—The Philadelphia Ledger, of Monday, says: There is thought to be a little softening in the money market, but the change in rates thus far since quarter-day are not very marked. Call loans as the rule are quoted at 8 per cent. with an occasional very marked. Call loans as the rule are quoted at 8 per cent., with an occasional transaction something lower. Commercial paper is quoted at 7 to 9 per cent. for first class. The good banking houses on the street are not paying above 5 to 6 per cent. for money left on deposit. The bankers are accommodating their customers to pretty near the amount of the demand upon them. but only on good legitimate upon them, but only on good legitimate

-From the New York Tribune, of Monday: Money opened quite active, and early in the day there was considerable inquiry, out before one o'clock there was an abun dant supply of capital offering at 7 per cent., and borrowers at that rate than they could use. The bank statement shows a continued contraction, but the reserve is fully maintained. The next statement will probably show that the currency is returning to the Atlantic cities freely, and in amounts which will secure an easy money market at and belew the legal

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET,

OFIFCE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, Tuesday, April 14, 1868. CRUDE-The crude market was rather and Tack suit in Philadelphia, having been supposnaed to attend as witnesses. We have but two sales to record: 2500 barrels on spot, at 8,9-16, and 1200 bbls at 8½c, and 200 Smith's Ferry, at 8½c; these were the only transactions reported, and as will be seen, while the market is quiet, prices are without quotable change.

REFINED—Not a single sale reported, and while the market is quiet and neglected, for the reason above referred to, prices are unchanged. We continue to quote at 250 for April; 25½c for May; 26½c for June, and 26½ to 2½c for July. The last four and five months sold on Monday at 28½c, and, we presume, that all the year would command 31c. There is but very little oil offering at present, as refiners are not satisfied with the prices.
