Taken by Force.

A railroad conductor likely to get into trouble by carrying away a Pitusburghor. Dr. M.

E. Gillespie has been missing for some days, sand it is thought he is browsing at Greenvillo, taken there by a railroad conductor. The real value of this genileman, as a partner of Dr. Sill, at the white house, will make his speedy return imporative. Dr. Sill has been overtaxed with the laughing gas wade in consequence of the above circumstance, and threatens a vigorous prosecution in case there is not immediate restoration of this inestimable personage. 286 Penn street against the world.

There are some standing here who were present when the foundations of the first house were laid. They saw its walls go up, and joined in its formal dedication to Almighty God. For thirty years they worshipped at its aliar. They can bear witness that the Lord loved the gates of that Zion, that this and that man was born in her, that on manner and that man was born in her, that on manner and that man was born in her, that on manner and that man was born in her, that on manner and that man was born in her, that on manner and that man was born in her, that of both the laid itself which was the same and that man was born in her, that of both in the laid like upto the shining of the Son of God would be upto the shining of the Son of God would be upto the shining of the Son of God would be upto the grave, and these fathers and mothers in Israel go through the pearly gates of God's city above, we trust they may enter the gates of this new temple, and see with us precious answer to the petition we this day being to God—hat the glory of this latter house may be greater than the glory of the former; that if will make it from generation to generation the dwelling place of Souls, a like the totals of wickedness, and where Christians shall love to meet to celebrate the loy of their espousals with Jesus.

Progress of Chemistry and Medicine.

Say what we may of new uncento hand inforcements in the arts, those which relate to the heating of the sick are, after all, the most important. But few are free from disease of come kind, and those connected with the blood, or circulation, are the most persistent and troublesome; therefore any discovery of new agents calculated to restore health to the blood, ought to be make known. By reference to the advertising department of the paper, a notice of Buraparilla with Iodide of Line will be found, which is entirely a new combination, and seems to be admirably grees of Chemistry and Medicine combination, and seems to be admirably adapted to meet the want spoken of.
