-Rub off all the sprouts upon the stocks which you have set with grafts this spring. It will help to push along the growth of the scion. Not unfrequently grafts, after they have started, die for want of sap from the parent stem to sustain them.

-The trees tran planted this spring should be mulched as soon as the ground becomes anything. Don't put around the tree too much at a time, and repeat the mulch, when it gets dry and thin. Remove it once or twice during the summer, and stir up the ground well, then replace it. It will save the many a tree, if the season should be bet and dry. For this purpose grass is as good as anything. Don't put around the tree too much at a time, and repeat the mulch when many a tree, if the season should be hot and dry, which we think this season will be. Your raspberry and blackberry beds should also be well mulched. Any quantishould also be wen mutched. Any quanti-ty of dry stuff about a place, especially leaves, scrapings, &c., will do. An appli-cation of the contents of a hot bed is very beneficial.

-A few radish seed planted around your canteloupe hills will ordinarily protect the vine against the striped bug. This danger-ouse enemy of the melon prefers the radish be done after a rain, or the ground from which they are taken and whither they are put should be thoroughly moistened. -Radishes always do better when planted in new ground, or at least ground where they have not heretofore been. Old gar-dens are the worst places in the world for radishes. You will rarely obtain any sound ones. Clay mixed with the old soil vitalizes it greatly and will produce good radishes. -Tomatoes, egg and cabbage plants, after being set out, generally become somewhat wilted in their leaves, and lose some of them from the effects of the sun before they become established. This can be prevented by setting over the plant, say from eight or nine to four or five o'clock in the day, boxes in the shape of cones about fourteen inches in height, open at the top. They also proect the plants against frost. By the use of

In the morning stir in three or four eggs, a little saleratus and a cup of sour milk, so as to leave it thin enough to pour out of a pan; bake three-quarters of an hour, and you will have large, rich, honey-comb cakes; and with a good cup of coffee and sweet butter at breakfast, one finds with Hamlet "increase of appetite to grow with what it feeds on."

about hog damages, wants his pasture root-ed all over, wants his young lambs or poul-try killed, or wants the largest possible amount of pork from a single hog, cost what it will, I recommend him to try some other kind. There is one other advantage with the Suffolks; they are always ready for the butcher, keeping themselves continually fat and clean, never wallowing in the watering places, even in the hottest of weather to the annoyance of cattle. Making pens for my breeding sows near my potato patch, last year, I made my young pigs of great service in helping my tirkeys destroy the po-tato bugs, and yet doing no mischief. They certainly make the least offal of any other kind, an important consideration when hogs are kept near the house. J. WENTWORTH. CHICAGO, April 25, 1860.—From the Prairie Farmer.
