David Robinson, Martin Saiter, John Smithy. Judge Stowe delivered the usual charge, briefly referring to the duties which would devolve upon the grand jury, and the man-ner in which their Investigations should be conducted. During the course of his re-marks His Honor referred to the charges of follow upon which the jury would be of felony upon which the jury would be called upon to pass, and stated that in cases where the bill was ignored they had no right to impose the cost upon the prosecu-tor. In cases, however, where they were of the opinion that the prosecutor should pay the costs, they could note the fact upon the indictment, and the Court would refuse to allow any costs to be taxed against the county for the prosecutor's fees as a wit-ness. The Court also called particular at-ness. The Court also called particular at-tention to the charges of larceny by ballee and false pretenses, now so frequently insti-tuted, and directed the jurors to examine closely each case coming before them. The law had been greatly abused by parties for private purposes, and frequently used as a means for collecting mere debts where no criminal offense had been committed. His Honor directed that the bills be impored in Honor directed that the bills be ignored in all cases where the charge was not fully made out by the evidence

Coroner's Inquest.

An accident occurred Saturday afternoon in Hays' Coal Works, at Six MSo Ferry, resulting fatally to William Defour, a coal miner. He was at work in the pit, when a heavy piece of "horseback," becoming detached from the roof, fell upon bim, killing him instantly. Coroner Clawson held an inquest on the remains yesterday, and a verdict of accidental death was rendered. The deceased was a Frenchman, fifty-six years of age; and leaves a wife and two grown up sons. He had been employed as a coal digger for nearly thirty years. He was suspected of having participated in the riot at O'Neih's works, and officers had arrived to arrest him, with others, when they learned of his death.

A Peculiar Case .- Mrs. M. J. Reed, of Birmingham, made information before Al. Birmingham, made information before Al. deman McMasters, charging her sister-in-law, Mrs. M. E. Green, with obtaining boarding under false pretence She alleges. that the accused came to her house some time since and obtained boarding repre-senting that she had $500 in bank, and upon these representations she was furnish-ed with board and lodgings until the bill amounted to $140. Mrs. Green denies the allegation, and says that she came from Kentucky to visit her sister-in-law, and Kentucky to visit her sister-in-law, and that there was nothing said about boarding investment of capital.
