Mr. Blanchard, upon taking the stand, said that the National Committee, of which he was Chairman, was appointed by a Convention held in Aurora, Illinois, in which six States were represented. He then read the call, after which he said:

the call, after which he said:

It was now nearly thirty years since a Young Men's Anti-Masonic Convention was held in Alleghenv county, at which a letter was read signed by Daniel Webster, stating "that the secret orders of this country were wrong in their foundation, &c., and that they coult to be probibited by by " that they ought to be prohibited by law."
He quoted the words he said, not because they were stated or written by Daniel Web ster, but because they were the universal sentiment of the christian community east nd west. The sentiment of the west at that time, he said, was, "that membership in secret organizations was inconsistant with the Christian religion." He referred to a Con-Christian religion." He referred to a Convention held in the graveyard at Grey Fryer's Church thirty years ago, where a number of Presbyterian ministers had agreed in solemn compact to "stand up for the religion of Christ and oppose the religion invented by men." He referred to the abduction of Morgan, who, he said, had been hauled through a thickly settled county in the State of New York in a yellow coach, a distance of a hundred miles, and said that there were good men conand said that there were good men con-nected with the affair, and it was for this reason that the people opposed the organization. He said that the history of the anti-Masonic movement had proven that a religious evil could not be cured by a polit ical movement, and recommended prayer.

The meeting was then lead in prayer by a delegate, after which Rey. Joel Blanchard lead the Convention in singing,

The Oil Trade—Jamestown, and Frankiin Railroad-The Lake at Stoneboro-Desirable Watering Place. [Special Correspondence of the Plitsburgh Gazette.]

JAMESTOWN, PA., May 4, 1868. In Franklin, where we dated our last letter, we had the pleasure of meeting many warm and venerable friends of the GA-ZETTE, some of whom had been readers of it doubly as long as your correspondent has been sojourning on this mundane has been sojourning on this mundane, sphere. It is gratifying to learn that a journal can be conducted through nearly a century of time in such a manner as to carry with it the respect and estems of succeeding generations. Such has been the history of the GAZETTE. Go of the Commonwealth and you find gray headed men, who, following the example of their fathers, adhere to the "old and rearly knowledge of the world from the painters wildest dream of liable" and tell you that they gained their early knowledge of the world from the paper you represent, and the field reduced tion has been mainly drawn from the columns of their favorite journal. One old gentleman, now ripe for the grave, took us by the hand and said, "well, I'm glad to see you. I've been a constant reader of the GAZETTE for nigh half a century, and, in my early years; my toy liberty caps were made, out of old papers printed by your a most charming fairy lake of crystal water, modestly located within sight of Stoneboro. It is gratifying to learn that a responsibility bowed us down, but made a sad failure in casting off youth, for our old friend disparagingly continued, and yet, you ain't a very old man. We assured him that that was not our fault, and in behalf of the past and present proprietors thanked him kindly for the long support he had given the journal we represent.

From various reliable sources of information we are prepared to believe that the oil excitement is about again to burst forth, but not in such wild form as marked the early development of the trade in these sections. The business has sunk to a legitimate basis. The operations have lost the fancy color imparted by fabilious figures, and the work of development goes on quietly and orderly. The striking of a new well is marked no longer by a rush to the regions of half crazed speculators willing to venture their bottom dollar in securing space enough in close proximity to ing to venture their bottom dollar in secur-ing space enough in close proximity to sink a pipe and coax the greasy wealth to the surface. Things have changed; con-servatism reigns. The oil lands have been left in the possession of men who have sur-vived the financial revolution which swept so many gilt edged companies from the surface, and depreciated certificate of stock to the current value of ordinary wall paper. Shrewd in business affairs, careful, but reasonably venturescent reasonably venturesome, these men pursue their business in a systematic manner, and heir business in a systematic mainer, and doubtless under their management the production of oil will be eventually brought up to the same prolific yield as marked the up to the same produc yield as marked the wild days of stock jobbing and gambling. The supply held in the oil regions, is very considerable, but not so large as some may considerable, but not so large as some may imagine. There are many good producing wells which are steadily operated, thus daily increasing the stock on hand. The speculators in crude anticipate that they will realize before June five dollars per barrel for oil stowed away in impress tanket through alize before June five dollars per barrel for oil stowed away in immense tanks throughs out the region. JAMESTOWN, PA. ted. The coal obtained is softer and more crumbling in its nature that that dug out of the Pittsburgh mines, but it is fully equal in every other respect. This company operates largely owning a rich mines. pany operates largely, owning a rich min-eral tract of over five thousand acres, and giving employment to over a thousand men. Their employes principally compose the town of Stoneboro, and bear, like our own miners, high character as honest, in-

