

The Pittsburgh Gazette. PUBLISHED DAILY, BY FERRISMAN, REED & CO., Proprietors.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF Pittsburgh, Allegheny and Allegheny County.

THE PRIMARY MEETINGS TO-DAY. Let every citizen of Allegheny county, who intends to support GRANT and COLfax this year, remember his privilege and be faithful to the duty of attending the primary meetings this afternoon.

A MAJORITY of the Senate rejects the nomination of HUBBELL, the son-out Republican from Ohio, for a Montana Collector.

The Southern press redoubles its urgent appeals to the President for the issue of a proclamation of general amnesty.

GEN. SCHOFIELD, a staunch friend and supporter of General GRANT, and an earnest, outspoken Radical, has been confirmed by the Senate as Secretary of War to succeed Mr. STANTON.

It is plain that the investigation by the House, into the alleged corruptions of Senators, have so far succeeded that they have caught the right man, in the contumacious witness, WOOLEY.

AMERICAN LOYALTY honors itself to-day in the simple but touching testimonials with which it decorates the graves of the dead soldiers of the Union.

But Dr. PATTERSON under-estimates the changes that thirty years have wrought in the whole current of theological opinions, especially in both of these branches of the Presbyterian Church, and generally throughout Christendom.

The era of alienation, growing out of dogmatic controversy, is happily drawing to a close. Less stress is laid on forms of words, and more on right feeling and conduct.

The Washington Herald, in the course of an article strongly urging subscriptions to the stock of the Charleston Railroad Company, pertinently says:

A very large portion of those of our citizens most interested in this road can hear from their own doors the thunder of passing trains over a road already constructed in this country, and are well posted as to the magic effect the building and business along its route.

It is "relinquishing" an office which he has not found it necessary to resign, Mr. STANTON commits to the care of the Senators an elephant which annoys them exceedingly.

The acquisition of the President was effectively a void sanctioning the right of removal, which he had already exercised, and no resignation from the Secretary was needed.

It is the legitimate sequence of the acquisition—the tenure-of-office law is nullified, and a clean official sweep throughout the country will be the next thing in order.

It is not a matter of course, unless STANTON be regarded as removed; if he be held to be vacant, every other office in the country requiring Senatorial confirmation will be vacated in the same way, and if it be not vacant, the vote of acquittal was a blunder, if not worse.

FRESHYTERIAN REUNION—A LAY VIEW OF IT. This week the General Assemblies of both the Old and New School Presbyterian Churches have been in session—the Old at Albany, N. Y., and the New at Harrisburg in this State.

The arrangements proposed touching the management of the Trust Funds and Educational Foundations of the two organizations seem to have been well digested. Indeed, it is not at all probable that trouble would arise out of those matters unless uncommodious friction should be first experienced on points of doctrine or discipline.

Such, manifestly, is the conviction that pervades both Assemblies, for while the validity of the old standards—equally recognized by both bodies—is reaffirmed, special care is taken to ensure toleration for diversity of statement and interpretation. Political Platform makers may be presumed to understand what this means.

The Evangelical doctrine, in its purity, affirms that the Scriptures of the Old and New Testament are the only infallible rule of faith and practice.

Both concur in the cardinal fact that the Bible, and that alone, is the ultimate and absolute standard of orthodoxy in opinion and of purity in conduct.

It is plain that the investigation by the House, into the alleged corruptions of Senators, have so far succeeded that they have caught the right man, in the contumacious witness, WOOLEY.

AMERICAN LOYALTY honors itself to-day in the simple but touching testimonials with which it decorates the graves of the dead soldiers of the Union.

But Dr. PATTERSON under-estimates the changes that thirty years have wrought in the whole current of theological opinions, especially in both of these branches of the Presbyterian Church, and generally throughout Christendom.

The era of alienation, growing out of dogmatic controversy, is happily drawing to a close. Less stress is laid on forms of words, and more on right feeling and conduct.

The Washington Herald, in the course of an article strongly urging subscriptions to the stock of the Charleston Railroad Company, pertinently says:

A very large portion of those of our citizens most interested in this road can hear from their own doors the thunder of passing trains over a road already constructed in this country, and are well posted as to the magic effect the building and business along its route.

