WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1867.

OWING to the extraordinary pressure upon our advertising columns to-day, we are forced to crowd out other editorial and reading matter. A second enlargement of the GAZETTE daily grows more imperative.

THE TARIFF—THE CURRENCY.

Whenever it becomes necessary to raise the tariff of import duties so as to protect domestic industry from ruinous foreign competition, the opponents of that policy denounce it as "a scheme to make the rich richer, and the poor poorer." They do not attempt to show this to be true, either by an analysis of principles or a comparison of results. It is much easier to trust to heated declamation.

In 1861 Florida decidedly protective in its features was enacted, at that time the cotton growing classes of the country were mainly struggling under burdens of indebtedness. The farming interest was specially depressed. The larger part of the farmers, taking the country through, were in debt. At the West a majority of them were plastered over with judgments and mortgages, and in a vast number of instances the estates could not be sold for enough to discharge the encumbrances. Even in many portions of the East, the actual rate of interest was running at from ten to fifteen per cent. With the mechanical interest the situation was little if any more comfortable. Manufactures took an unprecedented start. New buildings, new machinery, more coal, iron and wool, more of everything requisite to manufacturing, was called for. Thousands who had been endeavoring to eke out a subsistence by agriculture, were drawn therefrom into public remunerative employments. The number of persons engaged in gainful occupations was largely increased in every enumerated item, the numbers employed in other pursuits. Farm products increased in market value, by reason of the new demand.

Undoubtedly the manufacturers made money, and became rich. Is that a matter of complaint? Does any one desire to have everybody reduced to poverty, and kept in that condition? The larger the proportion of citizens who become wealthy, or at least comfortable, the better. But the manufacturers are not the only class that made extraordinary gains. Merchants, bankers, speculators, miners, stockholders in railroads, accumulated gains altogether beyond precedent. The farmers reaped their full share of the harvest. Any of them who possessed industry, good habits, and good sense, got out of debt, and increased materially in assets. The man who did not make money rapidly during the four or five following years, has nobody to censure but himself. Never before were such opportunities presented to men in this country to acquire wealth, and many years will elapse before an equally propitious occasion shall be again presented.

We take it for granted, therefore, that, as a class, the manufacturers are rich, at least such of them as had prudence sufficient to suspend operations when losses became inevitable. This is certainly true of manufacturers who have been some years in business. Those who have newly started, paying inflated prices for lands, building materials, mechanical labor, machinery, and the like, are in a different category. We cannot be far from the mark in saying that most of the old manufacturers will be well enough off, even if forced to sacrifice a considerable portion of their fixed investments in business, as buildings and facilities. So far as they are personally concerned it is of comparatively small consequence whether a proper tariff bill shall be passed or not. Under such a bill they would, indeed, go ahead and make more money; but they have already a sufficiency. If they are wise enough to remain idle until public sentiment constrains the adoption of such a scale of import duties as the emergency calls for, they cannot be seriously damaged.

The workmen are not in this condition. Wages never made a man rich, and never will. If an individual lacks any of the qualities essential to the wise management of business on his own account, he is necessarily condemned to fill a subordinate position. His misfortune is attributable either to nature or training, or both, and it is idle to attempt to fix the blame on the laws or his more competent neighbors.

If the manufacturers, who are charged with being rich, and increased in goods, do not find it for their interest to resume business, what are the workmen to do? What are the mechanics to do who have been engaged for years past in building up the manufacturing towns? The last resort of all men, who mean to work, is the soil. If, therefore, the manufactories remain closed, the tens of thousands who have plied their busy occupations therein; the other tens of thousands outside whose labor has contributed raw material, as coal, iron ore, lime, copper ore, wool, and the like; and the mechanics who have built houses, boats, cars and what-not, to supply the demands of the manufacturers, must be forced to growing grain, cattle, vegetables and fruits! The farmers must experience both a lessened market and increased competition. Five years of the system, the greater part of the Western agriculturists are endeavoring to have established, would strip them of their prosperity, and plunge them even into the embarrassments that buffeted them five years ago.

Nothing in the way of business can be more insane than the Western clamor for more wild cat banks and irredeemable currency, yet higher prices for wheat, corn, cattle and hogs, and lower prices for manufactured goods. A general collapse, that shall sweep the whole country with the violence of a tornado, is all that such a policy is adapted to superinduce.

Nor are many of the manufacturers a whit more rational. They want higher duties and more paper money. As if wages in the race of expansion would not outrun the inflation of the currency! They overlook the causes by which the tariff of 1861 became inoperate for protection in most departments of enterprise. The excise duties and the advance in wages more than used up all the margin between the impost duties and the cost of production abroad. Hence came diminishing profits, and afterwards absolute deficits. If labor could be crowded down to the rates that existed in 1861, most branches of manufacturing would get on well enough. Why cannot wages be reduced? Mainly because of the mass of irredeemable paper money that fills and overflows all the channels of circulation.