It abounds with fish, ranging in size from thirty pounders down to the little "chubbles." During one month last winter after the breaking of the ice; and when the fish were spawning, some inconsiderate men killed twelve thousand with harpoons and nets. These they peddled from Jamestown to Meadville and Erie and realized a handsome profit from their sale. At the last session of the Legislature a bill was passed providing for the correction of this abuse, and hereafter fishing in it by hook, line and rod will only be allowed. The scenery be had given the journal we represent.

Backed with such friends, how could the Gazette cease to prove popular? They will gloss over our faults and forgive us our trespasses for the sake of Auld Lang Syne. James Bleakley, President and proprietor of the Franklin International Bank, joint owner of the Franklin Exchange, a director of the Jamestown and Franklin road, and of the Jamestown and Franklin road, and one of the most worthy and enterprising citizens of Yehango county, has purchased the frontage on the lake and erected a commodious and elegant hotel. This is in charge of Maj. S. T. Kennedy, a gentleman abundantly qualified to discharge the duties of host. The hotel is entirely new, and a very handsome specimen of architecture. a very handsone specimen of architecture. It has capacity to comfortably accommotwo hundred guests. Furnished with taste throughout, surrounded by pretty walks, covered promenades, drives, ornamental gardens, ten pin alleys, billiard rooms, dancing hall and best of all sparkling springs of sulphur water of high medicinal qualities. It is just the place to spend the summer vacation from the toils and troubles of business. The spring water is so strongly impregnated with sulphur throughout, surrounded by pretty walks and troubles of business. The spring water is so strongly impregnated with sulphur that we would imagine the place specially attractive to mothers with marriageable daughters—sulphur being so good an auxiliary for match making. The hotel keeps a full force of help, and has a good auxiliary for match making. The hotel keeps a full force of help, and has a good stock of sailing boats, pleasure yawls and fishing tackle for the use of guests. We spent a pleasant day here and were not only delighted with the beautiful scenery surrounding the hotel, but likewise with the clever management of the house itself. Many Pittsburgh gentlemen spent a while with their families here last summer and have secured anartments for the coming tempting, old fashioned meals, they will come this way and partake of the hospitality of Maj. Kennedy and his estimable lady.

These monitors should never be passed over lightly, nor considered slightly, as their neglect is the great cause of so many lingering sicknesses.

Many of the Chronic Diseases of to-day might have been arrested in their incipient stages, and speedy cures long since obtained, had timely application been made to a conscientious physician of learning, of judgment, and of skill in treatment.

The slightest feeling of distress is positive evidence of existing disease, and the sooner it is removed fhe better.

By thus nipping disease when these signs first appear, hundreds of lingering cases may be avoided and much suffering prevented.

It is not enough, however, for the physician to know the anatomy of the human body, the pathology of disease, and the nature and properties of his medicines.

Female Bruisers.—Nida Byerly and Mary Gaskill occupy adjoining houses on Locust street in the Fifth ward, and a few days since a difficulty arose between them which yesterday terminated in a regular "mill." Several blows passed, and finally they clinched, when hair-pulling and scratching was the order. Mrs. Gaskill having greater powers of endurance than her adversary, came out of the affray victorious, wherefore Nids made information before Alderman. Taylor charging her with assault and bat-Taylor charging her with assault and bat-tery. A warrant was issued, Mrs. Gaskill arrested and held for a hearing.

Barnum's Museum.—At Masonic Hall on Barnum's Museum—At Masonic Hall on Friday next, Barnum's collection of living wonders, from the recently destroyed New York museum. The troupe consists of the beautiful Circassian girls, giants, dwarfs, &c., forming a rare combination of Nature's oddities. Each afternoon a family matinee will be held, at which the irrepressible Phineas himself will be in attendance. A grand gala time may be anticipated, as the visit of Barnum's Museum may rightly be regarded as an epoch in may rightly be regarded as an epoch in our municipal history.

83,000 Wanted on 200 Acres of the best timber land in Somerset county, which for timber alone is worth $5,000. The soil is good and there are five velue of coal of the aggregate thickness of twenty feet, and in addition there are good and reliable veins of iron ore.
To the above I invite the attention of coal and iron men, as it is near to Railroad.
