TUESDAY, JULY 3, 1866.

NEWS FROM EUROPE comes fast and thick now, and the positions of the belligerent powers are becoming more and more defined. From the imperfect telegraphic news it appears that the Prussian army is moving and striking in two directions. One wing is acting against the Southwestern German States, whose troops are concentrating about Frankfort, the other is marching into and through Saxony, whose Capital has fallen into Prussian hands. Why the Austrians are thus losing valuable time, is hard to tell. At present only one picket seems to be across the border. If they had hurried on and thrown large masses on the Prussians they might have defeated them and threatened Berlin with their cavalry. It would be too hasty to say they are badly led; but we should not at all wonder if such was the fact. It was so in Italy. It has always been so. The soldiers good, the Generals bad—makes the former only food for the mouth of the cannon.

The Prussian army operating in western Germany must have made movements of great rapidity. Hanover, at least the north of it, seems to be completely over run. Hesse Cassel lies prostrate at their feet, and Hesse Darmstadt seems to have paid dearly for its temerity. A battle near Frankfort is imminent, and its result will decide the question in that part of the country. The Prussian army have comparatively easy work then. Their opponents are composed of too many elements to harmonize and work well together. The point of gravity lies rather in Saxony. There will be fought may be there has been fought one of those battle-despots, the fate of nations, which occur only once or twice in a century. Liepsic has seen one; Dresden may now see the other. But what does it mean, when one telegraphs, says France, at Prussia's request, has consented to guard the latter's interests in Austria and Bavaria? Does it simply mean that French representatives are to exercise a special care over Prussian interests, in the absence of representatives of that power? or does it mean more? Is either mockery or a sentence of acquittal? A few days will show. They will throw more light on all these movements and enable us to give them to our readers with more fidelity. For the present this meagre sketch must suffice.

BUTLER.—Some days ago we found a call on the COMMERCIAL for an explanation of the action of the County Convention on the question of the Scholarship. It was made but did not far under our observation. Three delegates to that body—one of them the Secretary who read the resolutions—certainly the resolution in favor of Gen. Curtin, was reported and adopted precisely as passed. But the admission is also made that this was at the close of a long session that the Secretary, in a hurry hurried it, read rapidly; and the vote was taken on the whole set without division. The explanation is that the matter was dispatched in a "jiffy."

JAMES H. LANE, United States Senator from Kansas, committed suicide at Leavenworth on the 11th inst. He was born in Indiana, and was a Representative in Congress from that State in 1853 to 1855, settled in Kansas, quarrelled with Mr Jenkins, of Pennsylvania, about a well of water, killed him, was indicted for murder, tried and acquitted, which caused a member of the United States Senate. During the early part of the rebellion he was commissioned Brigadier General of Volunteers. There is a taint of insanity in the family.

THE following are the Democratic nominees of Venango county: Congress, Gen A. B McCalmont, Senate, Francis Mentch, Assembly, Capt Wm. Hasson, President Judge, C Heydrick, Associate Judge, Samuel F. Dale, Prothonotary, Capt. Jas P. Newell, Register and Recorder, Alpheus M. Hoover, Commissioner, George S McCartney, Auditor, James Bryden

Charm.
Hall's Journal of Health has the following. Even in these late ages, the horseshoe is not entirely gone, nailed over the door of the cottage to "charm" away misfortune or to keep off disease. Children can be found at seed-i, any day, with little bags of brimstone attached to their necks by a string, to keep off some malady. There are many young gentlemen and ladies who have half a dozen charms attached to their watch-guard, as being a reminder of the ancient superstition. We give a pitying smile at these absurdities, for we know them to be unavailing. But there are "charms" against human ills which are powerful to save from physical, mental, and moral calamity. Such charms as may be found in the vaults of pretty confectioners, shoes, at Robinson's, No 61 Market street, in charming little snippers for charming feet are sold at charmingly low prices. For great bargains, call at Robinson's. His stock is large, and assorted and new.

The Great Acclimating Tonic
Which never sweetens Bitters, the celebrated American remedy for all climatic Diseases, are now known in unhealthy regions, have effected a marvel among the wealth, vigor, and manhood spread of those whose pursuits subjected them to extraordinary risks from exposure and privation, have been wonderful. In the army the superiority of this article over every other invigorating and alterative medicine has become so manifest where used, that it is now used, exclusively, as a protection against Bad Fever, Fever and Ague, and Bowel complaints, of every kind. The soldiers say it is the only stimulant which combines and keeps up a healthy habit of body in unwholesome localities. For the unacclimated pioneer and settler it is the most reliable and agreeable of all tonics, and altogether unequaled as a remedy for dyspepsia. The medicinal ingredients are all vegetable, and are held in solution by the most wholesome stimulant known—the essence of Rye. "Hostetter's Bitters" are manufactured at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and no less than 50,000 dozen bottles are sold annually by druggists.

Hostetter's Bitters
Are sold wholesale and retail at very low rates at Fleming's Drug and Patent Medicine Depot, No. 84 Market street, corner of the Diamond and Market, near Fourth street.

A FEW more days of Congress remain, which have attended the consummation of the Fenian organizations with the avowed purpose of liberating Ireland from the oppressive rule of Great Britain, according to the laws of nations as interpreted by the British authorities, entitles the said Fenian organizations to be regarded with respect. Be it therefore

Resolved, That we the representatives of the people of the United States, do hereby tender to the Fenian Brotherhood our sympathy and good wishes, in an advanced stage of their organization, legally armed as citizens, in the absence of Colonel Dawson, Acting Secretary of War, is announced and an inquiry made for knowing testimony to the contrary.

Mr. Ashley objected.

Mr. Boutwell said that he was with Ashley, as he passed Judge Bank alley with Alexander Patterson, whom their attention was attracted to a crowd gathered around a number of drays and carriages, and on approaching found a corpse lying on one of the drays, with a female in a fainting condition, and on approaching found it to be the corpse of a female in the prime of early manhood, with a rope around its neck and the hands tightly pinioned behind the back. Mr. Patterson remained in the alley while I went to inform the Mayor of the discovery, leaving the police officers in charge of the deceased.

Dr. Dale, Mayor's assistant, was examined, and stated that on arriving at the scene of the discovery found a cord pulled tightly around the neck from which it was with difficulty removed. Could not say positively that it was the cord which had caused the death through strangulation, but was positive that it was tightly drawn around the neck when the body was found. Could not say whether it was a case of suicide or murder.

Several other witnesses were examined without obtaining any further information, when the jury returned a verdict that the aforesaid Ellen Bannon came to her death through violence at the hands of some party or parties unknown.

It is to be hoped the perpetrators of this inhuman crime will be discovered at once and brought to justice, and if our authorities go manfully to work, this result will doubtless be accomplished.

Marriage in Jail

We were yesterday the willing witness to a ceremony of an interesting and unusual character in the county jail. It was no less than a marriage. The happy groom was Joseph Courtney, and the blushing bride Miss Louisa Baker. Louisa had loved Joseph not less than 3 years well, and as she is in that particular interesting condition, she preferred a change of formalities and hesitated again. The ceremony performed was Joseph. He was committed to jail 95 days ago, and Louisa followed suit and called upon the clergy. He relented, and in order to escape the punishment due his offence, sent for the fair Louisa, and expressed a willingness to be joined in the silly bonds of wedlock. Accordingly on the 30th inst. and were duly married by the Rev. Mr. Boyle, and Joseph was brought out of his cell to officiate. Joseph was brought out of his cell to officiate. Joseph was brought out of his cell to officiate.
