THE BEECHER LETTERS.

Statement of Horace Greeley.

NEW YORK, September 11.—The following statement, touching the recent Beecher letters, appears, over the full signature of Horace Greeley, in the morning's Tribune:

I was one of the many who early apprehended and anxiously deprecated a breach between Congress and the President. Soon after our late State election, and before the assembling of the present Congress, I went, not unasked, to Washington expressly to guard against such a difference. Being admitted to an interview with the President, I urged him to recall to Washington three of the most eminent and trusted expositors of Northern anti-slavery sentiment, and three equally eminent and representative Southern ex-rebels, and ask them to take up their residence at the White House for a week, a fortnight, or so long as they might find it necessary, while they, by free and friendly conference and discussion, should earnestly endeavor to find a common ground whereon the North and the South should be not merely reconciled, but made evermore cheerful and harmonious. I suggested the President should occasionally, as he could from time to time frame his plan, call in one friend (one to a party) to these conferences and offer such suggestions as he should deem fit, rather as a inquisitor or a common friend than as a party to the discussion. A suggestion of names being invited I proposed those of Governor Andrew, Massachusetts, Gerrit Smith, New York, and Judge R. P. Spalding, Ohio, as three who seemed to me fair representatives of the anti slavery sentiment of the North, while neither specially obnoxious to nor disposed to deal harshly with South, and I added that I hoped they would be met by men like Gen. Robert E. Lee, Alexander H. Stevens, &c., who would be recognized and heeded by the South as men in whose hands her honor and true interests would be safe. But I added that I had no specialists that they or any particular men should be elected, wishing only that both sections from either section should be such as to command their peoples confidence and support, and I pledged myself to support to the extent of my power any adjustment that should thus be matured and accepted again. Some two months later, after the meeting of Congress, and when the political sky had become darkened by wrath to which I was a target, the surface of a mutual friend that the President desired to see me. The Joint Committee on Reconstruction had then been appointed. At an interview promptly accorded, I urged the President to invite that committee to the White House and discuss with them from evening to evening as friends, all the phases of the question of reconstruction with a fixed resolve to find a basis of agreement if possible. I regret such consultation was not current in favor of the feasibility of such agreement it it were earnestly sought, as I feel sound he on the side of Congress, the vast patronage in the President's hands, the reluctance of the majority of Congress to see their friends, supporters and nominees expelled by wholesale from office, and their places supplied by bitter anti-slavery men, the natural anxiety of every party in power to maintain cordial relations with the head of the government chosen by its votes. These, and a thousand kindred considerations, rendered morally certain an agreement between Congress and the President, without a sacrifice of principles on either hand, if the latter should sincerely seek it. I speak only of what I said and professed, because I have no permission and no right to speak further. That my suggestions were not followed, nor any thing akin to them, the public sadly knows. And the conclusion to which I have been most reluctantly forced is that the President did not want harmony with Congress; that he had already made up his mind to break with the party which had elected him, and was at any hazard of the loss of power through the favor and support of its implacable enemies.

New York Democratic Convention—The Late Dean Richmond.

ALBANY, September 11.—At noon Treadwell Hall was crowded with delegates and spectators, the Hall and stage were beautifully decorated with flags. Soon after 12 o'clock, the Convention was called to order by Peter Cagger, Secretary of the State Committee, on whose motion, by instructions of the State Committee, Samford E. Church, of New Orleans, was chosen temporary Chairman. On being conducted to the Chair, Mr. Church made the usual assembly. In the course of his remarks he said:

Standing on the rock of the Constitution, and by the side of that noble patriot and statesman Andrew Johnson, (tremendous cheering, waving of hats &c.) Under the protection of the old flag, will it not a star dimmed or perilled—(Cheers)—and we shall enjoy all equal rights and protection for all; we cannot fail to agree with success to the people whose every interest is centered in the success of our cause. (Cheers.) The rolls of delegates were then called and is reported the several County delegations were full. From Schuyler and Richmond, there were double delegations divided between Democratic and Conservative Republicans. It was announced that the delegates had agreed among themselves how their votes were to be cast.

A. H. Green offered the following with brief remarks, unfeasible of the degree:

WHEREAS, Dean Richmond, an acknowledged leader of his party, and an eminent and patriotic citizen, has by the mysterious providence of God, been suddenly removed from among us, and it is fit that such a loss of a person be made of our grief for his loss and respect for his character; therefore,

Resolved, That the members of this Convention, and the great party which it represents, deeply and sincerely mourn the death of Dean Richmond, who seemed the personal friend at each of them, and best they will cherish a grateful remembrance of his life, character and services.

