THE ODD FELLOWS.

AMUSEMMETE.

Annual Session of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania. The annual session was continued yestorday at Lafayette Hall. The officers elected were installed into their respective positions by the retiring Grand Master, Richard Watson. The Committee on Reception representing the Lodges in this portion of the jurisdiction, made their report, whereupon Bro. P. G., R. Biddle Roberts, as the representatives of the Lodges in Western Pennylvania, addressed the Grand'Lodge on behalf of the Fraternity in the Western portion of the State, bidding them welcome to our city, and congratulating them on this their first session hold west of the Alleghentes. We regret that we are unable to give a re-port of Bro. Roberts' remarks at length at port of Bro. Roberts' remarks at length at present, but we may say that it was one of the happiest of the kind that we have heard for years. Grand Master Watson responded thereto in a feeling and impressive manner. At the session yesterday, beside the officers of the Grand Lodge, there were present Past Grand Sire James B. Nicholson, P. G. Masters John W. Stokes, E. Wildman, P. Fritz, R. A. Lamberton and J. Alex. Simpson. A number of representatives and new members of the Grand Lodge were admitted. Charters for new subordinate Lodges, to be located at Mechanicsville, Venango county; Emlenton, Venango county; county; Emlenton, Venango county; Dempseytown, Venango county; Centreville, Washington county; Lyon's Station, Borks county, and at Hartford, Susquehanna county, were granted. Among the re-ports read and accepted were included those from the retiring Grand Master, Committee on the State of the Order and the Committee of Superintendence, all of which were listened to with marked attention, and appear to have given much gratification.

The attendance yesterday was even much larger than on the previous day, and the deliberations of the large body was characterized for its harmony and good will dis-played in the charitable and beneficial work in which the members of the Order are enin which the members of the order are chargaged. The session will continue to-day, being the third day of its sitting, and will have considerable business of importance to transact, which may probably prolong the session until Friday. The new Grand Master made the following appointments, which were confident.

General Synod of the Reformed Presby-terian Church-Opening Sermon.

The General Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church met last evening in the First Reformed Presbyterian Church. (Dr. John Douglas,) at half-past seven o'clock. Rev. W. S. Bratton, the retiring Moderator, ascended the pulpit, accompanied by Rev. Drs. S. W. Crawford and J. N. McLeod. The congregation united in singing the one hundredth Psalm.

Rev. John N. McLeod, D. D., of New York; then lead in prayer, after which the assembly sang a part of the 45th Psalm, from the tenth verse:

i'O daughter, take good heed. Incline and give good ear." Rev. Mr. Bratton then announced his text. Heb. 10:23.—"Let us hold fast the profession of one faith without wavering, for He is faithful that promised."

After a short introduction, Mr. Bratton said he would consider his text under the following heads;

1. Some things which should be stead-2. The manner in which this stead fastness is to be maintained.

3. The encouragement given to stimulate

Conservative Meetings A meeting of the so-called Conservative element was held at the St. Charles Hotel last evening for the purpose of ratifying the action of the Senators who cast their votes against impeachment. Smith & Teorges' excellent band was employed and played through the streets for a considerable time in order to collect a sufficient number of persons together to entitle the assemblage to be called a meeting. At eight o'clock fully one hundred persons had assembled in front of the Hotel, when the meeting was called to order by G. R. Butterfield, Esq., on whose motion Col. G. A. Loyd was called to the chair.

Upon taking the chair Mr. Loyd thanked the meeting for the honor conferred on him in a brief address, after which he read the

The Chairman then introduced Gov. Wm.
Johson, who said: The Constitution of the Government in The Constitution of the Government in his judgment, was in danger and the liberties of the citizens placed in jeopardy. Heretofore in the heat of partizan strife the law has often been disregarded, but never to such an extent and under such circumstances as in the present instance. Congress had violated the law and trampled under foot the Constitution of the United States, passed unconstitutional laws and dared to impeach the President for not enforcing them. The charges against the President were brought before the highest Court in the Government and submitted to the highest jury which could be impannelled, and the result was a verdict of acquittal. Efforts had been made to induce a number of the jurors to disregard their caths, but nevertherand. to disregard their oaths, but notwithstanding those almost irresistible efforts, the President was triumphant. He referred to the records of the Republican Senators who voted for acquittal, and claimed that they were the peers of their Cousers.

