FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, August 12, 1867

The New York stock quotations to-day, as reported by Mr. P. R. Mertz, were as follows:

Gold, 147½; Eighty-cent bonds, 111¾; Five Twenties, 1862, 113½; Five Twenties, 1864, 110¾; Five Twenties, 1865, 110¾; Consols 1867, 93¾; Seven Thirties, 107⅝@107⅞; Ten Forties, 103¾. Stocks—Erie Railroad, 70; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 94; Chicago and Rock Island, 107½; Chicago and Northwestern, 66¾; Chicago and Northwestern preferred, 86¾; Fort Wayne Railroad, 105¾; Michigan Southern Railroad, 91; New York Central, 194½; Reading, 104¾; Western Union Telegraph Company, 40¾; Ohio and Mississippi, 27½; Mining shares—Corydon, 1.10@1.15; Gregory, 4.30; Quartz Hill, 1.20; Smith & Parsmalee, 5.00; Quicksilver, 21¾.

Gold higher and the market excited, in consequence of the proposed changes in the Cabinet. Bonds are lower and Railroad shares weak, without any decided turn in the market. Miscellaneous shares are dull. Government gold-bearing bonds are firmer for 1881, 6-20's of 1862 and 1865; the balance of the list is lower, especially 10-40's and 7-30's of '65 and 5s issue. Mining shares steady with a better feeling.

The following statement exhibits the business of the Pittsburgh Clearing House, for the week ending Saturday, August 10th:

For about two years it has been rare thing to hear anything said about oil stocks or oil companies, and our people, generally, and with good reason, too, have come to the conclusion that hereafter they will examine a little more closely before putting their means into an organization of this kind. During the great excitement which prevailed some years since, when oil stocks and oil companies were the main centres of attraction, and general theme of conversation, and when fortunes were sometimes made in a day, people were reckless enough almost anything in the shape of a certificate, providing there was some show for sending name printed on it; and it has since turned out that many of them lost almost everything they had in the world. At that time there were some meritorious oil companies in existence; but the great majority of them were almost worthless and, intrinsically, had the truth been known, the stock was not worth the paper it was printed on. Many of these companies have been swept out of existence—the property of a great number of them having been seized and sold by the sheriff for a mere song.

The "STUMPS OIL COMPANY" is just now attracting considerable attention, and it is justly entitled to all the consideration it is receiving. Of the reliability and prosperity of this company, the 32 per cent. in dividends within the last three months give ample evidence, besides having money enough in the Treasury to make another dividend of five per cent., and a considerable amount of oil unsold. The "Triumph," as we had occasion to note the other day, is receiving about five hundred barrels of oil per day, yielding a very handsome income, and it needs but little now as though the old stockholders will soon have all their money back in dividends, and they will then have the stock for nothing. The officers and managers of this Company are gentlemen of integrity and experience—men who see that the affairs of the Company are conducted honestly and intelligently, as well as with a view to economy; and the stock is mostly in the hands of parties who bought as an investment and not to manipulate.

—The progress made in funding the National debt during the past year makes it certain that in August 1868 nothing will be outstanding, calling for gold, but the United States notes and fractional currency. The clamor of the fractionists, that the customs and the internal revenue will fall under contraction of the currency to points where the interest on the debt and ordinary expenses cannot be met, is without substantial foundation, as each recurring debt statement shows, and as future returns will show in a more marked degree, if any fair amount of success attends the collection of the whisky tax, now stolen by dishonest Treasury officials and distillers. The Treasury has now at its command more than six months expenses of all kinds, and the people have assured to them a bountiful harvest, which gives them the means of exchanging largely of imported goods and domestic manufactures. It is within the control of the Secretary to restore the national finances in order, and at the same time return steadily and rapidly to a specie currency.

—The recent English circulars allude to the American trade in British textile fabrics in a very despondent tone, and it is evident that the excessive shipments of last year will not be renewed this season. This ought to give an opportunity for some profit in this branch of business, but says the New York Journal of Commerce, last year was a very trying one to the importers of British dry goods, and the extreme mass of fabrics thus landed averaged in the return far less than invoiced cost. When such a large surplus of capital, the shippers on the other side are not likely to repeat this experiment to the same extent, and this must be more favorable to the trade. The same paper adds:

"Last year the business of New York in this branch began about the middle of August, and the indications are that it will not be much sooner delayed this season. There will, of course, be much less early pressure to sell, owing to the falling off in receipts and diminished stock; but the legitimate effect of this would be an extra eagerness in the demand, so that the trade ought to be equally brisk, the first reasons in this case coming down from the buyer instead of the importer."

There is generally a little more movement in trade circles, a little more disposition on the part of the country trade to operate. The bountiful harvests all over the country cannot fail to impart a new energy to industry, and the prospects of a good fall and winter trade are favorable. Perhaps, says the Philadelphia North American, in this connection, the chief obstacle to a speedy return of activity consists in the general and exaggerated idea relative to a decline in prices. Consumers everywhere hesitate to make purchases in consequence of the expectation of a crash in the market. We do look, however, for a reduction of prices in several branches of trade, but not to any very considerable extent.

—The expect demand for gold is regarded as a source, and the actual wants of the market are confined to purchases of about half a million per day for custom duties. The sales from the Treasury are supposed to be about as much. The estimate for the month at all the ports of the country promise to reach fifteen to sixteen millions, which, at the ruling premium, will yield from $21,000,000 to $22,000,000 currency received by the Treasury, in the absence of any demand to pay gold interest. In addition to these sales, the Secretary would not object to assistance, in gold, the old 6 per cents of the United States of 1867-8, due on the 1st of September, and 20th of November, 1868, amounting together to $14,822,000, at a fair advance, say 10@5 per cent. from the face of the bonds. He has gold enough on hand belonging to the Government to do this and still hold a reserve equal to eight months' gold interest on the public debt. He anticipates a material reduction of currency balances in the course of the present month, but until this occurs and while the foreign exchanges are ruling ½@2¾ per cent. below the gold standard by reason of the anxiety to employ foreign balances in the New York money market, he will probably not sell gold very freely merely to relieve the speculations short in the gold room. The present trade demand is another affair, and he is by no means indisposed to accommodate it to the full extent of his receipts.—Philadelphia Ledger.
