PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE SATURDAY, April 25, 1868. CRUDE-The crude market has been very firm and considerably excited during the past two or three days, and an adthan anything else, may be attributed the advance, as the advices from Antwerp. the leading European market, are anything but favorable—the latest cable telegram reporting a still further decline. As we noted yesterday, the matter of production is being agitated considerably, and as a matter Ing agitated considerably, and as a matter of course, it is seldom that any two men will agree on this important subject. One is confident that the production certainly falling off—that it is nothing like it was three months ago; while another, whose knowledge of trade is equally as good, will tell you that there is an abundance of oil at the wells, that the production is instead of falling off, is increasing, and that a number of new wells have been tapped within a short time. Of one thing, however, there can be no disputing, and that is, that the can be no disputing, and that is, that the market has stiffened up very much within the past day or two, and that an important advance has been established.

REFINED—The market for bonded oil

BEFINED—The market for bonded oil has also been remarkably stiff during the past two or three days, and in sympathy with Crude, prices both for present and future delivery have advanced. The sales today were 3,000 bbls—1,000 each for September, October and November at 29½c, and 2,000 bbls for May at 26½c. Spot oil is quoted firm at 25½c, May at 26½c to 26½c; June at 27 to 27½c, and July at 28c. Yesterday there was a sale for all the year, buyer's option, at 32c, and we feel pretty confident that no one, would have sold today below that figure. There is and has been for several days past quite an active demand both for present and future delivery, and the only reason, and it is a very good one, why we have not more sales regood one, why we have not more sales reported, is owing to the fact that there are but few sellers, as our refiners, as a general thing, seem disposed to hold off in anticipation that there will be a still further advance.
