ANNIVERSARY.

Annual Meeting of the Allegheny Prison Reform Association—Interesting Address.

The Allegheny County Prison Society, which was organized in the spring of 1866, held its first public anniversary meeting, last night in the Fifth Street Methodist Church. There was quite a large and respectable audience of ladies and gentlemen present, but the attendance was by no means worthy the importance and character of the occasion. Doubtless many of our good Christian friends remained away because of the unauthoritative announcement made in a contemporary journal that a collector would be taken up to enable the prison society to prosecute to diligently prosecute the holy cause in which it has entered; but all such will regret that they needlessly deprived themselves of the pleasure of participating in one of the most interesting and instructive anniversary meetings ever held in our city, inasmuch as no pecuniary aid was invited. After the exercises, in the artistic manner for which the choir of that Church is celebrated, a grand old hymn, and the sweet and melodious voices being supported by the mammoth organ, the meeting adjourned. The selection of Major William Frew as Chairman. An eloquent appeal to the Throne of Grace was made by the Association, and its aims and purposes were explained. On assuming the Chair, Maj. Frew delivered a brief and appropriate address, in which he expressed the liveliest hope that the Association in which he had enlisted might prosper. He said that the meeting had been drawn together in order for the first time in public to make Christians acquainted with the operations of a Society that has devoted its merciful attentions to a downfallen class of our brethren that had hitherto been almost entirely ignored by the charitable, and who were never made to experience the beneficent influence of well directed philanthropy. We should not drive out from the warm sympathy of the Church in which we are gathered, but fall from the path of virtue when exposed to temptation, for had we been as pure and free from guilt as ourselves, Christian charity should go out towards all men, and especially towards those who are in the hands of Satan. The speaker narrated in a pleasing manner how a few active, industrious, energetic, faithful and charitable persons in the good cause of prison reform had followed the work, silently, vigorously, without hope of earthly reward, and through whose exertions, under God, many have been restored from vice and immorality to ornament society, who otherwise might have lingered in the darkness of crime and ignominy. The objects of the Association are first and primarily to ameliorate the physical condition of the prisoners to correct abuses in the system of managements wherever found. In no place will oppression grow more rapidly than in places of imprisonment. Men in positive confinement, under the outcast of society naturally become tyrannical in their disposition, for meeting with so many ferocious individuals they come to regard all in the same light, become tyrants and oppressors. It is to correct this evil, to use after the hygienic of prison to provide for the wants of inmates, to take measure to secure the rights of the unfortunate, and surrounding them with moral and intellectual influences to effect lasting reformation of character. Heretofore the fact has been lost sight of that the law compels reform as well as punishment. It is through the exertion of such noble associations as the Allegheny County Prison Association, that the most interesting incidents of his experience are being recorded, and concluded by exhibiting to tend their sympathies and prayers in the good cause, Christian men and women should not permit criminals to tend their sympathies for in their dingy cells, but should go into them, preach the gospel truth, and they will show how much power there is in kindness. Obtain their spirit of revenge, make them acknowledge the justice of their punishment, submit to it humbly, and they will come out reformed to live honest, virtuous, upright lives, where otherwise, if neglected, unfortunately they might become more depraved from their association in prison, and on gaining liberty plunge deeper into sin and iniquity. The Christian heart is wanted to extend sympathy. If neglected, it will do nothing but withhold encouragement and sympathy. In the work set forward we do not know where good will end. We do not know how many souls may be saved and saved. One of the most beautiful and touching remarks of our Saviour was "When I was sick and in prison you came unto me." Let us look kindly and in a Christian spirit on those who have fallen from grace, and if there is a work worthy our warmest sympathies it is that which the Association whose anniversary is celebrated.

Mr. McLaughlin, the prison agent of the Association, was the next speaker. He fully explained the workings of the Association, the good it had already effected, the reforms it had followed in its operations, and its future hopes, plans and projects. He stated that the Judges of the Court, the Prison Inspectors, and the officers of the jail and penitentiary fully appreciated the good work of the Association and lent a helping hand when desired. A library has been organized in the jail and in the penitentiary, and on getting regularly with intellectual and religious food, and to thus do away with gambling and card-playing, hitherto so prevalent in those quarters.

Rev. W. H. Locke was next introduced to the audience. He said that it seemed to him that the Society had performed in work with so little show that the people were hardly aware of its existence. While all of its beneficial workings had been quietly carried on, he felt that it was now time to use efforts to make the community acquainted with its good works. The speaker held that it is one of the greatest signs of the times that religion is finding its way into new and hitherto secluded avenues for doing good, and that the Association should be congratulated over the fact that it has been organized during the best term of its existence. Sympathy has been called for, and during the same period the people of alleviating and caring for the unfortunate were not forgotten, and the speaker was warmly received. He stated that the speaker was warmly received. He stated that the speaker was warmly received.

This holy work, and that great and lasting benefits might result from the operations of the Association.

Another excellent vocal exhibition by the choir here followed after which Rev. J. B. Clark, of Allegheny, was introduced. He paid a high tribute to the Association, and expressed himself as opposed to the system of solitary confinement in vogue in this State, which he believed worked more evil than good. He cited a great reformer now going on in the Nashville Penitentiary, who the chaplain was privileged to form his Sabbath School, and who, in his conversation of convicts assembled before him to hear the gospel. In our Penitentiary it is impossible to effect much good by preaching, since the hearers are shut out from the view of the preacher. The reverend speaker hoped the Society would meet with sympathy on all sides and every lover of reformation should be shut out from the view of the preacher. The reverend speaker back to the path of virtue should meet with sympathy on all sides and every lover of reformation should be shut out from the view of the preacher.

Rev. J. G. Brown next addressed the meeting, making a very eloquent and earnest appeal for the Association and narrating his experiences as a member thereof. He paid a just tribute to Messrs. Carlisle and Orr, who were among the originators of the Society, and concluded by a vote of thanks to the meeting and to the speakers. He then read a list of names of persons who had been pardoned from the penitentiary, and who were now engaged in various occupations, and who were now engaged in various occupations, and who were now engaged in various occupations.

On motion of Mr. W. N. Ogden, a vote of thanks was returned to the speakers, and the meeting adjourned. The meeting was a most interesting and instructive one, and it is hoped that it will result in a more general acquaintance with the operations of the Association, and that it will result in a more general acquaintance with the operations of the Association, and that it will result in a more general acquaintance with the operations of the Association.
