CITY AND SUBURBAN.

The Death of Mr. Charles Ebbert.

The Committee appointed at the regular meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association, held at their rooms on the 26th ult., to draft resolutions expressive of the feelings of the members of the Association on the death of Mr. Charles Ebbert, submit the following:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God, in His wise providence, to remove from our midst our beloved friend and brother, Charles Ebbert, therefore,

Resolved, That we the members of the Young Men's Christian Association, in recognizing the hand of Him "wise doeth all things well," and bowing submissively to His decree, will feel his death to be our loss but his gain; and

Resolved, That with pleasure we remember his many virtues and his Christian influence, which was exerted upon all those with whom he associated; and

Resolved, That while we sympathize with his family in this, their hour of deep affliction, we also rejoice with them in the assurance that he is safe at home, "where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest."

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered in the minutes of the Association, and a copy of the same sent to the family of deceased.

Apropos of Lyttleton and of his bad pun, which has lately been the subject of a paragraph which has gone the rounds of the papers, we may mention that Lord Derby writes a very neat but singular running hand; that Lord Palmerston writes boldly and most legibly, with large round letters and thick up strokes; that Mr. Disraeli writes a large and angular running hand; that Lord Russell writes much like a lady, but with small and upright letters, very much such a hand as that of the late Sir Robert Peel. Lord Lytton, whose novels are so much admired by an American public, writes a very bad hand indeed. Mr. Gladstone writes a very large hand; that of Lord Granville is small and neat; that of Lord Clarendon is a very large hand; while that of Lord Malmesbury is large, bold, and remarkably difficult to read. FINANCE AND TRADE

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, December 3, 1867.

The gold market presented now new features to-day, but the usual activity early in the day preceding Saturday's shipments of specie, opening at 138¾, advancing to 139¾, declining to 139¾, and closing quiet and heavy at 139¼. Each week's business is a repetition of the previous week's transactions, opening dull and lower on Monday, and reaching the highest point on Friday. Next week is likely to terminate this monotony by finding the market in plentiful supply, so that gold loans will no longer command a premium.

In bonds there was more inquiry to-day, but only at the inside figures of the quotations, and in smaller amounts; capitalists prefer to await the action of Congress, and should a further contraction be decided upon, lower quotations for bonds are looked for.

The stock market presented nothing new to-day except a rise in Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad of 3 per cent., and in Ohio certificates of 1½ per cent. Mining shares are dull, except Corydon, which sold a fair day at 18 cents, is now quoted at 21 cents.

Closing New York quotations, received by Fr. R. Mertz, ware as follows:

Gold, 139¾; 1881's, 109¾; 6-20's, 1867, 107¾; 1865, 106½; 1862, 106½; Oscenola, 104¾; 10-40's, 101¾; 7-30's, 104¾.
