FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE FOR PRACTICALLY APPRAISERS, 1

The gold market remained stationary in August, declining to 1850, and closed at 1840. The demand for securities was active, mostly from the large American firms in London, from 1850 to 1850, and in August, the price of gold was 1840.

The gold bonds at the London Stock Exchange were especially from the numerous firms in London, and the amount of gold brought out of the country by the merchants of London, cut the amount of gold which would be sold to the English firms.