It is "relinquishing" an office which he has not found it necessary to resign, Mr. STANTON commits to the care of the Senators an elephant which annoys them exceedingly.

The acquisition of the President was effectively a void sanctioning the right of removal, which he had already exercised, and no resignation from the Secretary was needed.

It is the legitimate sequence of the acquisition—the tenure-of-office law is nullified, and a clean official sweep throughout the country will be the next thing in order.

It is not a matter of course, unless STANTON be regarded as removed; if he be held to be vacant, every other office in the country requiring Senatorial confirmation will be vacated in the same way, and if it be not vacant, the vote of acquittal was a blunder, if not worse.

It is "relinquishing" an office which he has not found it necessary to resign, Mr. STANTON commits to the care of the Senators an elephant which annoys them exceedingly.

The acquisition of the President was effectively a void sanctioning the right of removal, which he had already exercised, and no resignation from the Secretary was needed.

UNNECESSARY APPREHENSIONS. We sympathize with Senators, who are fearful of "self-stultification," if they should accept the President's nomination of a successor to STANTON, "knowing" the delicacy which precludes them from admitting the President's power of removal to be a permanent one.

The arrangements proposed touching the management of the Trust Funds and Educational Foundations of the two organizations seem to have been well digested. Indeed, it is not at all probable that trouble would arise out of those matters unless uncommodious friction should be first experienced on points of doctrine or discipline.

Such, manifestly, is the conviction that pervades both Assemblies, for while the validity of the old standards—equally recognized by both bodies—is reaffirmed, special care is taken to ensure toleration for diversity of statement and interpretation.

Political Platform makers may be presumed to understand what this means. The Evangelical doctrine, in its purity, affirms that the Scriptures of the Old and New Testament are the only infallible rule of faith and practice.

Both concur in the cardinal fact that the Bible, and that alone, is the ultimate and absolute standard of orthodoxy in opinion and of purity in conduct.

It is plain that the investigation by the House, into the alleged corruptions of Senators, have so far succeeded that they have caught the right man, in the contumacious witness, WOOLEY.

AMERICAN LOYALTY honors itself to-day in the simple but touching testimonials with which it decorates the graves of the dead soldiers of the Union.

But Dr. PATTERSON under-estimates the changes that thirty years have wrought in the whole current of theological opinions, especially in both of these branches of the Presbyterian Church, and generally throughout Christendom.

The era of alienation, growing out of dogmatic controversy, is happily drawing to a close. Less stress is laid on forms of words, and more on right feeling and conduct.

The Washington Herald, in the course of an article strongly urging subscriptions to the stock of the Charleston Railroad Company, pertinently says:

A very large portion of those of our citizens most interested in this road can hear from their own doors the thunder of passing trains over a road already constructed in this country, and are well posted as to the magic effect the building and business along its route.

It is "relinquishing" an office which he has not found it necessary to resign, Mr. STANTON commits to the care of the Senators an elephant which annoys them exceedingly.

The acquisition of the President was effectively a void sanctioning the right of removal, which he had already exercised, and no resignation from the Secretary was needed.

It is the legitimate sequence of the acquisition—the tenure-of-office law is nullified, and a clean official sweep throughout the country will be the next thing in order.

It is not a matter of course, unless STANTON be regarded as removed; if he be held to be vacant, every other office in the country requiring Senatorial confirmation will be vacated in the same way, and if it be not vacant, the vote of acquittal was a blunder, if not worse.

It is "relinquishing" an office which he has not found it necessary to resign, Mr. STANTON commits to the care of the Senators an elephant which annoys them exceedingly.

The acquisition of the President was effectively a void sanctioning the right of removal, which he had already exercised, and no resignation from the Secretary was needed.

third street, and about eighty-five on Fourth Avenue. The Independent, has a notice of a meeting at Boston of the Episcopal Evangelical Society, presided over by Bishop Doane, at which Dr. Huntington and other members of the committee were present.

The arrangements proposed touching the management of the Trust Funds and Educational Foundations of the two organizations seem to have been well digested. Indeed, it is not at all probable that trouble would arise out of those matters unless uncommodious friction should be first experienced on points of doctrine or discipline.