On motion of Jones R. Butterfield, the folon motion of Joins R. Butterfield, the following gentlemen were appointed a Committee on Resolutions: Capt, J. H. Stewart, J. P. Langdon and Geo. W. Leonard.

The Committee reported the following resolutions, which were adopted:

Resolved, That the happiness and safety of the American people depend upon faithful and honest obedience to the Constitution: that without this chapter of Liberty.

Leg Broken. John Carson, a boy about sixteen years of age, had his leg broken on Tuesday evening about five o'clock by being run over by carriage. A train on the Fort Wayne Railroad, which had stopped at the crossing on Penn street, blockaded the street for a considerable time, while a number of wagons and carriages were waiting on either side of the train. When it moved away, the driver of each vehicle tried to get ahead of the other, and Carson, in at-

FORTIETH CONGRESS.

By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.] Washington, May 20, 1868. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. Mr. EGGLESTON reported a bill, which was recommitted to the Committee on Commerce, authorizing the taking possession of the bar known as Pas L'Outre on the Mississippi river, for the construction of a canal without expense to Government. Mr. INGERSOLL introduced a bill to in-

Mr. INGERSOLL introduced a bill to incorporate the National Publication Company. Referred to Committee on District of Columbia.

The SPEAKER submitted a communication from the Secretary of the Navy, enclosing copies of all correspondence between that Department and other parties relative to the sale of the inociclade Oneiths and Catnayla, which was improprietally reand Catawba, which was appropriately re

A vote on the question of adjournment till Saturday showed no quorum. It was finally agreed, by unanimous consent, that when the House adjourned to day it be till Saturday, with the understanding that no business would be transacted on that day.
Mr. INGERSOLL, by unanimous consent made an explanation, to the effect that th Chicago Republican of the 18th, made an assault on him of a scandalous, and perhaps malicious idiaracter. The editor, in reviewing an article which appeared in the Sunday Chicago Tribune of the day before, said it was not surprising that the Tribune should have derived information in advance of other journals as to in advance of other journals as to what the yoto on impeachment would be, it having means of ininformation cenied to other journals. That paper charged that he took a night trip from Washington to Chiesgo to curry the news to the Republican, and said it was a very successful visit for the Trumbull-Grimes plot—this famous go-between. He supposed this remark to refer to him. That paper charged that there was a plot That paper charged that there was a plot between certain parties to secure the acquittal of the President and that he was in that plot, as was also the Chicago Tribune. He stated that he went to Illinois thirteen days before the verdict on impeachment was given. So the verdict on impeachment was given. So far as he was concerned, the charge from the beginning to the end was absolutely and unqualifiedly false. It had not a shadow to rest upon. During the time he was in Unicago fie neither met nor conversed with any man connected with the Tribunc. So far as he knew during the trial of impeachment, he never spoke to any Senator in regard to what his vote should be, thought to be, or might be.

FREE TRADE POLICY. Paris, May 20.—In the Corps Legislati to-day, during the debate on the interpellation in regard to commercial treaties. Mintion in regard to commercial treaties, Minister Rouher made an important speech defending the aree trade policy of the government. He declared that the commercial crisis raised in this Chamber was now ended. France would not renounce the treaty of 1860 with Great Britain, nor forest treaties of similar character, nor would she destroy the good effects of the vote of the chamber in the case of commercial reform, for the tendency of the Government was to restore the tone of reform to the Legislature. He concluded by expressing the conviction that free trade constituted the basis of the future greatness and commercial prosperity of the country. cial prosperity of the country.
