delivered an address before a large aud ence of ladies and gentlemen, assem the Court House, in the borough of Lebai on. His theme was the present aspect national affairs; and on it he spoke with secuous traits of his character. He avowed himself unmistakably against the Policy of the President, which tends to remit the po litical power of the government into the hands of the rien who sought the destruction of the Union. He gave in his adhe sion to the Congressional Scheme of Reconstruction; although he indicated a per sonal inclination to something more, and in the direction of impartial suffrage. At the close of the address he avowed himself a candidate for the United States Senate to, fill the vacancy to be made by the expiration of the term of Mr. EDGAR

COWAN. He said. "My name having been suggested as a candidate for the United States Senate at the close of the term which expires on the 4th or March, 1867, it is proper that my opinions should be known, and I think opinions should be known, and think every aspirant for the same high honor should be called upon explicitly to define his own position. I am vain enough to believe that I am qualified to discharge the duties of a Senator from Pennsylvania."

Upon this frank and manly statement we have several observations to make. 1. We have desired the question of United States Senator should not be mixed un with the current canvass. Not that we have deemed the presentation of claims, aspirations or preferences as intrusive a this time; but because we have conjectured that sharp competition at this early period might endanger future harmony, and, perbeing able to control the election when the time for choice should arrive. 2. We believe that every aspirant for the Schatorship should put himself on the rewhether or not they represent the average convictions and purposes of the Republican party. Any man who either conceals the ground on which he stands, or fails to let his position be known, ought, and will,

3. We like the candor with which the Colonel, not simply admits he would like to be Senator, but asserts his consciousnes of ability rightly to discharge the duties of that high office. In his case this is not vanity or egotism. He has measured intellectual strength with many eminent men, and has taken, by active competition, the gauge of his own capacities. He is no mistaken in his judgment of himself. .4. Since this question of the Schatorship, against our wishes, has been brought up so prominently for consideration that it can not be put aside, we shall take an early oc casion to present one or more aspects of it. ABSORPTION OF MEXICO. Any intelligent man, looking at the ma of the American Continent, will see why some of our countrymen are inclined plead for the acquisition of a slice of Mexi can territory. Chihuahua, Sonora, Lower California, and perhaps Sinaloa, hold such geographical positions as to present temptation for their capture or purchase. Persons who consider fully the growth of this republic, and the tendencies developed in its expansion, cannot doubt that at some future period, and that not far distant, these provinces will fall into our possession. This consideration explains, to a large extent, why members of Congress commit themselves to the policy of making a loan to the itinerant administration of the Mexcan republic. , Since the suppression of on, they do not apprehend dan narchical institutions. Nor do they cherish the delusion that any government the Mexicans may set up, or that may be established over them—and least of all, one republican in substance as well as in form -will put an end to the chronic agitations and insecurity of Mexican society. Noth ing less than a most stringent military des potism can hold the disordered passion and appetites of that wretched people in intervention have proved insufficient t maintain such a rule. There seems to b nothing left for the Mexicans but to debase and consume themselves in internal dissen and fratracidal conflicts While this process is going on certain; American statesmen are plant to lay the basis of a claim which shall result in territorial indemnity. In this pro ject we do not sympathize. The burden of the public indebtedness presses heavily o the shoulders of our people. Members Congress have become accustomed to vote millions where formerly they voted thous ands. The facility and cheerfulness with which large sums have been provided by the people, invites presumption. Calcula tions suggested by common prudence, umercial embarrassments and financial revulsions, are put aside as inspirations of timidity if not of cowardice. It is thought to be only a triffe to squander fifty millions f dollars upon the leaders of faction is Mexico, and take the chances of ultimately obtaining satisfaction at the point of the bayonet. We had rather keep the fifty ons and run the chauce of acquiring what territory we need when occasion for

The Richmond Wing exhorts the Northbert party which calls itself "democratic" to clinage its name, because "democratand copperhead have become synonymous forms during the war; the attitude assumed by the party towards the Government has caused in oddim to attach to it in the public mind which calinot be overcome." cations for Congress, Mr. GNAT SAWYER holds the following editorial language in his "Republic" of vesterious missions. his "Republic" of yesterday's emission:

"In this learning, so essentially important to the proper discharge of the duties of a Congressman, our Representative Gen.

Moorhead, is most lamentably deficient. It is very probable that he has not read the of a Congressman, our Representative Gen. Moorhead, is most lamentably deficient. It is very probable that he has not read the history of many nations, ancient or modern, much less given years of careful and critical study to an analysis of their peculiar institutions, the reasons for their laws and institutions, the reasons for their laws and institutions, the causes of their prosperity, or the manner, mode or instrumentalities which worked their decay and downfull. Employed in early and middle life in the more congenial, and han assing, and debasing pursuits of "money making, a knowledge of political ethics has remained to him as profound a mystery as would be now the problem or its demonstration of the "pons asinorum."

be now the problem or its demonstration of the "pons asinorum."

Let us apply this sort of logic to "Gnat."

Employed in early and middle life in the more congenial and debasing pursuit of a tallow chandler—now proudly exultant over the triumph of his skill in the production the president, or failing to do either, to indicate the president, or failing to do either, to indicate the president, or failing to do either, to indicate the president, or failing to do either, to indicate the president of these sharpers. of the wonderful saponacious combi-nation known as Sawyer's Chemical Era-re-union. nation known as Sawyer's Chemical Erasive Soap, and anon appearing in his favorite character of the "Woman's Friend, and even at this hour a burly knight of $2,500 damages from Robert Whitacre for duties or requisite qualifications of a mean-ber of the National Congress? Having none of the learning essential to a just es-timate of men, but being lamontably defi-cient therein, how does he thus brazenly cient therein, how does he thus brazenly assume to judge for others, who is best fit.

many nations ancient or modern-saving always "ye Historie of ye four Kyngs," and that of ancient and modern Greece Has Mr. SAWYER given years of careful and critical study to an analysis of political institutions or have his researches been chiefly given to the properties and phenomenon of borax and stearine? Is he more strumentalities which work the downfall of nations, or with the climatic causes which lead to the decay of virtue in the "woman's friend," or the downfall of price in genuine Rosin? Can he demonstrate wherein the modern pontoon wherewith he is vainly essaying to bridge the chasm between the pons asinorum differs materially from loyalty and disloyalty? These, we trust, pertinent and instructive inquiries suggest their own answers and we would affectionately caution the editor of the Republic against venturing upon such recondite topics hereafter. As there are some inventions, which being taught, may and do oft return to plague the inven tor himself! PARAFFINE. "Cumberland Presbyterian Assembly."

the Southern members!

In regard to the action of the Assembly in question there is a deep and widespread dissatisfaction in the churches of the North; indeed, the prevailing sentiment in this part of the Church is, that as the question of slavely and rebellion were again brought nto the discussions of the Assembly, that ody, as a matter of duty and faithfulness o God to His truth, and to our country, should have most emphatically re-affirmed he righteous deliverances of 1864 and The righteous stant this, under the circumstances, we think, ought to have satisfied any friend of cither "God" or "Cæsar."

Respectfully yours,
