859, is estimated at $240,000,000.

This simple medicinal Steam Fuel will do more to eradicate the disease than quantities of crude medicines, and has cured where all other means have failed. Price $2 each in paper box. PITTSBURGH, Jan. 15, 1861. }

To Dr. VON MOSCHZISKER, 155 Third st., Pittsburgh:

I am happy to inform you that my little daughter, who has been quite deaf for four years, has, under your treatment, entirely recovered her hearing. I feel satisfied that her hearing will never have been restored by natural causes, and I would but to your ability alone is she indebted for it, and I would most earnestly recommend all afflicted with Deafness to consult you at once.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN MCCLOSKEY.

ALLEGHENY, April 8th, 1861.

Dr. VON MOSCHZISKER—Dear Sir: It is but justice that my gratitude for the relief I experienced from your skilful treatment should have expression. For some time past my hearing had been so bad that I found it very difficult to hear the ticking of a watch, and several physicians was strictly followed. I am therefore truly grateful to you, and very happy to say that the operation performed by you has resulted in the perfect restoration of my hearing.

THOMAS HUNTER.

Gratefully yours.
