Treasurer and only surviving officer of the Society for the Relief of Disabled Fireman, the members of the Society held a meeting at the Mayor's office at three P. M. yesterday for the purpose of reorganization. The meeting was called at the instance of Fitzsimmons, Samuel Fahnestock, P. A. awarded. Madeira, Thomas M. By request, Mr. Wm. M. Gormley arose and gave some reminiscences of the old organization. He said he was the only surviving member of the Board of Trus-tees elected in 1838. Up to the time of the disastrous fire in 1845 the Society had been in successful operation. At that fire the books and papers belonging to the Society were destroyed, and the association became extinct. The funds remaining in the hands tinet. The funds remaining in the hand of the Treasurer had accumulated until now, according to the report of that officer, they amounted to $3,329 09. The fund had accumulated in their hands. and all they now desired was to dispose of it in a legal manner. It was his wish to see the Society re-organized and in successful operation After some informal discussion, a motion was made and carried that a committee be As appointed to audit the Treasurer's account.

Mr. Gregg said that in order to bring the matter in hand properly before the meeting he would move that an election for Trustees be held, and that two be elected from each fire company. The motion was carried.

Mr. Hare offered an amendment to the bylaws of the society, fixing the amount of bonds required of the Treasurer at $10,000 instead of $2,000.

Elegant Coaches.

public and private, Pittsburgh will compare favorably with larger cities east or pare favorably with larger cities east or west. It is a matter of pride that we have here large, complete and first-class manufactories, where light vehicles of all varieties are turned out, equal to any built elsewhere. One of the largest and best of these establishments, and one equal in point of workmanship to any in the country, is the carriage bazaar of Mr. John S. Shafer, located on Diamond alley, near Liberty street. Mr. Shafer not only manufactures all classes of vehicles, but keeps factures all classes of vehicles, but keeps on hand the very finest and most elegant work of Eastern establishments. Among the most elegant turn-outs of the Eastern manufactories is the Clarence coach, one of which is now to be seen among Mr. Shaffer's stock in his exhibition rooms. It is worth the time of any one to call and see this superb affair, for a description would this superb affair, for a description would give but a faint idea of its elegance. The "Clarence" is in every respect the finest coach made, no part of it but is of the best material and finished with the greatest care and nicety. The body is painted of two colors, part black and part a sort of marcon. The wheels are painted darker than marcon with stripes, and the body sits upon the "C" spring. Patent axles of the very best are used, and the whole, make up is the neatest and most durable. The front of the best are used, and the whole make up is the neatest and most durable. The front of the body is oval in form and is all French glass; the frames containing it, two in number, running in grooves, to be pushed aside when required. Inside the vehicle is magnificent, all the coverings and trimming being of brown satins. It contains also mir rors, and a trumpet by which to communicate with the driver. Velvet lugs are used, and the doors have ivory handles. Card steps are upon each side, which open and close with the doors. Altogether the "Clarence" is the prettiest and most luxurious cooks we have seen coach we have ever seen.

Among the vehicles also on exhibition are two close-quartered coaches of Mr. Shafer's own_manufacture. They are very neat and elegant, and certainly equal in every respect to Eastern make, and probably even more desirable. Mr. Shafer has on hand also a set of gold mounted harness to match the Clarence coach, which are certainly the finest and most elegant ever tanny the linest and most elegant ever brought to this city. He keeps on hand, as an additional department of his business, a full assortment of harness, blankets, rigs and horse equipments generally, which it will be found he is prepared to sell lower than elegabere.

We can confidently assure any and every one who wants a coach, carriage, buggy or other light vehicle, harness, &c., &c., that Mr. Shafer can accommodate them both as to price and quality to an advantage over other, establishments. Owning his large building he is without the weight of rent upon him, and doing a very large business, a small per centage of profit is all he requires and all he asks. A visit to this mammoth establishment will interest and gratify every one. Mr. Shafer can accommodate them both as

In the case of Lindsay vs. Lindsay et al. the jury found a verdict in favor of plaintiff for $11,218.88.

In the above case, on Saturday, defendants' counsel moved for the discharge of the jury from its consideration, for the reason set forth in an affidavit of Henry Rahe, in substance: that upon Friday afternoon, at adjournment of Quarter Sessions, he had occasion to descend the small stairway leading toward the jail, and when he had reached the foot he saw and overheard Wm. Lindsay (the plaintiff) talking to Mr. Patterson, one of the jurors and say twell terson, one of the jurors, and say well now, you go up and stick out to the last and don't give up;" these words were spoken by Lindsay as he separated from Patterson; affiant followed up the stairway to be sure of the fact that he was not mistaken in the rson of Mr. Patterson. Monday Judge Stowe granted the following rule: "And now to wit, March, 23d, 1868, an affidavit having been filed in this case, (Lindsay vs. Lindsay et. al.) to the effect that the plaintiff had held a conversation with Joseph Patterson, one of the jurors impannelled in said case, after the jury had crited for the said case, after the jury had retired for the purpose of considering on their verdict, the tendency and purpose of which was to induce said juror to return a verdict in his behalf, rule oremature and unnessary.

Consequently the audience yesterday evening listened with rapt attention, taking to heart—we hope—the truths with which the lecture was laden, and showing by their applause how well they appreciated the humor of the lecturer, whose occasional slight provincialisms and inattention to grammar were passed over unnoticed or unheeded among so much that was excellent. To-night Mr. Gough, with his lecture on "Eloquence and Orators," will close the lecture season.
