The cause of this wo will not undertake to explain here. The numerous applications made to us for relief during our twenty years practice, has long since induced us to make especial study and investigation of these diseases, and their best method of cure. They are maledies of a peculiar character, and as a general thing they require a method of treatment entirely unlike that adopted for those common to both sexes. In fact the very frequency and extent of female diseases in our midst, is good ovidence that the "common treatment" has not met with success, and shows that some more efficient course should be adopted.

Wo were long since convinced that local remedies and external appliances, bandsages, dee, were more palliatives for the time, and of no pormanent value whatever, but oftlimes injurious; and that an efficient course of predication was too soly hope of cure.
