TO A MAN OF HONOR, his pledged word is as binding and irrevocable as any oath.

It is well known at Washington that a son of Judge TRUMBULL, who is a Democrat, has been for ten days past making large bets, through third parties, upon the President's acquittal.

LANE, of Kansas, when he gave symptoms of raving to JOHNSON, was so appalled by the public indignation which met him on his return home, as to go and hang himself, like JUDAS, to Ross, of Kansas, the people of that State may well say, "Go and do thou likewise."

The Department of Civil Service is the title of a new Bureau, which a bill reported to the House by Mr. JENCKES, of Rhode Island, on Thursday, proposes to establish. It creates a new Department of the Government, and places the Vice-President in charge. It also establishes a Civil Service Examination Board, and provides for the employment of strictly honest and competent public officials.

THE SEVEN SENATORIAL RENEGADES are sold out Republicans, dishonored Senators and disgraced men. They have shown themselves incapable of political fidelity, patriotic independence or personal truth.

The Ohio Legislature have enacted a law prohibiting the use of colored or marked ballots in all future elections. All tickets are required to be written or printed in black ink on plain white paper, without any distinctive marks or devices, except the words at the head of the ticket, and penalties are imposed for any attempts to mark a ballot so as to ascertain how the citizen has voted.

When the First Andrew, "Old Hickory," left the White House, he returned home to Tennessee, at seventy years of age, with just ninety dollars in money, having spent all his salary and the proceeds of his cotton crop. But his personal integrity was never questioned, and he retired from office, though poor in pelf, with an enviable and unimpeachable reputation as an honest man.

ALL HONOR to the REPUBLICAN PRESS OF PENNSYLVANIA, which, with a single milk-and-water exception, has presented a bold and compact front to the open enemies and the secret traitors who would strike down the party, even at the expense of their country's repose.

THERE is much force in the suggestion, of a Committee of the Boston Board of Trade, that a law should be passed under which contracts made upon a gold or specie basis may be enforced according to their terms. When the parties prefer to use gold and silver as money in their transactions, they should have the legal right to do so, and their contracts should be interpreted and protected accordingly.

THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.

The railway trains are filled with delegates, and outsiders, politicians, reporters, editors and office seekers, on their way to the National Convention at Chicago. The travel over the principal trunk lines between the Atlantic States and the Northwest has for a week past been so heavy as to remind the observer of the immense traffic during the war.

As this is the first National Republican Convention since the return of the revolted States to their allegiance, this consideration lends to its assembling an interest which is intensified by the critical state of affairs at Washington. As to the Presidency, not one name will be recognized by the Republicans, their hearty acclamations attesting the unanimity of the popular voice for one man who is no less the hope of the land in its grave political emergency to-day than he was its trusted and victorious leader in arms.

We have a sincere confidence in the sagacious discretion and uncompromising patriotism which will rule the great Council of the Republican party. We have made complete arrangements for a full daily report, from the most reliable and authoritative sources, not only of the official transactions, but also of the preliminary and accompanying developments of sentiment among the politicians to be gathered at Chicago.

IMPEACHMENT—AND ITS ENEMIES. The result of impeachment is partially revealed. The Senate, on Saturday, technically acquitted the President on the eleventh article, by a vote of 35 to 19, the charge failing to secure a two-thirds vote in its favor.

THE PLEAIDES OF TREACHERY. Treason is the highest crime of a civil nature man can commit; it is the most degrading which stains the soul. The man who betrays the confidence of his fellow men, abuses the sacred trust with which charged, proves false to the principles of truth, honor and honesty, and not only debauches his own name and fame, but declares himself an apostate unworthy recognition or place in the world.

THE PLAN OF A NEW PARTY. A Chief Justice who is capable of perverting his official station to promote a personal intrigue, a President whom a large majority of Congress and the country believe to be a criminal, seven Senators all of whom have clearly proven themselves incapable of official or personal consistency and truth, and a half-score of Conservative Journalists, and the whisky ring, under Treasury patronage, which owns and controls the whole cabal, are just now engaged in a project for establishing a new political party.

THE DUTY OF DELEGATES. Republicans, in their National Council this week, will, we are confident, exhibit fresh proof of their meritorious title to the confidence of all true friends of the Union. They will not be found wanting in sympathy with the honest indignation which stirs the depths of the popular heart, nor in a wise recognition of the imperative duty of disowning all responsibility for the treachery which has aimed, with deadly intent, a stroke at the party's life, but, thank Heaven! felt short of its purpose.

should think that brow of a representative from a young State in whose lap lingered the causes which led to the recent terrible war for the Union? Stabbed by the Senator of Kansas, whose infancy was so closely watched and guarded by the friends of liberty, the loyal people are overwhelmed with the ingratitude of this man. When History comes to write his epitaph let it be: "He lived one day too long for the good of his name. May his record sink to the grave, and out of charity let no man resurrect it."

9. JAMES W. GRIMES owes New Hampshire for his place of birth in 1810. He is the veritable old Grimes of brass-button notoriety, dead, at least so politically speaking. As a Republican he was elected to represent Iowa in 1865. This is his second term, and it will expire in 1871.

10. LYMAN TRUMBULL was born in Connecticut in 1818. He is upon his third term from Illinois, and unless by resignation or kind dispensation of Providence, he will not retire into private life before 1873. Trumbull has been already said of this man's betrayal, as he was presumed to occupy a place so elevated as to be beyond the reach of those who interfere with the course of Justice.

11. JOHN B. HENDERSON, who occupied the position foreshadowed by SWIFT, when he wrote "A strong dilemma, in a desperate case; and who so readily accepted the first alternative, was born in Virginia in 1826. It is a matter of congratulation that his public career will close on March 4th, 1869. He represents Missouri.

12. WILLIAM PITT FESSENDEN, of Maine, was born in New Hampshire in 1804, and his term will not expire until 1871. It is possible that he will be so overwhelmed with the ignominy that he brought upon himself by his base betrayal, that he will yield the high position he has disgraced.

13. PETER G. VAN WINKLE, of West Virginia, is a native of New York City, born in 1808. He will wake up like his illustrious namesake, Rip VAN WINKLE, in five or six long years, and he should be guarding the cradle of liberty and the principles of Truth, Right and Justice held by the constituents who elevated him into power. His term will expire in 1871.

14. JOSEPH S. FOWLER, of Tennessee, is a native of Steubenville, Ohio. He is devotedly attached to JOHNSON, and held office under him while he was Governor of Tennessee. He was born in 1823, and his term of service will expire in 1871.