Resolved, That the great qualities of the lamented deceased, his sagacity as a public counsellor, his spirit, philanthropy and honor as a citizen, his worth as a man, his fidelity as a friend, his fervent patriotism and true attachment to the Constitution and the Union will deservedly secure for him the lasting memory and esteem of the whole people.

Resolved, That while the loss of such a man at any time be a source of public grief and solicitude, it is by the circumstances of the hour rendered still more affecting and, that the anxiety which even in the last hours and amid the premonitory pains of death, he expressed for the public good, calls upon us for increased exertions in the maintenance of that Constitution and Union whose cause he ever espoused.

Resolved, That the Convention tenders to the surviving members of his family the unanimous assurance of its deep and sincere sympathy in their affliction; and that the secretary be directed to transmit them copies of these resolutions properly engrossed, and that they cause them to be published in the Argus, and other papers of this State, which was the especial scene of his patriotic labors, are requested to publish the same.

On motion of Thomas B. Carroll, Samuel J. Tilden, of New York, was unanimously invited to address the Convention, on the subject of the resolutions.

Mr. Tilden appeared on the stage, electing loud applause, and spoke at considerable length upon the character of the deceased, and reviewing the great issues before the country, in which, he said, Mr. Richmond felt so deep an interest.

The resolution were adopted unanimously, the members rising to their feet.

The Convention took a recess till 4 P. M.

On the re-assembling of the Convention, Irs. Shaler, of Albany, moved that the Convention adjourn until ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

The question was put, and the President declared the motion carried.

Cheers were then called for and given for John T. Hoffman. Cheers were also given for Henry C. Murphy and for General Dix.

Considerable confusion followed, the delegates protesting that it was wrong to keep them here another day, when all the business might be done to-night.

Mr. Shaler being loudly called for took the stage, and addressed the audience briefly: He said he had been delegated by the Committee on Resolutions to inform the Convention that the Committee would not be prepared to report until to-morrow, and the being the case, he thought the Convention did a wise thing in adjourning over.

His remarks were received with warm approval, and at their close the delegates and spectators left the hall.

Thousands upon thousands of people arrived early to greet them, and over one hundred and fifty thousand spectators were gathered in the streets to welcome the President, which they did with demonstrations of great joy and prolonged cheering. They were escorted through some of the principal streets by the military and civil associations. Flags were everywhere thrown to the breeze, also devices of all kinds. The side walks were lined with persons of all sexes and ages, windows, door steps, portticoes, were thronged principally by ladies who waved their handkerchiefs to the passing exercionists. The President in an open carriage with Secretary Seward, Col. Colwell, and Capt. Sherry was kept busily engaged in bowing to the excited multitudes. It was indeed a gay time in Louisville, in which all the inhabitants seemed to participate. The streets having closed and all business suspended. The procession halted in front of the Court House and the visiting and invited guests were escorted to the balcony of Willard's Hotel directly opposite the stand was promptly advanced with flags, and a motion was quickly in view, with the words "Hail to the Chief." Crowds of ladies and gentlemen were on the stand and balcony, presenting a gay and animated scene, while the streets were densely crowded. Hon. The schools in Stevenson, Alabama, have been continued through the whole summer. They have been undisturbed and done well. The schools in Huntsville and Nashville, together with the Normal classes will be re-established in a few days. Urgent application for teachers and the opening of schools have been received from Shelbyville in Texas, and from the Superintendents of Education in Mississippi and Alabama. Gen. Fisk writes: "There are excellent openings for planter schools. To meet these applications and carry on our work, additional funds are much needed.

From every direction there comes to us the same earnest and reliable appeals from the superintendents of the schools, and the same in regard to the assistance. Can we, in passing by the cry of these poor people, ready to perish for lack of knowledge? Let every one of us act promptly. Let us this month, if it ceases not the schools to commence and be in full work in our several localities. Further subscriptions will be gladly received.

JOS. S. TRAVELL,
General Agent, 37 Fifth St.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 12, 1866.

P. S.—In a letter received from Huntsville, Alabama, from our superintendent, Mr. Mitchell, since the above was written, he says: "We cannot move forward our normal classes. Several of the members of the normal classes of last year have been cut benching little schools this summer." The crops in the cotton States of the country are almost a total failure, and if nations are withdrawn it by famine thousands must starve to death. A severe year a season of this size so dull. Our thoughts has almost turned everything up. Even in trade and people seem lifeless and listless."

A Wife Beater.—Adam Miller was before Alderman Lynch yesterday for beating his wife, Annie Miller. The matter was amicably adjusted by Annie withdrawing the charge and paying the costs, while Adam gave a solemn assurance never to repeat the offence.