Such, manifestly, is the conviction that pervades both Assemblies, for while the validity of the old standards—equally recognized by both bodies—is reaffirmed, special care is taken to ensure toleration for diversity of statement and interpretation.

Political Platform makers may be presumed to understand what this means. The Evangelical doctrine, in its purity, affirms that the Scriptures of the Old and New Testament are the only infallible rule of faith and practice.

Both concur in the cardinal fact that the Bible, and that alone, is the ultimate and absolute standard of orthodoxy in opinion and of purity in conduct.

It is plain that the investigation by the House, into the alleged corruptions of Senators, have so far succeeded that they have caught the right man, in the contumacious witness, WOOLEY.

AMERICAN LOYALTY honors itself to-day in the simple but touching testimonials with which it decorates the graves of the dead soldiers of the Union.

But Dr. PATTERSON under-estimates the changes that thirty years have wrought in the whole current of theological opinions, especially in both of these branches of the Presbyterian Church, and generally throughout Christendom.

The era of alienation, growing out of dogmatic controversy, is happily drawing to a close. Less stress is laid on forms of words, and more on right feeling and conduct.

The Washington Herald, in the course of an article strongly urging subscriptions to the stock of the Charleston Railroad Company, pertinently says:

A very large portion of those of our citizens most interested in this road can hear from their own doors the thunder of passing trains over a road already constructed in this country, and are well posted as to the magic effect the building and business along its route.

It is "relinquishing" an office which he has not found it necessary to resign, Mr. STANTON commits to the care of the Senators an elephant which annoys them exceedingly.

The acquisition of the President was effectively a void sanctioning the right of removal, which he had already exercised, and no resignation from the Secretary was needed.

It is the legitimate sequence of the acquisition—the tenure-of-office law is nullified, and a clean official sweep throughout the country will be the next thing in order.

It is not a matter of course, unless STANTON be regarded as removed; if he be held to be vacant, every other office in the country requiring Senatorial confirmation will be vacated in the same way, and if it be not vacant, the vote of acquittal was a blunder, if not worse.

It is "relinquishing" an office which he has not found it necessary to resign, Mr. STANTON commits to the care of the Senators an elephant which annoys them exceedingly.

The acquisition of the President was effectively a void sanctioning the right of removal, which he had already exercised, and no resignation from the Secretary was needed.

referred to a special committee to report in the afternoon. The Committee on the Theological Seminary reported. Accepted and adopted. Proceeded to the order of the day, the consideration of the report of the Committee on Discipline, in relation to the case of the First Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia.

The arrangements proposed touching the management of the Trust Funds and Educational Foundations of the two organizations seem to have been well digested. Indeed, it is not at all probable that trouble would arise out of those matters unless uncommodious friction should be first experienced on points of doctrine or discipline.

Such, manifestly, is the conviction that pervades both Assemblies, for while the validity of the old standards—equally recognized by both bodies—is reaffirmed, special care is taken to ensure toleration for diversity of statement and interpretation.

Political Platform makers may be presumed to understand what this means. The Evangelical doctrine, in its purity, affirms that the Scriptures of the Old and New Testament are the only infallible rule of faith and practice.

Both concur in the cardinal fact that the Bible, and that alone, is the ultimate and absolute standard of orthodoxy in opinion and of purity in conduct.

It is plain that the investigation by the House, into the alleged corruptions of Senators, have so far succeeded that they have caught the right man, in the contumacious witness, WOOLEY.

AMERICAN LOYALTY honors itself to-day in the simple but touching testimonials with which it decorates the graves of the dead soldiers of the Union.

But Dr. PATTERSON under-estimates the changes that thirty years have wrought in the whole current of theological opinions, especially in both of these branches of the Presbyterian Church, and generally throughout Christendom.

The era of alienation, growing out of dogmatic controversy, is happily drawing to a close. Less stress is laid on forms of words, and more on right feeling and conduct.

The Washington Herald, in the course of an article strongly urging subscriptions to the stock of the Charleston Railroad Company, pertinently says:

A very large portion of those of our citizens most interested in this road can hear from their own doors the thunder of passing trains over a road already constructed in this country, and are well posted as to the magic effect the building and business along its route.