Nor are they much wiser who insist upon keeping the volume of the currency where it is. That cannot be done. The present financial condition is abnormal, and cannot last. Like all other abnormal states, the best thing to be done with it is to get out of it as soon as practicable. An abnormalist was once looking at the broad and shallow Susquehanna. He failed to detect its utility for drainage, but thought it would be an excellent thing to have freshets last all the year round, so as to promote navigation. It was useless to depict to him the consequence of so much water on the contiguous territory as would be requisite to keep the stream brimming. His thoughts were absorbed in the possibility of running boats. That man was a fair type of the currency inflationists. The waters of the Susquehanna, in obedience to inevitable law, will shrink to shallowness, and the currency of the country, under a law equally absolute, will work back to a normal basis. If not allowed to subside gradually, a contingency will arise in which it will go back on a run.

POOR HISTORY. William Tell has just been displaced from its pages by Gould, an English Partonian writer, and is made a fabulous individual who figured in early fiction—never having, in reality, shot an arrow or fought a fight for freedom. Gentlemen, please permit us to retain our cherished ideas of Washington.

THE FENIANS throughout the country are greatly excited over the news from the old country, and knowingly claim that the truth has not reached us as to the extent of the revolt. A raid upon Canada is seriously contemplated, and we may expect soon to have startling news from that quarter.

THE spring trade of Boston has set in quite lively, and buyers are there from all sections of the country. The good times now enjoyed by the merchants of the "Hub" will soon reach other commercial cities, and no danger of a business panic need be anticipated at an early date.

THE Cincinnati Germans are to open an operatic season there shortly. The singers are all members of a singing club of that city, and are said to be far superior to the traveling troupes which create such a furore in fashionable circles wherever they make their appearance.

THE Board of Underwriters of New York recommend to the National Board which meets to-day, to adopt the Hamburg principle on insurance policies, that is, requiring all parties on whose premises fires occur, to sustain one-fourth of any loss.

ALEXANDER DALLAS BACHE, L.L.D., died at Newport, R. I., recently. He was a great grand son of Dr. Franklin, the printer and philosopher. As an author, scholar and philosopher, Professor Bache had few equals in this country.

THE 15th proximo, will be the centennial anniversary of Andrew Jackson's birthday. It is proposed by the Democracy to celebrate it in a fitting manner.

—A Mr. Nichols, of Lucinda, Missouri, last week righted his house, paid all his debts, settled his business and, without any assigned cause for his conduct, shot and killed his wife who called at the residence of his married son, shooting both his little boys, aged nine and eleven years, killing one immediately, and wounding the other fatally it is thought. After which he returned home and ended the bloody tragedy by shooting himself.

READ THE CERTIFICATE OF Rev. R. T. FLUALIN.

TO DR. HOSETTER:

Dear Sir—This is to certify that I was taken with the dyspepsia a year ago last March, and, for a period of eight months, was one of the most miserable creatures you ever beheld, not being able either to eat, drink, or sleep. And I was compelled to walk the floor incessantly. I was nearly deprived of my reason, and have not entirely left me, all the efforts made for my recovery having proved fruitless.

By the first of November, 1865, I had become so weak and feeble that I could scarcely stand alone, and, to all appearance, would soon die. At this time hearing read your advertisement, my wife persuaded upon me to try your Bitters. A bottle was procured, and, strange to say, I soon commenced recovering. I have taken four bottles, and am enjoying as good health now as could be expected for one of my age (about sixty years). I have no doubt that it was your Bitters alone, under Divine Providence, that effected this wonderful cure.

R. T. FLUALIN.

CLIMAX.
A plain statement of facts. Inherited Scrofula, and many of my relations have died of it. In my own case was frightful. Tumors and ulcers spread until I lost, under the advice of my physicians I went to Avon Springs. I received no benefit. I tried every medicine and did everything I could. I had to prop my arm on a cushion, and had not been able to raise it to my head for over a year. The discharge from two ulcers was nearly a pint a day. Amputation was recommended, but pronounced dangerous. I could not sleep, and my sufferings were intolerable. A friend brought me an English physician who applied a salve with which he said he had accomplished extraordinary cures in the hospitals in England. It commenced to relieve. I persisted in its use. It finally effected a perfect and entire cure. It is now three years since I had the appearance of a scrofula sore, and my health has been good ever since. I pronounce the recipe of this wonderful article—this blessing of humanity—and have called it "Perry's CLIMAX SALVE," and allow the public to call it or not as they choose. This is a brief but candid statement, given more fully in my circular.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16, 1865.
"I have known J. M. Page, Esq., of Geneva, N. Y., for many years. He is one of the first citizens of Western New York. I saw him last week in good health. He has a new article for sale, called 'Perry's CLIMAX SALVE,' and allow the public to call it or not as they choose. This is a brief but candid statement, given more fully in my circular.
(Signed,) DEWITT BARNES."

We will furnish a dozen boxes for any case of failure. We believe it to be the most valuable, likely in the world. It is put up in tin boxes, surrounded by a full circular giving facts, directions, testimonials, &c., and can be sent by mail or express to any part of the country. Price one dollar per box.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND PHŒNIX BITTERS
Were first used in private practice in 1825. They were introduced to the public in 1828, since which time their reputation has extended, until they have a sale in excess of all other cathartic and Purifying Medicines. There is hardly a family among civilized nations who have not personal evidence of their beneficial effects. Their great success is owing to their uniform certainty in correcting all disorders and diseases of the stomach, whether of long or short duration. They are entirely vegetable in their composition, and perfectly innocent, and may be taken by the most delicate of the parts of the skin, whether in infancy, childhood or old age. They are the best known remedy for Costiveness, Biliousness and Stomachic disorders