Coming.—We are informed that Hon. Galusha A. Grow will visit this city on Tuesday, September 25th, and will deliver an address on that evening at City Hall.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

TUESDAY, September 11, 1866.

The New York stock quotations to-day were as follows: Gold, 146@146⅝; 1881s, 111; Five Twenties, old, 109⅝; do, new, 108½; Tenforties, large, 98⅝; do small, do. Seven Thirties, 1st series, 105⅝@106; 2nd and 3rd series, 105⅛@106 for large, and 105⅞ for small lots; Michigan Southern 85⅛; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 85; Fort Wayne, 101⅛; Erie, 70⅝; Western Union Telegraph Co., 58⅜; Chicago & Rock Island, 96; Chicago & North Western common, 35⅜; do preferred, 68⅝.

It is now apparent that government securities, even under the clique manipulations, cannot be forced up ad libitum, though even at a higher premium, they would pay six per cent. interest. Railroad stocks find their limit when the earnings of the roads declined and government bonds must decline when political troubles are apprehended.

—The Philadelphia Press says:

The fall trade is gradually developing itself in full strength, the present indications being that it will even surpass general expectations. Buyers are coming forward from the west and south quite rapidly, and it is noticed that their purchases are on a very liberal scale. The chief activity, so far, has mostly shown itself in the dry goods department. There is however, an average trade expected in every branch of our industry. The dry goods men appear to be jubilant with their prospects, and we heartily hope their expectations will be fully realized. Stocks in the interior are usually represented to be exhausted, or somewhat so, and further calls for the sale of new products is looked upon as ridiculous. As a rule, short time and cash are all that is proposed to purchasers, though some will come from a distance would like the old terms. The week on hand is fair and the quality is very satisfactory. From the best information at command, we are inclined to think that the business season which has opened will continue longer than usual. Many who wish to purchase cannot do so before they buy. Retrenchment the fall season and these cannot be ostimated at once. Those who purchase now do so under the belief that the operations the early fall season will be enabling them to purchase more liberally at a later period, and hence will distribute the season over a longer term.

—The depression in the price of governm nt securities within the last few days is attributed to the reduction of the rate of discount by the Bank of England to 4 per cent. When the rate advanced to 10 per cent. a few months ago, it was considered a good reason for the decline in the price of United States 5-20s in the London market, for the reason that the advance in the rate indicated a great scarcity of money. As the present low rate of interest is 10 per cent. less than Great Britain and France pay, it is argued that the present rate must fall from the pressure to loan money, and consequently that securities should not stock prices a fraction, and be followed by the prices of United States 5-20s. Whether this reasoning is correct or not, the decline of the past few days is a fact.

—The Chicago Evening Journal, of Monday, reports money matters in that city, as follows:

Notwithstanding the falling form of all commercial circles opens active, and generally of a satisfactory character to all concerned. There is a good supply of money in the market and the Banks are in close accordance with the wants of their customers. At the same time they refuse to discount anything except strictly first-class "gilt edge" paper. A prominent banker, in the course of a few remarks to us, to-day, said, "The money market is just as easy as it can be, for the class of paper it will discount. Banks refuse to discount anything but first-class paper, and only to parties not considered strictly first-class. For the regular customers of the Bank the rate of interest is 10 per cent. but on Street loans and 1 per cent per month is freely paid.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, Sept. 11, 1866.

There is really not much to say to-day in regard to the produce market. The receipts of Wheat and Flour are again increasing, and while the market is dull and somewhat depressed, prices are without any material variance to correspond with the upward movement in the West. The general impression seems to be that there will be a rise in wheat and possibly a panic, and that, too, before long, and operations are stopping at this. We hear of no appreciable of "bulges in wheat" in Philadelphia or elsewhere, and, therefore, we are of the opinion that none of these lines will be unable to decline it. Any heavy declines, however, will be remembered, snagged and sunk some days since.

The Van Buren, Capt. Sowland, is announced to leave for New Orleans and all intermediate points to-day without fail, and passengers and shippers should bear this fact in mind.

The Importer was advertised to leave Cincinnati for Pittsburgh, on Monday, the present trip from St. Louis to Cincinnati she lost one of her deck hands, by cancers. Geo. Shortz was his name, and he was a resident of Covington, Ky. A man named Thomas A. Walk, is also on the Importer on the roll list, of consumption, the was a resident of Madison Station, Tennessee.

says the Cincinnati Commercial, of Monday:

Mr. Geo. L. Johnston, of the steamboat agency Brainard street, Cleveland, returned from Rivergeddon tour yesterday, in most excellent health and spirits. The new and fine Pike arrived from Pittsburgh on Saturday with a company of novel barges in tow, destined for the grain trade between Toledo and Buffalo, being to Cook, Sherriff.

