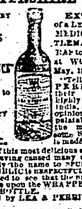
LEA & PERRINS'

CELEBRATED

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE

PRONOUNCED BY CONNOISSEURS TO BE THE "ONLY GOOD SAUCE" AND APPLICABLE TO EVERY VARIETY OF DISH.



EXTRACT of a LETTER from a MEDICAL GENTLEMAN at MADRAS to his Brother at WORCESTER.

"I tell LEA & PERRINS that their SAUCE is highly esteemed in India, and is in my opinion, the most palatable as well as wholesome SAUCE that is made."

The success of this most delicious and nutritious condiment having caused numerous unprincipled dealers to apply the names LEA & PERRINS, and WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE, to their own compounds, the Public is hereby informed that the name of LEA & PERRINS is on every bottle, Label, Stopper and Bottle. Manufactured by LEA & PERRINS, Worcester.

The Pittsburgh Gazette

THE COURTS.

Court of Quarter Sessions.

[Extra sheet.]

This Court met Thursday at ten o'clock, Hon. Thomas Mellon on the Bench, Col. L. B. Duff, District Attorney.

CRY OUT AT ALL RIGHT.

The jury in the case of J. B. Harshaw, C. E. Harshaw and W. H. Bowman, indictment aggravated assault and battery on Henry Bousher, remained out all night, and not having agreed upon a verdict, standing eleven against one, came into Court and asked instructions. There was some difference of opinion as to the propriety of convicting all of the defendants, the jury desiring to know what amount of participation in the assault was necessary to be shown in order to enable them to do so. Having been "instructed," the jury again retired, and in about three hours returned with a verdict of "not guilty," as to J. B. Harshaw, and finding C. E. Harshaw and W. H. Bowman guilty of assault and battery, recommending them to the mercy of the Court.

CONSTABLE INJECTED.

John Sisler, constable of Reserve township, was indicted for an assault and battery on Margaret Seidel, alleged to have been committed whilst the defendant was at the house of the prosecutrix making an arrest under an execution, in accordance with his duty as an officer. Verdict not guilty, prosecutrix to pay the costs.

FEROCIOUS DOG.

The next case was one of humanity, involving the character of a dog. Patrick McNally was the defendant, and it was alleged that he kept or owned a ferocious dog. A. H. Rowand, residing in Allegheny, the prosecutor, testified that defendant kept a sort of bull dog, not very small; something over a year ago a son of witness was bitten by the dog very severely, requiring medical attendance; the dog was sent to the country, and in March last was brought back; soon after a fight took place between defendant's dog "Dash" and a dog belonging to a son of witness. In April defendant informed the son of witness to look out for himself, as he (defendant) was going to let "Dash" loose, having previously had him tied up. It was in consequence of this statement that Mr. Rowand, dreading retaliation against the dog, prosecuted McNally! It appeared that the dog "Dash" had a spite against Rowand's boy, and knew him well. On cross-examination Mr. Rowand stated it was "never a pear" since the dog bit his boy; would not swear positively that it was not "two years ago."

Arthur Rowand, son of the prosecutor, testified that he saw the dog; the dog bit him; not know how long ago, about two years he supposed, but the dog came out to him as he was going up street; that he picked up a stone, when the dog ran back; that the dog came out again, and Mahood, calling for a mortar box, was bitten by him. In March last the dog again faced him. Defendant keeps a store five doors from Mr. Rowand's house, on Sandusky street, and the dog was usually kept tied in a stable. On cross-examination young Rowand admitted that he had teased the dog, and persuaded by other boys had pulled out his tail. The dog is Scht Mahlby's and a regular fight took place on the 31st of April last, after which Mahlby offered to bet $100 his dog could whip, but the wager was not accepted. A number of witnesses for the defence testified to the character of the dog for peace and quietness. Verdict not guilty, defendant to pay two-thirds and the prosecutor one-third the costs.

UNSOUND MEAT CASE.

Henry Hershauser alias Dutch Henry, butcher or stockholder, was arraigned upon an indictment, drawn under the seventy-seventh section of the Penal Code, charging him with selling the flesh of diseased hogs and cattle, alleged to have been purchased at the stock yards.

Caleb Martin testified—Resided at East Liberty; am employed by the defendant; the defendant is in the stock business; have been now buying hogs, cattle and sheep; have seen him buying crippled cattle and hogs, taken from the cars, and from stock that are not crippled; bought the stock and took it away; could not say that he disposed of it; could not say that he bought diseased stock; he would not call crippled or lame hogs, hogs giving out from travel, or such having protrusion of the bowels, diseased hogs—Have been at the stock yards for two years, having general charge of defendant's business; could not say that hogs they cut were diseased, as he did not see them butchered. Cattle, hogs and sheep were in the cars, were trampled and bruised, and sometimes were crippled; but could not say they were diseased. The defendant manufactures grease, has a factory for the purpose, and in the purchase of this business the defendant has bought dogs and cattle. To a Court—Hogs passed through said to have had the "cholera," but none of them were sold, except perhaps to those who bought "dead stock."

Wm. Deems testified—Knew the defendant; had seen him buying crippled stock, but could not say it was diseased; he also bought dead stock. He is a butchering and slaughter house; also has a grease factory. Could not say what defendant did with the "crippled stock" purchased by him. Stock crippled in the cars, and in unloading, are sold as such, although they might be sound, as it is known how, for butchering purposes.

George R. Tomer testified—Work in the stock yards; know defendant; was never in his employ. Testimony the same as the former witnesses. The term "crippled stock" is applied to all (not dead) that cannot move about.

Henry Conner testified—Defendant bought crippled stock, and good stock, frequently; took it away, but witness knew nothing further. Defendant was a large buyer during last winter.

Wm. Woolslayer testified—Bricklaying is my principal business during the summer, and will hogs in the winter, never was in the employ of the defendant; never was in his slaughter house; have seen him hauling dead stock to his back or factory; have seen crippled hogs, the meat of which he would not like to eat; had bought crippled hogs that were as good as any others; did not know where defendant sold his stock.

Cross-examined—Defendant has resided in East Liberty for three or four years; do not know how his buying and shipping amounts.

David Tomer testified—Live at East Liberty; had been working at the stock yards for two or three years, up until a month or two; stock there have been doing business; have been in the employ of the defendant's employ; had been at his slaughter house, but never when there was any slaughtering; never saw any cripples animals there. Other testimony same as previous witnesses. Cross-examined—Defendant has an establishment on the Frankstown road, for Mr. Kelly's place, where also manufactures grease from dead animals.

Samuel Holmes testified—Employed at the stock yards; had seen defendant buying sound, crippled and dead stock. Knew nothing further.

James M'Cracken testified—Work at blacksmithing at East Liberty; defendant buys all sorts of stock; he is a large stock dealer; saw him on one occasion buy one thousand sheep; also saw him buy car loads of hogs. Know nothing further.

Harry Wilde testified—Live at East Liberty; know defendant; know of his buying dead stock; do not know of his buying any other—am not much about the stock yards; never was at defendant's slaughter-house.

Abraham Lucy testified—Am a carpenter; reside at Hopewood Station; know defendant; would term him a general stock dealer; have passed his slaughter-house, but never was in; never saw any cripples; have weighed fat and stock cattle for him. George Levine testified—Am a butcher; was man at the stock yards; never saw defendant buy, or sell, or ship dead stock.

Jacob Kuntz testified—Am a butcher in the North ward of the city; know defendant; the wholesale hog butchers have purchased dressed meat from him into Spring
