THE Mouse of Representatives has refused to accede to an application from a New York and Bremen line of steamships, for a force, but they lead us to deplore still more subsidy from the Treasury.

Ir is becoming evident that the bills for the admission of the reconstructed States, when they shall be vetoed by the President. will have a hard time to secure the twothirds wote of the Senate.

WE sympathize with the orphaned Democracy of Allegheny. Their Convention, adjourning yesterday, left them without a ticket, without principles, and, as the result will prove, without friends.

Attorney General and REVERDY JOHNSON for the English Mission. Mr. GROPSBECK that he might have done worse

It is perhaps unnecessary to say that their State Convention also resolved at Nashville on Tuesday against the reconstruction policy of Congress and in favor of State rights.

Thanks for the avowal; it was candid, but it was the heighth of indiscretion. It is a fair warning to you, workingmen, and you, sore-headed Republicans, (if there be any, which we doubt,) that you are to be used for the benefit of the Democracy. How do you like this declaration that you are to be merely the tools to promote Copperhead interests? Reflect upon it!

WE ARE glad to be assured, upon very eliable authority, that the Southern Pacific Railway Company is not involved in the owerful combination said to be on foot at Washington, for securing immense subsidies from Congress for various railroad and steamship lines. We are also reminded that this company, in its application for further of the officers of sixty rallway companies, and that the grant is recommended by the highest military authority, for the convenience of that arm of the service, and as a matter of absolute economy to the treasury. I first, to reach the control of the State gov would regard such a consummation as being ernment by their aid, and then to proceed to disfranchise them by amending the contained to more than I ever hoped, and with stitutions. This suggestion appears in the position I now hold in the regular army, the principal Southern journals, such as the the principal Southern journals, such as the Whig and the Enquirer of Richmond, is sentiment, or the expression of a thought, adroitly countenanced by the New York with a view of being a candidate for office. This platform is to be commended at the North as the sure way of securing the votes of the South, and at the South as a trap to be sprung as soon as the rebel Democracy are restored to power. In both sections, it is commended to the support of the shrewder and more unscrupulous partizan by an accompanying declaration of the absolute control of the respective States, each for themselves, over the suffrage question. This will reconcile the Northern Democracy, and will effectively sustain the Southern project for a future amendment of their constitutions. The plan is certainly a plausible one and, if generally accepted, will promote the aspirations of Mr. CHASE at New York. He has the undisputed, exclusive right, the first "call" for any profits to result from the new dodge with which he is the only candidate to be identified.

This sort of thing will go down pretty well with the masses of the Democracy. They are, most of them, in the habit of swallowing, with their eyes shut, any preparations which their leaders approve. No question of principle, no regard for consistency, no fidelity to the purer doctrines of their earlier days, have embarrassed their Conventions of late years, or been suffered to stand in the way of considerations of temporary expediency. If the New York Convention throws the dogma of a "white man's government" overboard, it will be for the sole purpose of conducting the canvass upon the platform above indicated.

I never had a silver card-waiter in my life. I never used such language as he alleges, to any human being who called on me, man, woman, citizen or soldier. Nor is there a single fair or just man at my home, of any party (I do not include in this the editor of the Union), who believes that I could or would, reply to any soldier who called on me that "I had no time to fool away with soldiers." Many Indiana soldiers know that, at that very time, I was spending one day each week in visiting the soldiers at the hospitals, and, in addition thereto, attending to their business at the departments. It is shameful that political opposition should induce the manufacture and publication of such vile fabrications. SCHUYLER COLFAX.

The real motive which actuates the more voring the nomination of Chief Justice Chase, is to get rid of the black record the party has made the past twenty years. His nomination would be equivalent to abanparty has made the past twenty years. His doning every principle the party has advocated the past twenty years. In each successive campaign, these leaders see, they have made more stunid and criminal blow ders, until during the war they absolutely covered themselves with political iniquity. The nomination of Chief Justice Chase would be a confession that their past course has been all wrong. Knowing that the result of the present campaign is already set-tled against them, their leaders are looking to solid reconstruction for the future, so that, with the new movements which shall follow the complete rehabilitation of the Southern States, they may be rid of every incubus, and start on an equal footing with the Republican party. Coming in at the eleventh hour, and when the work is all done, they will claim the full reward of life-long devotion to freedom, equality and union, and think that the whitewash of the Chief Justice will have rendered them clean. The movement for the nomination of Mr. Chase is simply a movement toward silencing, at once and forever, the men who are Democrats because they believe in it, in the interest of those who wish to use party as a means to obtain public plunder.—Albany Evening Journal.
