We have not championed the claims of pretensions of any man to the Senatorship that will seen become vacant by the expiration of the term for which Mr. Cowan was elected. Our idolatry of particular munities they had forfeited, they distilled men is not so fervid as it was when we were young. Indeed, we may confess, out shame, that our idolatries for gifted men were so crushed and humbed by the defeat of Mr. CLAY in his canvass for the Presidency in 1814, that we have not since built shrines for the worship acted during the war. Impatient of re of fellow mortals. It is now too late for us straint-intolerant of difference-swollen by unexpected and accidental elevation to review that branch of pleasant hallucing tous. But we have chosen to do what is to power-he speedily came to re more rational and important; we have pregard the men who had saved the sorted to some extent the claim of the Union as its bitterest enemies, and men Western and Northern portion of the who had sought its life as its best friends State to have one of their eminent and The metamorhposis was complete. prominent men put into the place as soon as it shall become vacant. These portions now comprise a largen amount of population than the whole Conmonwealth did some fifty or sixty years ago. The relative importance of the East se compared with the West and North, has His efforts are directed, not to make loyalty altogether changed. The people who live east of the Alleghenies and south of the it ought to entail on those guilty of it. To Blue Ridge no longer constitute substan! do this he means, so far as in him lies, to tially the State. It was fashionable, even in the big State Conventions, twenty years ago, to speak of counties situated north sought to destryo; to ensure to the van and north west of the Blue mountains as quished all the substantial results of victory being in an undeterminate country-a sort So long as his actions all tend in this direcform incognitu-best described as "the tion, the smooth words he may choose t Wild Cat region." Central Pennsylvania those days, stretched along the Mary land border, from the Delaware river, westward, about one hundred and twenty miles. Even so late as the year when the Judges of the Superior Court were first elected by the people, it was impossible to make intelligent gentlemen of the "cer tral region" believe that Northumberland and Montour counties were not actually of With us, they stand for adherence to th the northern border. A good deal of the to deal with it crabbedly. It is more effect turdly discomfitted by poking fun at it. In the western part of the State vast interests have grown up. Some of them are both new and peculiar. It is important, not only to the people of this section, but of the entire State that one of the Senators should be identified by locality with these interests, and so be specially qualified to lead in any action of the National Legisla ture by which they might be affected. Another consideration is of some importance. Whoever will take up a political map of the State will soon see that a majority of the Republican members of the Senate and House of Representatives, who occupied seats has winter, were chosen by northwestern counties. The same will be true next winter. A majority of the Re publican Senators and Representatives will be from the west and north. If they and be from the west and north. If they and be from the west and north. If they and their constituents elect, under an impulse of magnanimity, to torego an undoubted right we shall confess the liberality, but not applied the discretion.

The new style of bonnet in Paris is called the Cataline. It is described as "long and square," the shape of the pocket-handker-chief the Italian women wear on their heads. Another sweet thing is the Bolero visite.

The men so far named at the East in connection with the Senatorship—whatever may be said of their fidelity or services! and capabilities We do not say this to disparage all or any or them; but as essential consideration of the distinguished services in aiding in capturing the arch-traitor, Ells was discharged. The men so far named at the East in disparage all or any or them; but as essential to a fair presentation of the case. The men to whom the Republicans of the West and North would instinctively turn in search of Senatorial candidates, are superior in natural endowments, in breadth rior in natural endowments, in breadth depth.

and accuracy of culture, in tonacious attachment to fundamental principles, than the men so far named at the East. As the lumbermen express it, they will be safer "to fie to," than their competitors.

And this leads us to remark that in what we have so far said intention has not been to belittle any one, nor to deprecise the value of any services rendered during the great drama which five years have unrolled to the astonishment of mankind. "Thuse acceptants in those days," we frequently be it said with distinct reference to the period Webster, Clay and Californ distinct principles. "Now that the President is publishing to the safery of the control of the safery of the saf be at said with distinct reference to the period Weisster, Clear and Californ dispersion of the problem of the period their marvedous gifts in the Senate.

These certainly were giants then, and there are giants now. The present Congress combines as great and varied abilities as any Congress that ever assembled.

None evossentpassed it in grandeur of product of the problem of the private letters of Republicans, but in fairness he ought to enable us to see what terms he is on with his Democratic correspondents. - None ever-marpassed it in grandeur of None eventual sublimity: in noble devotion to a worthy cause. Nor is the assertion permissible only when speaking in the aggregate. Pennsylvania was never represented in the national capital by a more intellectual delegation than now. True, members can be particularized, who could casily be improved upon. As much could be still of any equal number of gentlemen who ever managed to obtain credentlass of members in. Wislams to the opposite shore.

Hon. J. K. Edgerton, of Fort Wayne, but the Wislams with the lass been elected President of the Grand ever managed to obtain cridentials of membership. Wisdom did not die with the fathers. Something of excessive veneration for the Past must be abated in justice to the Present.

Let, then, the republicans of the north and west consult their own welfare, and act in accordance with their manifest and undeniable rights. When the time for determinate action shall arrive, let the names terminate action shall arrive, let the names of all the gentlemen who may be thought specially worthy of the distinction be presented, and their claims considered. Then let the Senators and Representatives, enlightened by consultations with their respective constituencies, decide which name combines most elements of usefulness, and let them all stand by him in cancus. By this simmetring process all discrepancies of preference will speedily disappear. The points to be decided are, "Who constituencies, decide which name combines most elements of usefulness, and let them all stand by him in cancus. THE LAST INIQUITY.

An eminent lawyer once remarked that nothing was easier than to make a plausible argument in favor or against any proposition. Sophistry is, indeed, a potent weapon. Not unfrequently is it so tempered as "to make the worse appear the better reason."
