After a short time a general discussion, some being taken a most interesting part of the meeting, viewing the future prospects of the lively little meeting, the members of the league, as one of the emerging signs of the times, and the present position of the temperance cause, was held.

A Brandon Warden, who had been employed by the league, spoke at length, and was followed by a speaker from New York, who gave a full report of the league's work in that city.
