The Preshyterian Agreement.

The joint committee appointed by the two General Assemblies of the Preshyterian Church, Old School and New School, has after a session of one wock, definitely agreed upon terms of rounlon with remarkable innaminity. Such an amouncement as this ought to gladden the hearts of all really Christian men who destro to see some of the innumerable and distressing sectarian divisions' barmoniously overcome, and all visions' before the churches for a year before insia action, and three fourths of the Preshyteries will have to ratify them to make I the agreement valid. Said there has been insia action, and the part of the I way about doctrinal points; so that we confidently articipate the consummation of the union. Here in Philadelphia, which ways been the band of states, we shall most heartiful application of a transmin transmin to the order of the union.
