Novelties in Medicine.
The great reason why the medical has no edy, now more of cure, or new plan o treatment, always] meets with such a hu-and cry of opposition by the regular profestreatment, always meets with such a hund and ory of opposition by the regular profession, as few mon are able or willing to with stand. This should not be so. In true science, everything ought to be made available that, is meful; and the investigation of disease and its ameliorative is surely one of the noblest pursuits of mankind; and which, if prosecuted with honest aims, should evoke the gratuations of all who he human race.

We have been led to these remarks by the We have been led to these remarks by the perusal of a work on Urino-Pathology, by Dr. O. O. Subsuce, who, for twenty years, has been investigating the subject of Urinary Deposits and Secretions—not out of curiosity merely, but with the more laudable view of making the application of this knowledge useful in ameliorating the sufferings of mankind.