It is "relinquishing" an office which he has not found it necessary to resign, Mr. STANTON commits to the care of the Senators an elephant which annoys them exceedingly.

The acquisition of the President was effectively a void sanctioning the right of removal, which he had already exercised, and no resignation from the Secretary was needed.

It is the legitimate sequence of the acquisition—the tenure-of-office law is nullified, and a clean official sweep throughout the country will be the next thing in order.

It is not a matter of course, unless STANTON be regarded as removed; if he be held to be vacant, every other office in the country requiring Senatorial confirmation will be vacated in the same way, and if it be not vacant, the vote of acquittal was a blunder, if not worse.

It is "relinquishing" an office which he has not found it necessary to resign, Mr. STANTON commits to the care of the Senators an elephant which annoys them exceedingly.

The acquisition of the President was effectively a void sanctioning the right of removal, which he had already exercised, and no resignation from the Secretary was needed.

Laughlin elder. The Moderator ordered that the Committee would appoint a Chairman. Committee on Union—Revs. John A. McGowan, D. D., J. N. McLeod, D. D., J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. H. Storer, and James H. Hays.

The report of the Committee on the Third Reformed Presbyterian congregation of Philadelphia by the Second Reformed Presbytery of that city was read. Dr. Holmes, the Commissioner, from the Third Church, Philadelphia, was heard at length in relation to the matter.

Dr. Crawford was also heard. He said the circumstances warranted the action of the Presbytery in the matter. Dr. Steele, Mr. Woodside in the Chair, justified the action of the Second Presbytery of Philadelphia in the matter.

The report was adopted as read. The Committee on Nominations presented their report. Board of Foreign Missions—Revs. Dr. Crawford, McLeod, Douglas, Steele, Stewart and Wilson, Messrs. N. Woodside, A. G. Wylie, W. C. Brewster, M. Harshaw, J. C. Scott, A. E. Murray, W. J. McDowell, Ministers, Messrs. J. N. Storer, Messrs. Shilra, S. G. Scott, S. B. W. McLeod, M. D. Thomas, James Sample, J. C. Hays, Keiver Hunter, Robert Matthews and W. S. Taylor, Elders.

Trustees of Theological Seminary—Revs. J. H. Storer, J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. N. McLeod, D. D., J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. H. Storer, and James H. Hays.

Trustees of Theological Seminary—Revs. J. H. Storer, J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. N. McLeod, D. D., J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. H. Storer, and James H. Hays.

Trustees of Theological Seminary—Revs. J. H. Storer, J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. N. McLeod, D. D., J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. H. Storer, and James H. Hays.

Trustees of Theological Seminary—Revs. J. H. Storer, J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. N. McLeod, D. D., J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. H. Storer, and James H. Hays.

Trustees of Theological Seminary—Revs. J. H. Storer, J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. N. McLeod, D. D., J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. H. Storer, and James H. Hays.

Trustees of Theological Seminary—Revs. J. H. Storer, J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. N. McLeod, D. D., J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. H. Storer, and James H. Hays.

Trustees of Theological Seminary—Revs. J. H. Storer, J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. N. McLeod, D. D., J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. H. Storer, and James H. Hays.

Trustees of Theological Seminary—Revs. J. H. Storer, J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. N. McLeod, D. D., J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. H. Storer, and James H. Hays.

Trustees of Theological Seminary—Revs. J. H. Storer, J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. N. McLeod, D. D., J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. H. Storer, and James H. Hays.

Trustees of Theological Seminary—Revs. J. H. Storer, J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. N. McLeod, D. D., J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. H. Storer, and James H. Hays.

Trustees of Theological Seminary—Revs. J. H. Storer, J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. N. McLeod, D. D., J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. H. Storer, and James H. Hays.

Trustees of Theological Seminary—Revs. J. H. Storer, J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. N. McLeod, D. D., J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. H. Storer, and James H. Hays.

Trustees of Theological Seminary—Revs. J. H. Storer, J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. N. McLeod, D. D., J. C. Douglas, D. D., J. H. Storer, and James H. Hays.