The Result.

Fort Sumter is lost, but Freedom is saved. There is no more thought of letting or treating the traitors who have dared to aim their cannon balls at the flag of the Union and those who gave their lives to defend it. It seems but yesterday that at least two-thirds of the journals of this City were the virtual allies of the Secessionists, their apologists, their champions. The roar of the great circle of batteries opening their iron hail upon devoted Sumpter has struck them all dumb. It is as if one had made a brilliant and effective speech setting forth the innocence of murder, and, having just ridden miles to the races and gaslight, were to be confronted by the gory form and staring eyes of a victim of assassination, the first fruit of his oratorical success. For months before the Presidential Election a majority of our journals predicted forcible resistance to the Government of the natural and necessary consequence of a Republican triumph; for months since, they have been cherishing and encouraging the Slaveholder's Rebellion as if it were a very natural and proper proceeding. Their object was purely partisan: they wished to bully the Republican Administration into shameful recreancy to Republican principle, and then call upon the people to expel from power a party so profligate and cowardly. They did not succeed in this; they have succeeded in enticing their Southern proteges and some Gay Allies into flagrant treason.

More of our journals lately, parading the pranks of the Secessionists with scarcely disguised exultation, have been suddenly sobered by the culmination of the slaveholding conspiracy. They would evidently like to justify and encourage the traitors further, but they dare not: so the Amen sticks in their throat. The upset of the People appalls them. Democrat as well as Republican, Conservative and Radical, instinctively feel that the guns fired at Sumter were aimed at the heart of the American Republic; Nowhere in the lowest groggery of our City would it be safe to propose cheers for Ellsworth and Gov. Pickens. The Tories of the Revolution were relatively ten times as numerous here as are the open sympathizers with the Palmetto Rebels. The manifestations at the Stock Exchange on Saturday were symptomatic of the feeling everywhere. It is hard to lose Sumter; it is a consolation to know that in losing it we have gained a united People. Henceforth, the loyal States are a unit in uncompromising hostility to Treason, wherever plotted, however justified. Fort Sumter is temporarily lost, but the country is saved. Live the Republic!—N. Y. Tribune.

Words they are.

"Occasional," in a letter to the "Press," thus describes the Confederate rebels and their works:

"The proceedings which began at Charleston on the 12th, and ended on the 13th, the attack upon Fort Sumter and the surrender of that fortress, have suggested some painful surmises to the friends of the Government and the Union. The damning guilt of the combined foes of our country's peace and the destroyers of our country's happiness, has now been established by their forcible attack upon the flag and the authority of the nation. Henceforward, they will be treated as outlaws and as traitors. The language of conciliation has given way to the duty of coercion; and the reconstruction of the public property, or its restoration by all the forces of the Government, will constitute, from this day, the policy of the General Administration. No foreign enemy has ever contributed so much to damage or dishonor the American name as these abandoned men. Their whole career has been marked by hatred of the Northern people; and when these people, animated by the holiest memories and affections, alike of country and of kindred, have proffered words and acts of kindness, the leaders in the Southern conspiracy have responded with insults, proscription, force, and finally blows and bloodshed. Men who obey no law deserve the benefit of no law but that of the strong arm. Men who cherish no gratitude for the past deserve none of the respect for the present; and men who have pledged themselves to deprive a free people alike of liberty and of life, become a banditti, to whom destruction and extirpation are the only appropriate terms."

ANOTHER CURE BY DR. SCHENCK.—I called on Dr. Schenck some time ago in one of his visits to Pittsburgh, at the office of Dr. Keyser, No. 140 Wood st. He was examining patients with his lung glasses. One of my lungs and the bronchial tubes were found to be badly diseased. He told me then that I could not live. I expected as much myself. Consumption was running in my family, and a matter in large quantities. I had night sweats and a great cough, and was greatly debilitated. Dr. Schenck prescribed for me his "PULMONIC SYRUP," "SEAWEED TONIC," and "MANDRAKE PILLS," and after taking them one month I have so far recovered that I do not think I have a cough, and the night sweats have nearly left me. I live in Columbiana county, Unity township, Ohio, where I am well known. You may publish this if you wish.

MARTIN KOCH.

Pittsburgh, August 27, 1860.

N.B. Since the above was written, Mr. Koch has entirely recovered, and continues well, having regained his usual health.

I, WILLIAM W. ALEXANDER, residing on Ann street, Allegheny city, do hereby certify that I have been a sufferer from severe cough and pain in the breast for about sixty years. During the whole of this time I have had several dollars' worth of Spirits Turpentine, but knowing no one personally that had been cured, I was determined to suffer on. In the fall of 1859, I took a severe cold, accompanied with a violent cough, difficulty of respiration, and night sweats, which so prostrated me that I expected my time on earth was short. I was considerably, and I made up my mind to waste no more money for doctors or medicine, as I would be dead before I got well. In this state I was on hand when Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup was first introduced. I felt completely discouraged. However, after reading several advertisements in the Pittsburgh Dispatch of persons who had been restored to health by this medicine after trial, and who were cured after all other means had failed, I was induced, by taking five bottles of it, to make a trial. I am happy to say, after using five bottles of the Pulmonic Syrup, that it has made a perfect cure of me. I am a well man, and I attribute my good health and vigor entirely to the use of Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup. I enjoy better health to-day, Feb. 6th, 1861, than I have done for twenty years past. I generally weighed about 130 lbs. I now weigh 160 lbs. Under these circumstances, they would not hesitate to call on him to his place in this place. I tell this evening every person I meet about him, and have recommended his medicine to many friends. Any person wishing to know the facts as here stated can call on me at my place of residence, at the corner of Ann and Sedgwick streets, Allegheny city.
