LETTER FROM NEW YORK.

Business-Musical and Dramatical. NEW YORK, March 27, 1868. Probabiy never before in all the stock jobbing operations of this city has been such a confusion and at the same time such an important battle of the Railroad kings, as that which now rages over Erie, and rocks Wall street to its centre, and of course, all one took notice of the inexplicable creation. Each brings out some new piece but it was observed that the lady became of ordinance every day, and blazes and bangs away, till the whole Island of Man- herself incessantly during the rest hattan is filled with smoke. Judge Barnard of the dinner, though the temperature of has appointed George A. Osgood Receiver the dinner from was by no means high. has appointed George A. Osgood Receiver As soon as the company rose from the table, in the Eric Company, and Judge Clerk has the lady, still fanning herself, suddenly disissued an order restraining Osgood from entering any order for the said appointment. The directors of the Company exiled to New Jersey, are enjoying themselves as best they her disappearance. The lady's absence was, may. They have not been idle, and they however very short; for she returned to have procured from the Railroad Committee the drawing-room, in the course of a few of the Assembly, a bill to legalize the new issue of Erie stock; and further, by the speedy passage by both Houses of the New Jersey Legislature of a bill to enable certain corporations more effectually to transact their business in the State of New Jersey, and which covers the Erie Railroad Company case, and the establishing of their offices in Jersey City.

The second annual Report of the Board of Health, being published by State authorities, in of 3,656 lives in 1868 as comnared with 1866. We are therefore making some progress in a sanitary way; too little, however, for this should be the healthiest city in the world, situated as it is on high land, beside a magnificent bay and river, and thus washed on all sides by water. But it is comforting to know that we are really progressing. The Board of Health has done a noble work. They have had to scale the very mountains of difficulty; on some of these they can as yet make little impression; the tenement houses for instance, disguis it as we may, the conditions under which the tenent house population is compelled to live form the prime cause of the mortality of this city. Here over 500,000 people are packd into 18,532 houses; in these how can a high sanitary condition be maintained. The records show that two thirds of the deaths take place in these wretched dens.

The gold market has gained more sternness of late. The money market was extremely urgent yesterday 1, and in some instances 1 per cent. commission being paid for collection, in addition to the seven per cent. The recent pressure, however, shows some sign of abatement. The stock market is becoming more steady in certain railroads. General business is improving. Operas and concerts continue to be the order of the day, and there is quite a rivalry different organiz imposed the duty on themselves to amuse know it? the public. Last Sunday a concert at Steinway Hall, was very well attended. At the Academy we have had Meverber's Robert again, that fine composition which a true lover of music is never tired to hear. The basso of Hermann is the great centre of attraction in that opera, and discharges himself of his task to perfection. Last night was performed Lucrezia Borgia before a very crowded house. The great attraction of the evening was the production of Sig. Brignoli's symphony entitled the "Sailor's Dream." It is a very fine composition, deserving the name of aria rather than symphony, and is full of graceful musical phrases while the orchestra, under the direction of the composer, rendered with creditable precision. The symphony was encored, and Signor Brignoli presented with a miniature vessel, richly ornamented with flowers and flags. Another musical celebrity has again made his appearance here before the public, after an intermission of more than fifteen vears. His first performance drew a very large audience and there is little doubt but that he will be as much in favor with the New York public as when he made his first debut in the Metropolis.

PHOTOGRAPHERS will be interested in the announcement of a new method of taking portable negatives. The image is first made on glass in the usual way, and a thin film or sheet of a new transparent preparation of "vitrified caoutchouc" applied by means of a special varnish to the side of the glass on which is the film of collodion. When dry, the whole is dipped into water, and in a short time the collodion with its image leaves the glass and adheres firmly to the caoutchouc, which may then be packed away with other similar sheets until required for use as a negative. The utility of this process in traveling, if satisfactory, can be readily understood.

Vanishing Charms.

The penls of fashionable shams were re cently illustrated at a ball in Paris, when an elegantly dressed lady found herself wearing only the string of her necklace, the wax pearls having melted entirely away in the eat. The India rubber beautifiers, "palpi-The Erie War-The Board of Healthtators," etc., are yet more dangerous. At a dinner party given by a high personage of the official world, one of the ladies was equally remarked for the exquisite proportions of her bust and the animation of her conversation. Those who sat near the lady uddenly heard, in the middle of the dinner and of some witty sally on her part, a sharp, small detonation, such as might be produce by the cracking open of a bean-pod. No much less animated, and she kept one arm raised across her bosom, and fanned appeared; but as certain sharp eyes among her rivals had caught sight of a diminished outline as she retreated from the sphere of vision, a good deal of merriment followed minutes, triumphant in the same plastic perfection that had excited so much admiration during the earlier part of the evening, and displayed all the aplomb and vivacity which had made her so charming. Miss M. had conceived a passion for Mr. W. It was not reciprocated. Mr. W.'s coldness had driven her to desperation, vhich, among young ladies, means a resort to strategy to accomplish what they cannot do by fair means. The young lady, presuming upon her leap-year privileges, and upon W,'s belief in spiritualism, and and upon W,'s belief in spiritualism, and his respect for the name of his deceased mother, employed a celebrated medium and had a meeting arranged to which Mr. W. was invited. On the evening proposed the parties were present, and the spirits in glee. The shade of W.'s mother appeared according to instructions, discoursed glee. The shade of W.'s mother appeared and, according to instructions, discoursed eloquently upon the virtues of Miss M., and finally asked W. to clasp her hand. In obedience to this voice from the grave he did so, not, however, without qualms; and while in this position, to his horror, the sepulchral voice pronounced the marriage ceremony. When through, the young man was conjured in the same tone to regard the contract as binding as though o regard the contract as binding as though thad been solumnized before an earthly tribunci. W. couldn't see it, and bolted minus his overcoat and hat. Thus grief came over the young lady's leap-year project.—Philadelphia Press.

IN A western village a charming, well-preserved widow had been courted and won by a physician. She has children; among hem a crippled boy, who had been petted and, if not spoiled, certainly allowed very great "freedom in debate." The wedding day was approaching, and it was time the children should know that they were to have a new father. Calling the crippled boy, she