Mr. Johnston will be here for further instructions relative to the shaking of the grain trade. Capt. Cook, of the Pike, met with the accident to the Argus, reported in Sunday's Commercial. We are pleased to say, we published in Sunday's Commercial.

THE NEW
Spring and Summer Medicine.

FLUID EXTRACT
SARSAPARILLA,
COMBINED WITH
Iodide of Lime, PREPARED FOR
G. W. PETTES, BOSTON,
BY
James R. Nichols & Co.,
MANUFACTURING CHEMISTS,
MANUFACTURERS OF THE
ELIXIR PERUVIAN BARK WITH Protoxide of Iron,
Which has become so favorably known as a
Tonic and Restorative,
By Physicians and Invalids in all parts of the country.

The new preparation, "SARSAPARILLA IN A COMBINATION WITH IODIDE OF LIME," presents one of the most prominent alterative agents in a form capable of exerting its action upon the system, and this it does in a most satisfactory manner. It is conceded that the alterative, resolvent, or tonic effects of Iodine, are exerted most decidedly when administered with other agents, in combination, and the Sarsaparilla seems to hold perfectly all the favorable requisitions.

The first effect usually observed when "SARSAPARILLA WITH IODIDE OF LIME," is taken is an increase of appetite, showing that it has tonic properties of a marked character. Its alterative effects are manifest in their ady combination with the blood and skin, and in a short time a woman's or children's improve rapidly under its use, and the vital functions assume a healthy condition.

It is admirably adapted to a large number of chronic or acute affections, especially those of a scrofulous character, and is particularly well suited to them, both by its mildness and efficiency of action in effect and the pleasant, attractive form in which it is presented. It may be given for a long period without fear of producing any injurious effects, and where constitutional derangement, or disinclination to take it, is encountered. In White-swellings, Hip-joint Disease, and Distortion of the Spine, it should be given persistently, in moderate doses, until relief is obtained.

In the Spring of the Year, and during the Warm Weather,

The accumulation of morbid matters in the system seems to become manifest and very prevalent. Lassitude, Headache, Boils, Tumors, Loss of Appetite, Pains in the Joints, Indigestion, etc., are very frequent. Every one should at this season adopt some effectual remedy or course of these affections. We recommend a course of SARSAPARILLA WITH IODIDE OF LIME.

As a preparation like it, or which approximates to it, is not on has ever before been placed within the reach of humanity. Indeed, it is an entirely NEW and scientific combination in no respect resembling anything hitherto employed.

The opinion of medical men concerning it, the description of its peculiar character, therapeutic value, manner of use, etc., are given in a circular, which can be had at the store of any and all druggists throughout the country.

RIVER NEWS.

The river has been about stationary at this point during the twenty-four hours ending last evening, with five feet three or four inches in the channel by the marks. It is possible that the recent rains may cause another swell. Telegrams from Oil City report rains, and another rise in the Allegheny is generally predicted. The weather continues cloudy and warm, with frequent showers of rain.

The Keystone, from Rochester, where she has been laid up for some time waiting for water, is the only arrival we have to record. She had a fair trip, but to-day some two hundred tons of pig metal for R. C. Loomis.

Business, comparatively speaking, was more active than usual yesterday, though there is still plenty of room for improvement. There is considerable freight offering for St. Louis, and by to-day we have no doubt the Kate Putnam will have all she can possibly take on the water. The Ben Lewis and Parkersburg packets appear to doing a fair losine although we are of the opinion that none of these lines will be able to decline it. Any heavy declines, however, will be remembered, snagged and sunk some days since.

The Van Buren, Capt. Sowland, is announced to leave for New Orleans and all intermediate points to-day without fail, and passengers and shippers should bear this fact in mind.

The Importer was advertised to leave Cincinnati for Pittsburgh, on Monday, the present trip from St. Louis to Cincinnati she lost one of her deck hands, by cancers. Geo. Shortz was his name, and he was a resident of Covington, Ky. A man named Thomas A. Walk, is also on the Importer on the roll list, of consumption, the was a resident of Madison Station, Tennessee.

says the Cincinnati Commercial, of Monday:

Mr. Geo. L. Johnston, of the steamboat agency Brainard street, Cleveland, returned from Rivergeddon tour yesterday, in most excellent health and spirits. The new and fine Pike arrived from Pittsburgh on Saturday with a company of novel barges in tow, destined for the grain trade between Toledo and Buffalo, being to Cook, Sherriff.

Mr. Johnston will be here for further instructions relative to the shaking of the grain trade. Capt. Cook, of the Pike, met with the accident to the Argus, reported in Sunday's Commercial. We are pleased to say, we published in Sunday's Commercial.
